FHA Stops Financing Covenant Housing

New Policy Rules Out Racial Curbs For Homes

Veterans Agency Due to Fall in Line; Storm of Protest Raised in South

A Federal Government policy denying FHA home financing to any "racially restricted properties" was announced yesterday by United States Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman.

Promptly affirmed in a companion announcement by President Truman from Key West, the policy was announced at a meeting in New York City of the New York State Committee on Discrimination in Housing.

At the same time, Perlman said steps are being taken by the Veterans' Administration to amend GI home-loan regulations to conform with the FHA policy.

While most Washington housing leaders reserved comment on the policy statement, Southern builders and bankers broke out in a storm of protest over the announcement.

Effective Date Not Set

Effective date of the new policy has not been definitely set, but is expected to be within 60 to 90 days.

FHA, which insures loans on between 30 and 35 percent of all residential mortgage operations, must change its rules to prohibit financing of properties to be covered by racial covenants.

"The Federal Housing Administration is amending its rules so as to refuse to aid the financing of any properties, the occupancy or use of which is restricted on the basis of race or creed or color," Perlman said.

A racial covenant is an agreement entered into by a property holder that he will not permit the premises to be occupied by a person of any race except that specified in the covenant, and that he will not sell the property to a person other than of that race.

There was much confusion over the extent of the new policy. Some Southern housing officials appeared to think it meant a ban on racial segregation in public housing projects built with Federal funds.

But a spokesman for Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance Agency administrator, explained that the new rule does not require an end to racial segregation either in public housing projects or in private apartment houses and homes.

Doesn't Affect Public Housing

He said the regulation will leave unchanged present policy on public housing, which requires fair distribution of funds so minority groups get a share but permits local authorities to decide whether

Ex-Navy Man, 82, Seeks License to Marry Cousin, 78

An 82-year-old Washingtonian, who has spent more than half his life in the Navy, yesterday applied for a license to marry his 78-year-old distant cousin.

William A. Cable, Lieut., USN (ret.) said he plans to marry Eva C. Abbott "in a quiet ceremony" at his home, 4801 Nebraska ave. nw. Both have been married before.

Cable said Mrs. Abbott had been "taking care" of him since the death of his daughter some time ago, and that they had simply decided to get married.

He told reporters that he lived in Washington for the last 40 years and had managed the Elks Club in Washington for 13 years after he retired from the Navy. He said his first wife had died in Puerto Rico many years ago.

Who Is Responsible for Costello? People? Cities? Uncle Sam?

(Last of a Series)

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

It is the quaint practice in this democratic land, with its traditional scorn for the trappings of royalty, to award crowns and scepters to those who are least admired: the leaders of the underworld.

Thus, Frank Costello is proclaimed "King of the Slot Machines," and monarch, also, in other shadowy fields. He reigns, so it is said, over a vast empire of crime.

Costello says all this is rot. Then, reversing the usual order of things, he offers a fat reward to anybody who can show it to be otherwise.

But let it be supposed that Costello really is an all-powerful and sinister No. 1, a man whose "syndicate" reaches all over the United States and spends millions to topple local officials who get in his way.

Whose, then, is the responsibility for bringing this man to book? Is it that of the Federal Government or that of the local community?

Actually, it is a responsibility that has to be shared.

However, there is a feeling among some Federal officials here that the problem is primarily a local one, and has to be dealt with as such.

There is a suspicion, also, that local officials are trying to shed their responsibility and create a mass impression that the job is one for Uncle Sam.

This happened before, in the days of prohibition, but the Federal Government had one thing

Nation's Mayors Warned Of Costellos and Lazias

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 2 (U.P.)—A resolution seeking organization of a "syndicate of cities" to combat a "syndicate of crime" was being drafted today by a group of aroused mayors at the American Municipal Association meeting.

They were spurred by today's report from Virgil Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, who told delegates "there is a working alliance between the underworlds of various cities." He called the underworld "a billion dollar industry."

Peterson, former FBI agent, mentioned Frank Costello and New York City among examples of cities where he said gangsters made efforts to control local governments.

"The underworld works together," Peterson said. "There is a working alliance between the underworlds of various cities. Costello, for example, says he operates only where he is tolerated.

"But in order to be tolerated, he must be allied with someone in power. He must be able to dictate the law enforcement policies wherever he operates."

Peterson said the underworld figures contribute to political campaigns in order to make politicians obligated to them in the naming of men to key positions in government.

"For instance, it has been known that in certain cities they named the head of the police department," he explained.

"Costello has his cohorts all over the country—

Fiscal Policy Stirs Eccles, Snyder Row

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder and Federal Reserve Board Member Marriner S. Eccles, once again engaging in a "'tis so-'tis not" controversy over Federal fiscal policy, have been lined up to slug it out in person.

The battle-royal, no-holds-barred session will be a private one, without press or spectators, staged before a subgroup of the Congressional committee on the Economic Report, sometime next week.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Thomas B. McCabe will also be a participant, probably somewhere in the middle.

When the Congressional subcommittee chairman, Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), arranged for the match yesterday he smacked his lips and observed:

"For the first time since I was elected to be a Senator, I expect to get some fun out of my job."

Eccles Letter, Snyder Appear

The current episode of the long-time Snyder-Eccles saga began yesterday when Snyder appeared as a witness before Douglas' subcommittee, which is studying Federal money, fiscal and debt problems.

By a not very curious coincidence, just as Snyder was testifying, mimeographed copies of a letter from Eccles to Douglas appeared on the press tables. It was sharply critical of Treasury policy.

The issue, a complex one, relates to the policy under which the Federal Reserve System undertakes to purchase all issues of Government bonds which are not bought up by anyone else. As a result of this assured market, Snyder has been able to issue Federal securities at a very low interest rate, saving the taxpayers many billions of dollars, since the carrying charges of the huge Federal debt have thus been kept low.

Clash With Reserve Function

So far, so good, Eccles argues. But, he adds, the effect of this has been virtually to end a highly important function of the Federal Reserve, and one for which it has legal responsibility. It is to influence credit policy, restricting the expansion of cheap credit in inflationary periods, and making credit easy in depression times.

If Treasury bond interest is kept low by the Federal Reserve's purchases, other interest, on commercial loans, stays low. Commercial banks, meantime, can always sell their Government's bonds to the Federal Reserve and thus have no trouble meeting their reserve requirements, and expanding credit at will.

This is bad business, Eccles says, in a period when inflation may be threatening.

Tail to Treasury Dog

In his letter to Douglas, he said the Treasury "has had a long time general easy-money bias under almost any and all circumstances." And, he indicated, what the Treasury says goes. The Federal Reserve has not been able to exercise its functions independently; it has been a tail to the Treasury dog.

Snyder had just completed reading a statement to the subcommittee, in which he argued that the low interest rate on Government bonds was essential, when Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), read to

Planes We Gave Reds Carried U. S. Secrets

By The Associated Press

A former Army officer said last night Russian couriers carried secret documents from the United States to Russia in Lend-Lease planes during the war.

Russia was an ally of this country and Britain during that conflict.

Interviewed by Fulton Lewis on the radio (MBS), the man identified himself as G. Racey Jordan of New York. He said he was a captain assigned at Great Falls, Mont., in January, 1943, when United States planes were flown from there to Fairbanks, Alaska, and thence to Moscow.

He became suspicious, he said, when Russian officers leaving on the planes carried "ever-increasing amounts of baggage." He made a search, Jordan said, which uncovered State Department documents, blueprints and maps, engineering drawings and scientific data.

In one suitcase, he said, "there was a letter on White House stationery which impressed me because it had the name Harry Hopkins printed in the upper left-hand corner. I jotted down part of the message—it said: 'Had a hell of a time getting these away from Groves.' And it was signed with the initials HH."

Harry Hopkins, who was high in Government circles for several years during the time Franklin D. Roosevelt was President, died several years ago.

Lewis interrupted Jordan to ask him if Gen. Leslie Groves was head of the Manhattan engineering district project. That was the code name for the entire operation through which the atomic bomb was secretly developed during the war.

Jordan replied that he knew now that Groves did head that project.

There was no confirmation tonight from any official source of the story told by Jordan. However, Lewis said he and his staff had been checking the story for two months.

Jordan said he made a search of some of the rope-bound suitcases over the protests of the Russians.

"They were screaming about diplomatic immunity and I said that so far as I was concerned there was no diplomatic immunity on the stuff, and one by one I began breaking the wax seals and ripping the ropes off and opening them up," Jordan said.

Lewis asked Jordan to tell what he saw in the suitcases destined for Moscow.

"Well, for one thing," Jordan said, "there was a tremendous

Ward, Staff Are to Quit Mukden by Wednesday

Ordered Out by Reds, Party Will Travel by Way of Tientsin; Ships Moving There

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

The Communist municipal government at Mukden has agreed at last to let Consul General Angus Ward leave for home, together with all the non-Chinese members of his staff and their families.

A message from Ward, relayed to the State Department yesterday, said the Communists had told him he must leave within 48 hours after 8 a. m. Monday, China time, or 7 p. m. Sunday by Eastern standard time.

Ward reported he and his staff would travel by way of Tientsin, where three American merchant ships are expected between December 6 and December 20. The State Department expects the group to go to Tientsin by train.

Journey Takes Three Days

As the 700-mile journey normally takes three days by the usual slow Chinese trains, Ward probably will not reach the coast until the end of the week, and may have to wait there several days until a ship arrives to bring him home.

He is under instructions to report to Washington as soon as possible, as officials here are eager to get his story and to learn at first-hand about conditions in Communist-controlled Manchuria.

The news of his exit permit ended long suspense in the State Department, where officials feared the Communists would delay his departure for weeks or months. Even now a hitch is possible. The American military attache in Nanking, Brig. Gen. Robert B. Soule, is still waiting for an exit permit after two months.

But Ward's message suggested that the Mukden authorities were being cooperative, for it said that they had permitted a local company to handle the packing and transportation of personal belongings.

May Go to Yokohama

Ward himself had written the Communist Mayor asking for definite word by today (Saturday) about his transportation arrangements.

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said the department would try to get Ward and his party to Yokohama, Japan, although their first stop after Tientsin may be the port of Fushun, in American-controlled southern Korea.

The consulate staff at Mukden consists of 13 Americans and clerks, together with several Euro-

District Held Not the 'City Of Big Fix'

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

The notion of Washington as the "City of the Big Fix" is "nonsense," an official of one of the leading public relations firms said here yesterday.

"Radio commentators, the movies and some columnists have portrayed a huge, mysterious, bureaucratic labyrinth on the banks of the Potomac, where nothing can be done simply or directly," William Wight, vice president of Carl Byoir and Associates, told the fourth annual meeting of the American Public Relations Association at the Washington Hotel.

To rid it of this "misconception," he said, would be "the greatest service the public relations fraternity in Washington can do for American business."

"Nothing Mysterious"

"There is nothing mysterious about Washington," Wight, whose firm handles such accounts as A. and P., B. F. Goodrich, Howard Hughes and the Schenley industries, went on to say. It is just that some people try to make it seem so.

"Unscrupulous influence peddlers," he charged, "have taken advantage of this prevalent misconception to persuade clients and prospective clients from among American businessmen that they have no chance to present their problem to the executive branch of the Government or to Congress without the aid of some 'cloak-and-whisper' go-between.'

"They have magnified out of all proportion the red tape in Washington."

Actually, he declared, "the magic they sell requires nothing more than ability to spin a telephone dial."

Peddler a "Pest"

"The fact is that the overwhelming majority of Congressmen and Government officials regard the influence peddler as an unmitigated pest," he asserted.

Also, said Wight, who heads his firm's Washington office, "the businessman who hires a Washington 'fixer' assumes a colossal risk."

"He is the one who gets hurt—not the 'fixer.'" Wight said. "In many cases the advice given is bad. Because they are unwelcome and resented by Government bureaus and members of Congress, these 'influence peddlers' are frequently unable to go to sources open to

Barkley Hits 'Tree Sitters' Who Fear 'Welfare State'

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Vice President Barkley tonight challenged all "tree-sitters and hitching post devotees" who fear the "welfare state."

And he forecast Democratic victories for years to come over the forces who see "Uncle Sam as a complacent old gentleman sitting astride the dome of the Capitol drawing his salary and doing nothing."

The 72-year-old Vice President interrupted his Georgia honeymoon to speak at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner of the Democratic National Committee.

Mrs. Barkley accompanied him. Many members of President Truman's Cabinet and other prominent Democrats were in the audience of 2500 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

A message from President Truman read at the dinner referred to the elections last month in New York and said that "again the people have spoken and in unmistakable voice registered their confidence in the leadership of the Democratic Party."

The Chief Executive's message added:

"With this new mandate we shall go forward with greater strength and courage to complete the task before us. We shall be inspired, as always, by our long and glorious history.

"But we shall remember always in this hour of victory that the Democratic Party is not and never had been an end to itself. Our

Boykin's Tenant Freed in Demise Of Brutal Bruin

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 2 (U.P.)—Judge Tisdale J. Touart ruled today the now famous "Boykin bear" was a pest that destroyed beehives, and its killing was justified.

Touart freed Beekeeper A. L. Webb, jr., of charges of killing protected game out of season, holding that "you have a right to protect your property as well as your life."

Representative Frank Boykin (D., Ala.) goes on trial next Friday on charges of having the same bear in his refrigerator. Webb killed it on Boykin's game preserve and presented the carcass to his landlord. Boykin intended to serve it at one of his famous Washington dinners, but game wardens confiscated the bear and gave it to City Hospital to serve to charity patients. Boykin was charged with possessing game killed out of season.

'Hill' Counsel Criticizes Milk Rules Here

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Washington's milk regulations contain "ridiculous rules that act as barriers to trade," Paul E. Hadlick, counsel for Iowa Senator Guy M. Gillette's price probe committee, charged yesterday.

Hadlick urged Philip E. Nelson, chief of the Agriculture Department's Dairy Branch, a witness before the Senate Agriculture Department subcommittee, to "do something to give the District of Columbia a proper sanitary code."

He suggested that a model code be set up in the District to be used as a standard for other communities in the country.

Among the rules in the District milk code to which Hadlick objected was one requiring that samples of pasteurization be submitted to the Washington Health Department every 24 hours.

He pointed out that a farmer "say in San Francisco, who wanted to sell in the Washington market, couldn't meet that requirement unless he airmailed his sample every day."

"That's not a true sanitary regulation," he said. "That's a bar to trade."

Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, District Health Officer, later told a reporter milk producers are not required to submit samples. Instead, he said, Health Department inspec-

Truman to Get Plan Soon

Atlantic Pact Arms Shipments Scheduled to Start About Jan. 1

Secretary Louis Johnson returned from Paris yesterday with the newly drafted Western Europe defense plan under which the United States will spend a billion dollars to help rearm her North Atlantic Allies.

Soon after the plan is approved by President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, American tanks, guns and other weapons will start flowing overseas. The first shipment is scheduled for about January 1.

Johnson said he would fly the plan to the President's vacation retreat at Key West, Fla., for approval, if Mr. Truman wishes. Congress stipulated, in approving the arms aid, that 100 million dollars would be made available immediately but the remainder only after the integrated defense scheme had a presidential okay.

The program—an advance warning to Russia against aggressive moves in western Europe — was devised by the top military strategists of the United States and the other 11 security pact nations.

Johnson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, both said the conference was "very successful."

Informed sources said the top-secret plan gives the United States the primary responsibility for strategic bombing, both atomic and conventional, if one of her allies is attacked.

Britain, France and any other pact nations close to the invasion scene would be responsible for short-range bombings and air defenses.

The United States and Britain would be responsible for general naval operations, with the aid of France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Each pact nation would have to defend its own ports and coastline.

The European nations led by France would supply the mass armies necessary to cope with the first attack. Other pact nations would rush reinforcements as fast as they could mobilize.

The United States would provide a large share—but by no means most—of the equipment required to bring their armies to a strength deemed sufficient to cope with an invasion.

All the plans have been drafted in terms of a possible Russian attack.

Each nation receiving arms will be required to sign a formal agreement. Of the eight agreements now being negotiated, only one is ready for signing. Two others are expected to be completed soon.

Negotiations started yesterday on the other five and they are expected to be signed within two weeks.

Army and AF To Investigate Guard Bureau

A joint investigation of the National Guard Bureau was ordered by the Army and Air Force last night.

Secretary of the Army Gray and Secretary of the Air Force Symington ordered their inspectors general to get at the facts in the controversy that has raged recently in the bureau's high command.

A short time ago Maj. Gen. K. F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau, angrily relieved Maj. Gen. G. G. Finch as chief of its Air Force division. Cramer withdrew this action subsequently, but reports of differences between the two men have persisted.

The joint investigation is expected, among other things, to go into the basic question of whether the United States Air Force or State Guard officials should exert chief control over the Air National Guard.

The officers who will make the joint investigation are Maj. Gen. Louis A. Craig, inspector general of the Army, and Lieut. Gen. Howard A. Craig, inspector general of the Air Force.

The Defense Department's announcement of the inquiry said it

Women Tell All To 'Kinsey's Man,' Find He's a Fake

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 2 (U.P.)—Somewhere in the West today there walks a man who knows more about the sex life of some women than their husbands.

He's the imposter who posed as a researcher for Dr. A. C. Kinsey, author of "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male." The phoney researcher telephoned so many women and asked them so many intimate questions that the matter came to the attention of the Better Business Bureau.

The questions were so intimate that a blushing secretary of the bureau refused to pass along the details to her boss, and one woman victim said the fake "doctor" knew "things about me that I've never dared tell my husband."

"He seemed awfully scientific and sounded just like a doctor. But I finally hung up on him when he asked if . . . well, it was the last straw," she gasped.

U. N. Upholds World Inquiry Into Colonies

By Peter Kihss

New York, Dec. 2 (NYHT).—The United Nations General Assembly today turned down British, French and Belgian complaints it was going illegally beyond the U. N. Charter and adopted 10 resolutions aiming to broaden the U. N. role in colonial affairs.

A special Assembly committee to examine colonial powers' reports was extended for three more years and instructed to concentrate on studying educational progress next year. The colonial powers were urged to submit data on political advances, with a plan to make this eventually compulsory.

And the U. N.'s specialized agencies were asked to look into a series of basic problems, including economic development, soil erosion, health, labor, social welfare and housing.

62 Territories Involved

The program involves 62 territories, with nearly 200 million inhabitants under control of the United States, Australia, Denmark, the Netherlands and New Zealand, as well as Britain, France and Belgium.

Seventy-five million of these soon are to attain independence from the Netherlands through the new United States of Indonesia. The only colonial nations outside the U. N. are Spain and Portugal.

With Britain, France and Belgium serving notice they would defy those proposals they deemed in violation of the Charter, Raoul Noriega of Mexico sharply reminded the trio that only the day before they had indorsed an American-British resolution on "essentials of peace."

Resolution Asks Cooperation

The peace resolution—aimed chiefly at Soviet and Communist policies—had asked all U. N. members, Noriega observed, "to cooperate in good faith with complying with the objectives of the Charter, in promoting respect for the dignity of the human person, and in making it possible for all peoples to attain higher and better standards of living."

Both Noriega and B. Shiva Rao of India, warned that noncompliance might cause serious repercussions in the territories involved. Noriega suggested the colonial powers should take up any legal

Lewis Again Bars Dawson; Mine Welfare Fund Tied Up

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Miners' Welfare Fund, its benefits suspended since mid-September, yesterday became something of a legal mummy wrapped up in red tape.

For the second time in a fortnight, John L. Lewis, who is the employe member and chairman of the board of trustees of the fund, refused to recognize former Judge Charles I. Dawson of Louisville, Ky., as the employer trustee.

Dawson, a chunky lawyer with bristling eyebrows that match those of Lewis, in turn refused to recognize John L.'s refusal to recognize him.

The former Federal jurist notified employes of the fund that any action taken in violation of any resolution for which he and any other trustee voted, would be taken "at their own peril." The threat referred to a vote on November 21 by Dawson and the neutral trustee, Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) ordering suspension of all payments from the fund.

John L. Lewis, however, refused then—as he did yesterday— to recognize Dawson as a trustee and has continued the payment of $400,000 in monthly cash benefits to 795 emergency medical cases.

All but emergency benefits were suspended in mid-September by the trustees to keep the fund from running into the red. At the time, Bridges and Ezra Van Horn, of Cleveland, then representing the operator as trustee, would not permit the spending of money accumulating in the fund after July 1, until the operators and the

U. N. Group Asks 55 Millions To Rehabilitate Arab Refugees

Lake Success, Dec. 2 (NYHT).—The United Nations embarked on a new phase today when the special political committee of the General Assembly approved by 48 to 0, with 6 abstentions, a far-reaching plan which starts with an expense of 55 million dollars in the next 18 months to supply employment for several hundred thousand Arab war refugees in the Near East.

The programs, funds for which will be donated by U. N. members, with the United States contributing perhaps up to half of the net total, is designed to take the Arabs off direct relief and put them to work on projects of irrigation, forestation, conservation and road bulding.

A special U. N. mission, headed by Gordon R. Clapp, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, recommended this formula to the U. N. in a preliminary report.

The Arab states voted for the relief program today, and will benefit from it through acquisition of conservation and construction projects. However, they insisted on the right of the refugees ultimately to return to their homes.

The new program creates an organ to be known as the U. N. Relief and Works Agency. It will be headed by a director who will be aided by an advisory board consisting of the United States, Turkey, Great Britain and France.

The six abstainers on today's ballot were South Africa, which said it had not received voting instructions from home, and the Soviet bloc.

U. N. direct relief for Palestine refugees has been feeding 940,000 persons daily.

Cotton Planting Ordered Cut To 21 Million Acres

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan yesterday ordered the Nation's 20 cotton growing States to cut their 1950 plantings enough to remain within a national goal of 21 million acres.

Some 26,380,350 acres of cotton were under cultivation last July 1.

While the allotments are intended to achieve an over-all reduction of 20 percent, some States were cut back more than 20 percent. Others got off easier.

Hardest hit are the Western States which have stepped up production sharply in the past few years. Virginia's acreage was cut from 32,000 to 28,352.

Stocks Reach Highest Prices In 13 Months

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Rapid-fire buying raised stock prices to their highest average in 13 months today.

Leading issues advanced a few cents to more than $2 a share. Railroad issues spearheaded the rise.

Trading was the fastest for any market session this year, with nearly two million shares changing hands. End of the coal strike was widely credited with sparking a surge of buying that started late yesterday.

Papers Never Sent To Hiss, Is Claim

New York, Dec. 2 (NYHT).—Defense counsel in the second perjury trial of Alger Hiss undertook today to show that many of the secret Government documents Hiss is accused of transmitting to a prewar Communist spy ring never reached Hiss' desk in the State Department.

Claude B. Cross, trial attorney for Hiss, began at 3.15 p. m. a cross-examination of Walter H. Anderson, chief of the State Department records branch. Anderson had been testifying about documents since 11:15 a. m. Thursday under direct examination by Assistant United States Attorney Thomas F. Murphy. Huge photographic enlargements of the alleged spy papers hung from a 7-foot easel for the jury's inspection.

Murphy made it clear by reading from them that all the spy papers—which had previously been produced by Whittaker Chambers from an envelope where he said they had lain hidden since 1938—were in some way related to the State Department documents brought to court by Anderson. Some were microfilm photographs, some verbatim copies, some notes and summaries. Cross did not contest the relationship between the spy papers and the original documents.

Unrelated, Clipped Together

He contended first that one batch of original documents, clipped together and introduced as a single exhibit, had not passed through the State Department as a single batch, and in fact were not related to each other. Anderson said that from the contents of the papers this appeared to be true, but he had no personal knowledge of how or when they came to be clipped together. Cross' point was that only one paper of the group bore an office date stamp showing that it had reached Hiss' desk; the others either were stamped by other offices on other dates, or bore no office stamp at all. Anderson agreed that this was true.

Cross then took up a second batch of papers, which involved the drafting of an aide-memoire to Germany. Under his questions Anderson testified that a German text, which appeared among the spy papers, was not marked with the office stamp where Hiss worked, while a translation, which did go to Hiss' office, did not appear in the spy papers. In this case the translation was not clipped to the German text.

Cross also showed that three of the spy papers were microfilm photographs of documents which showed no evidence of being in Hiss' office, although another copy of each of the documents had been in his office.

Rosen Waits to Be Called

The complexities of this situation were increased because Anderson referred to the documents only by name and date, while Cross and Murphy referred to them by the exhibit numbers assigned to them in court. Cross also used the term "report" for documents which Anderson recognized only as "dispatches." Most of the 75-minute cross-examination was devoted to attempts to make the two lawyers and the witness understand what each other was talking about.

Meanwhile William Rosen, whose name appears as the ultimate recipient of a Ford car about which Hiss and Chambers have told conflicting stories, waited in the witness room to be called. Rosen has on previous occasions refused to testify for fear of incriminating himself, and his attorney indicated today he would do the same again. It was understood the defense has objected to his appearance as a witness, and Judge Henry W. Goddard has not yet ruled. In the first trial, which ended in a hung jury on July 8, a similar defense objection was upheld by Judge Samuel H. Kaufman. At that time the Government was unable to locate Rosen.

'Mr. Herb' Trailed
Witness' Aid In Spy Traps Is Described

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
WILLIAM DISCH
. . . he helped the FBI

The House Committee on Un-American Activities yesterday heard the details of how a New York instrument dealer apparently helped the FBI trap a spy suspect trying to steal United States naval secrets back in 1931.

The short hearing was one of a series the committee said was called to obtain background information on Soviet espionage.

William M. Disch, 50-year-old Elmhurst, N. Y., draftsman, told the House spy hunters he believed the spy's trail led the FBI to the Amtorg Co. The Amtorg Co. is a Russian trading firm in the United States, established even before the United States recognized Russia diplomatically in 1933.

Disch said he met the spy in 1931 while Disch was employed by the Arma Co., of Brooklyn, which designed and manufactured navy gun stabilizers.

Disch told the committee the spy, whom he knew only as "Mr. Herb" was introduced to him by Mrs. Samuel Kantor, wife of a former employe of the firm.

Without comment, committee counsel Frank S. Tavenner noted that "Mr. Herb" was an alias for "Moische Stern."

"Mr. Herb," Disch related, asked for confidential information on the gun stabilizer equipment. Disch said he told the request to the president of the company and that an arrangment was promptly made for him to meet with "Mr. Herb" under the eyes of either the FBI or Naval Intelligence.

At each meeting, Disch said, he supplied "Mr. Herb" with carefully doctored dummy specifications for the stabilizer.

At each street corner meeting, Disch said "Mr. Herb" paid him from $100 to $200 for his information. The contacts, Disch testified, were at two-week intervals and ran nearly six months.

Once during the Spanish civil war, Disch said, he was again contacted by the FBI and asked to identify a picture of "Mr. Herb."

He said the agent told him "Mr. Herb" was reported to have been killed in Spain and commented, "But he'll pop up again under an assumed name somewhere else." Disch said the FBI said that was a usual trick of Communist agents.

At the opening of the hearing Tavenner said many Soviet espionage agents who worked in the United States may still be operating because they have not been publicly identified. He said it was hoped that full names will be brought out at later hearings.

Reds Helped in Strike, Bridges Trial Is Told

San Francisco, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Communist Party was given a boost and a couple of bumps today by a Government witness in the perjury trial of Harry Bridges.

The witness was Henry Schrimpf, former longshoreman, who knew Bridges during the days of the bitter general strike here in 1934.

Bridges is charged with falsely denying he was or ever had been a Communist when he received his naturalization papers in 1945. Two union aides of the CIO Longshore chief, J. R. Robertson and Henry Schmidt, are accused of conspiracy in aiding Bridges to gain his papers.

The boost came as Schrimpf testified about the strike, which the Communists have been accused in previous testimony of fomenting and leading.

He said: "I'd like to say that I don't regret their helping, excepting some of the policies they offered. We were a bunch of green men. Some of the men had never been in a strike before. We were fighting with great odds against us. Even today I have no regrets that such meetings took place. They (the Communists) did help in getting us what we got."

The "meetings" he referred to were during the strike.

The bumps were on two separate occasions.

Schrimpf said:

"Communist Party members are funny characters. They act like children sometimes. They get all hepped up over some important person in the party."

Defense Attorney James MacInnis said, "Now we're going to have the philosophy of this witness as part of the record. I move it be stricken from the record." The motion was denied by Judge George B. Haris.

MacInnis was more successful in his objection to a later statement and had it erased from the record, but not before the jury had heard it.

Schrimpf told of a meeting in which Norma Perry, a former secretary of Bridges, had been "disciplined" for being "too friendly" with Scotty Frater, then financial secretary of the Longshore Union and other people "not friendly" to the Communist Party.

"Why wasn't she to be friendly with Scotty Frater?" Government Prosecutor William Paisley asked.

The slow-spoken Schrimpf answered:

"Well, the Communist Party lives on a program of hate. If God himself should descend on this earth and the Communists didn't agree with him they'd tear him to pieces."

Molten Lava Streams Pour From Etna

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 2 (AP).—Masses of molten lava poured tonight from three new craters in the side of Mount Etna, Italy's highest volcano. At least two towns were endangered.

One of the lava streams flowed on a 600-foot front and was reported to be about 12 miles from Bronte, 18,000 population. The town of Maletto also was in the path of the mass moving at nearly two miles an hour.

The new craters burst on the side of the mountain about noon. Earlier, clouds of cinders and ashes spewed out, falling on Catania and villages on the lower slopes.

A second, slower flow of the fluid rock moved toward the town of Linguaglosso, population about 7000, and at last reports had reached a point about 15 miles away.

A third lava front inched toward Agrana, but was going so slowly it was not considered dangerous.

The three craters appeared at an altitude of 6000 feet on the 10,758-foot, snow-capped mountain and were about 4 miles apart. Three light earthquakes were felt during the day.

Forest fires started by hot cinders burned brightly on the slopes. Far below and in the path of the flows lies some of the most richly cultivated land in Sicily.

Falls Church Play Group Withdraws City Site Request

The Falls Church Community Players have withdrawn a request that the city give them a dollar-a-year lease on city property at Lincoln rd. and Great Falls st., for use as a playhouse site.

Lawrence Smith, chairman of the dramatic group's building committee, said yesterday the group informed Mayor Albert M. Orme of the withdrawal last Wednesday.

Objections by some residents in the site neighborhood, plus the possibility that a clause in the deed restricts the area to park use only, figured in the Players' decision, he explained. He said the group will continue its search for an appropriate site.

District's First Postwar Draftee to Stay in Army

Fort Bragg, N. C., Dec. 2 (U.P.)—Pfc. Charles A. Reese, 21, the first man to be taken by the postwar draft, said today he liked the Army and was going to stay in it.

Reese, of Washington, D. C., became eligible yesterday for separation. He said he wants to stay put at Fort Bragg where he works in the public information office.

He was a civilian chief clerk in the Pentagon's Army public information office in Washington last year.

Harry Darby Given Reed's Senate Seat

HARRY DARBY
. . . Gov. Carlson's choice

Topeka, Kans., Dec. 2 (AP).—Harry Darby, long a master politician but never a candidate, was named Kansas' new United States Senator today.

The handsome, hail-fellow-well-met steel manufacturer was chosen by Gov. Frank Carlson to fill the unexpired term of the late Republican Senator Clyde M. Reed.

The announcement of the appointment of Darby, who has been the Republican National Committeeman from his State for nine years, climaxed one of the most hectic periods of specultation in Kansas politics.

The Republican Governor, himself mentioned as a possible candidate for the United States Senate post at the next election, has been deluged with recommendations for the job.

The names of 232 persons were suggested to Carlson since Reed's death.

The term will run until a new Senator is elected in November, 1950.

Darby became national committeeman in 1940 and was prominently mentioned as a possibility for the party's national chairmanship earlier in the year. At that time he said he could not leave his business.

When asked by newsmen if he planned to seek election to the post next year, Darby replied:

"I have never been a candidate for any office, not even precinct committeeman. My interest is in the welfare of Kansas and the Republican Party."

Darby's dynamic personality usually takes political gatherings in his State by storm. He appears equally at home with national political figures and precinct workers alike. His handshakings, Western-style greetings and grin dovetails into his personality.

Darby began his political career by managing his home county's campaign in Reed's race for Governor in 1928. In 1933 he was named director of the State Highway Department by Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republicans' presidential nominee in 1936.

Last year in a factional fight with Landon, Darby won control of the party's delegation to the National Convention. Landon had been chairman in 1940 and 1944.

During the last war—he fought in the first as an artillery officer overseas—his factory made landing craft and locomotives.

Bricker Seeks Coalition of Conservatives

By Bert Andrews
NYHT News Service

Senator John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) revealed yesterday he will work during the next session of the Eighty-first Congress to bring about a formal coalition of the Republican Party with conservative Southern Democrats to stop the trend toward the "welfare state."

His immediate goal will be to "stop the reckless spending" by having like-minded men of both major parties team up against it in the Senate and House of Representatives.

His long-term program goes so far as to envision having the Republican Party drop its name, if that becomes necessary, so it can line up with the conservative Southerners to form a new party to battle the Democratic Party as presently constituted.

He regards James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State; Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), as typifying the kind of men he would like to see spearhead the new movement.

Senator Bricker, who discussed his suggestions yesterday over long-distance telephone from his office in Columbus, Ohio, spoke with awareness that he was "probably stirring up something."

He said he would enlarge a little on his views in an address in New York City Thursday and would amplify them in detail on his first opportunity to gain the Senate floor after Congress convenes in January.

With most Senators and Representatives out of Washington, there was little immediate reaction here. Two Republican Senators available split right down the middle, one saying it was "a mighty good idea," the other saying it wouldn't work. They didn't want their names used.

Tooth Decay Linked To Neurotic Traits

Boston, Dec. 2 (U.P.)—People whose teeth decay more than normal may also be neurotic, a dentist said today.

Dr. John H. Manhold of Tufts College reported that a personality test was given 50 persons who also were scored on the number of decayed, missing and filled teeth.

All but four who topped the personality test had a tooth score of less than 40, an average, he said. All but five, who had a heavy neurotic tendency, had a tooth score above 40.

Barkley Wit Is Catching

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Veep's bride—besieged by photographers when she appeared at the Metropolitan Opera in a black strapless gown last night—set them back on their heels by wisecracking: "What the boys want is some Hollywood cheesecake from me."

Mrs. Alben W. Barkley made the sally while chatting with Helen Traubel in her dressing room at the "Met" between acts of "Tristan and Isolde."

Miss Traubel studied with Mrs. Barkley's mother, the former Estelle Rucker, when the soprano was a student in St. Louis.

The Veep had his first night out "with the boys" since his marriage two weeks ago. But it lasted only 90 minutes.

The Vice President, pride of horse-loving Kentucky, dropped in at a stag dinner of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations at the Hotel Plaza.

"To be here I interrupted one of the loveliest honeymoons in which I have ever indulged," he told the diners.

Then, like a dutiful bridegroom, he hastened to the "Met" for a late arrival to join his wife.

The opera audience gave the newlyweds a big hand when they were spotted chatting in their box as the lights went up for the second intermission.

The honeymooners will be in Washington December 10 for the annual Gridiron dinner. After that, Barkley said, they will head back to Georgia for another vacation.

When Democrats Get Together

Barkley Hits 'Tree-Sitters'

mission is to give the American people the kind of government they desire—the kind of Government we promised them in the platform adopted at the Democratic Convention of 1948. We shall win the battle because the people are on our side."

Barkley predicted in his prepared speech that the Democrats would increase their Senate and House majorities next year "in order that the democratic process may harmoniously continue in behalf of the American people."

Under Democratic reforms demanded by "the people themselves," he declared, Americans have become "more prosperous, more content and more universally employed than at any other period in history."

"We are now told," he said, "by those who delight to occupy the position of tree-sitters and hitching-post devotees that this program is leading us down the road to the so-called welfare state. We are being told that we are now on the last mile toward collectivism in America."

This, Barkley declared, is the argument of "those who regard every tree frog as a roaring lion and every innocent angleworm as a spreading adder."

"These prophets of pessimism," he went on, "have not told the American people what part of the Democratic program is to be repealed . . .

"They have not told us how far back we must go in order to recognize Uncle Sam as a complacent old gentleman sitting astride the dome of the Capitol drawing his salary and doing nothing."

Barkley said Congress has been compelled by the people to "extend its activities in the field of regulations, direction and control" to keep the channels of trade free and promote the general welfare.

These measures, said the Vice President, were not "superimposed upon an unwilling people" by politicians but were "an orderly advancement in the efficiency and the efficacy of Government in fields which Government alone can occupy."

"The Democratic Party under its leadership from Jefferson to Truman," Barkley said, "has sought to implement the will of the American people into their Government and we are proud of the accomplishments" . . . "The Democratic Party is not only willing but anxious to meet its opponents on this field of political battle. . . .

"This program has made us strong not only in times of peace but has fortified us for the battles of war. We are seeking to preserve our traditional liberties."

Price Probers Give A&P Head More Time Before Testifying

D. T. Bofinger, president of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., yesterday notified the price-probing Senate Agriculture Subcommittee headed by Senator Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa), that he will be unable to appear Monday with figures asked for by the committee. However, he said he would be able to appear later, when the information sought by the committee can be gathered.

Gillette revealed Bofinger's message when his committee met to investigate why milk prices are so high.

"It is the whole-hearted desire of my company to fully and completely cooperate with your committee," Bofinger wired Gillette. "I regretfully state that by reason of the shortness of time given to assemble the data requested, I find that I will be unable to gather such data by December 5. I will be glad to appear at some later date."

Gillette "Shocked"

"I was shocked," Gillette stated, in a mimeographed release. "Certainly Mr. Bofinger or his assistant could inform us of the prices they are charging for coffee, the prices paid for coffee in the growing countries and their markup without any great amount of preparation. This is the first time a witness has refused to appear."

Gillette had asked Bofinger to come prepared to reveal details about company profits, executive salaries, advertising expenditures, etc. He also wanted to know about the costs and profits on bread and dairy products, as well as how much A. & P. pays farmers and charges consumers for various items.

Gillette admitted that some people are afraid to appear before Congressional committees because of rough treatment they have experienced.

Sometimes "witnesses have been subjected to questioning bordering on discourtesy," he said. "This committee, however, has prided itself on its treatment of witnesses. We have leaned backward trying to be fair with them and to avoid embarrassing them."

In place of Bofinger, John C. Gardner, president of the New York Coffee Exchange, will appear Monday.

Yesterday two prominent milkmen, L. A. Van Bomel, president of the National Dairy Products Association, and Joseph O. Eastlack, asistant vice president of the Borden Co., testified.

Van Bomel said he got $150,000 a year salary—the same as he got in 1938. Since that time, he said, sales have increased from 334 million dollars a year to 986 million. Profits have gone up from 11 million to 25 million dollars. Stockholders are being paid $1.80 a year dividends, where they only got 80 cents in 1938.

"But the president's salary hasn't gone up," Van Bomel said.

"Do you mean your president or the President of the United States," Gillette asked.

"I mean me," Van Bomel replied. "The President got a raise."

"I think you're entitled to one, too," Gillette responded with a laugh.

Van Bomel isn't the only high-priced man with his company, he said. The five highest paid executives drew a total of $493,000 last year. The same men got only $387,000 in 1938.

But the milkmen themselves—the wagon men who deliver the milk—do pretty well, too. Here's what 10 high paid ones in the company draw:

One got $10,993 in salary and commissions last year; another $10,081. Others got $9813; $9362; $9123; $8456; $8165; $8153; $8142 and $8135.

Borden also pays its milkmen high wages, Eastlack said.

In Chicago, he testified, the average weekly pay for drivers delivering wholesale accounts was $149.50 last year. Those delivering to homes averaged $84.62.

Van Bomel said he would prefer to have one man drawing $10,000 a year, than two drawing $5000. The men are paid by the volume they sell.

"I always admire an ambitious man who works hard to take care of his family," he said.

Eastlack said the president of Borden gets only $100,000 a year. "We're not as rich as National," he commented.

Truman Backs Plans to Help Idleness Areas

Key West, Fla., Dec. 2 (U.P.)—President Truman today gave the green light to continued Federal steps to curb unemployment in industrial "soft spots" in the Nation.

The Chief Executive told his assistant, John R. Steelman, to go ahead with the Federal plan of combating unemployment

Steelman in a special unemployment report recommended to the President that the procurement program—Federal buying in areas where business is badly off—"be continued on a vigorous basis while unemployment remains a problem in particular areas."

Through his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, Mr. Truman today announced that he was 100 percent behind the Steelman plan.

The President took it easy today and went swimming in the morning with his daughter, Margaret.

Mr. Truman has received many suggestions from congressional leaders and members of the Cabinet for the State of the Union address.

One of the points sure to go into the message is a renewal of his request for an antilynch law, abolition of the poll tax and probably a fair employment practices commission

Enemy Submarines A Chief Navy Target

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 2 (AP).—Admiral Forest P. Sherman outlined tonight a far reaching antisubmarine strategy calling for the use of undersea guided missile ships and raider parties to demolish enemy bases.

The new Chief of Naval Operation gave a glimpse of the new planning in an address prepared for midshipmen of the Naval Academy.

He told the future admirals that the Navy, instead of being on the decline as some prophets say, faces an even greater future in which it will use all the newest weapons, including atomic.

In his first speech since he was named to replace Admiral Louis E. Denfeld as an aftermath of the Navy row over Pentagon policy, Sherman talked about that matter. He obviously directed his comments at Navy officers as well as the students.

"It would be less than realistic," he said, "not to take cognizance of the conflicting views of the services with respect to their responsibilities for national security which have been aired since the end of the war, and particularly in recent months."

"Differences in professional opinion are to be expected, and with the strong characters required in military leaders, sharp conflicts are apt to occur.

"But never forget that we are all striving for a common goal—the preservation of our country, our freedom and our national way of life."

Without mentioning Russia by name, he said "another power has a submarine force larger than ours," which he asserted "is a potent argument for the United States to possess, not an equal number of submarines, but anti-submarine naval elements of greater effectiveness."

(Although Sherman did not include figures in his text, records show the United States now has about 74 submarines in operation, 90 in reserve. Estimates of Russia's submarine fleet range as high as 300.)

Discussing the type of vessels needed for the new anti-submarine strategy, the admiral said:

"These must be so constituted as to permit attacking the submarine by every possible means—not only in our coastal waters and the high seas, but in the enemy coastal waters and bases themselves.

"Our antisubmarine task force may thus include fast carriers in conjunction with surface and submarine guided missile ships for attacking bases. It might include special raider amphibious units for demolition of bases. It will require hunter killer teams of submarines, surface ships, and many types of airplanes and blimps. It will require powerful convoy escorts and coastal defense forces especially against submarines firing guided missiles into our cities.

2 Lines Plan Coach Flights Across Nation

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday permitted two of the Nation's largest airlines to begin transcontinental air coach service December 27 for a one-year trial.

Permission was granted American Airlines to use 70-passenger DC-4s on that date and to Trans World Airline to use 60-passenger DC-4s with a New York-Los Angeles fare of $110 one way.

The regular fare is $157.85. Federal tax of 15 percent is additional in both cases.

[The railroad coach fare is $82.13, including tax. The air coach fare, including tax, would be $126.50.—Editor's Note.]

The board said it will permit American to replace the DC-4s with the larger and faster DC-6 also having 70 seats in April.

This marks the first authorization for direct competition between the scheduled airlines and the non-scheduled or irregular carriers which have been providing air coach service in DC-3 and DC-4 planes at fares of $100 or less for more than two years.

Registry of Scientists Urged by Steelman

Presidential Adviser John R. Steelman told scientists assembled here last night that one thing this Nation needs is a national science manpower registry.

The need for finding out what the nation has, what the nation needs, and what the nation wants in matters scientific may be too great to await passage of the Administration-sponsored National Science Foundation, he said.

He spoke at the third annual Dinner to Men of Science and Industry at the Hotel Statler. The yearly dinners are sponsored by the American Council of Commercial Laboratories.

Disclosing that the Government is spending $1,380,000,000 during the current fiscal year for scientific research, Steelman declared:

"Since the war there has been no index, anywhere, of the special skills of scientists in this country. Nor is there any accurate information as to the extent and character of the science manpower deficit."

The need for such a survey is so pressing in making defense plans that the National Security Resources Board may not be able to wait for the foundation to be set up to do the job, he said. Steelman is acting chairman of the board.

Of Federal support of scientific research, Steelman declared: "There is a real question as to how much farther the Government can go, under existing critical budget pressures, in extending its support.

"There is a growing belief the Government should not greatly step up its participation in the Nation's research effort until the total budget for research, private as well as public, can be appraised and redefined as to objectives and resources."

Dr. Edward R. Weidlein, director of the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research, another speaker, said that industry, the universities and other groups are spending around 550 million dollars this same year in research.

"Well-organized industrial research," Weidlein declared, "is probably the most effective mechanism ever devise dby man to improve his standards of living."

Industrial researches, Weidlein said, hould be made in six principal areas—food, fuel, shelter, clothing, health services and education.

But it must be the Government, not industry, he said, which must finance costly research programs needed to bolster the Nation's economy. Of such programs, he added, one of the important problems is the development of gasoline from coal.

"There are few companies that can afford to gamble the amount of money required for such a development," he declared.

Spaatz Heads Unit to Select Air School Site

Gen. Carl Spaatz, former Air Chief of Staff, yesterday was named chairman of a special board to select the site for an Air Force Academy, smiliar to the present Military and Naval Academies at West Point, N. Y., and Annapolis, Md.

Survey teams will make site recommendations to the board by December 31. Congress is expected to be asked early next year to authorize the academy.

The Defense Department estimated that 9000 acres will be needed, with facilities for training 2500 cadets under normal conditions and 5000 in an emergency.

In addition to Spaatz, other members of the board are Lieut Gen. Hubert Harmon and Maj. Gen. David Schlater, Lieut Col. Arthur B. Boudreau will be secretary.

Guard Bureau To Be Probed

was ordered "in an effort to determine the facts surrounding various unresolved problems in the operation of the National Guard Bureau."

Items specifically to be investigated include:

1. The status of the Guard Bureau chief with respect to the Army Secretary and Army Chief of Staff.
2. Status of the Guard bureau chief with respect to the air secretary and air chief of staff.
3. Status of the Guard bureau chief with respect to the Guard's Air Force functions.
4. Status of the bureau chief with respect to the Guard's Army functions.
5. Relative status of the chiefs of the Guard's Army and Air Force divisions.
6. Circumstances leading up to Cramer's firing of Finch and the subsequent reversal of that action by Cramer.

The action of the Army and Air Force closely followed a statement by Maj. Gen. E. A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Association, that the United States Air Force had failed to provide an adequate training program for the Air National Guard.

Crommelin Sees 'Nazi' Tactics in Unification Setup

Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin, who blew the lid off inter-service disputes, charged last night that unification policies "smack a little too much of Hitler's regime."

The 46-year-old Navy aviator, who was publicly reprimanded for making public confidential Navy letters bearing on the unification wrangle, made the statement during Mutual Broadcasting System's "Meet the Press" radio show.

He said he is deeply concerned because the unification setup does not permit the various services "control of their own destinies."

The scuttling of the Navy's supercarrier, he said, was a terrible mistake.

"Well, then," a reporter interrupted, "You think the present setup smacks of Nazi Germany"

"That's exactly correct," Crommelin shot back. "It parallels it much too closely for a democracy like the United States."

The World War II carrier hero said his fight against unification was not "a question of stepping out of line." He said he respected Navy regulations but that it is "very easy to conceal the real trend of events" at the Pentagon. He added he is afraid that a "small group" is gaining too much power in the Nation's military and economic affairs.

Crommelin emphasized that he was not "speaking under wraps" as was the case when he appeared on the same program several weeks ago. He pointed out that he was restored to duty last month after receiving a public reprimand from Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, new Chief of Naval Operations. He said his present status is the same as that of any other Navy officer.

Crommelin advised Sherman's office he was going to appear on the program, and one of Sherman's aides said the captain had been advised he would be held responsible for his remarks just as any other naval officer would.

'1-World' Approach To Welfare Urged

A "One World" approach to social welfare programs through the United Nations could "help take politics" out of national drives for "welfare progress," a ranking woman member of the U. N. secretariat suggested here last night.

Dr. Alva Myrdal, principal director of the U. N. Department of Social Affairs, speaking to the annual conference of the American Public Welfare Association at the Statler, said:

"By international comparison in each social field, we could help all countries to cut out much of the deadwood of traditionalism, superstition, ignorance and political influence."

Going a step further, the Swedish-born sociologist and author said she hoped that eventually an international survey, perhaps by the U. N., might be a required preliminary to reports by national planning committees.

In that case, each nation would have the sovereign right to think and plan differently, said Dr. Myrdal. "But they would have to argue their case against the assembled experiences of other countries," she added.

The U. N. official underscored throughout her talk that "playing up the importance of human welfare" would not "automatically guarantee peace"—but it "most certainly" would lessen the chances of war.

"Taming man to become a social creature is one of the great jobs. But it can hardly be done at the same time as preparing the world for war," she said. "Today these two tendencies are wrestling with each other."

Mrs. Myrdal offered two suggestions for assuring that man-the-social creature comes out on top.

1. Turn nationalistic ambitions more in the direction of developing greater welfare for all their people . . . Make better health, education and other individual protections a mark of national prestige" and "make countries compete on welfare standards, rather than compete to conquest," and

2. Lay greater stress on the social impact of the Point Four program for economic development of backward countries. It wil be the duty of all people engaged in social work, she said, to protect the people in those countries against "such rapid industrialization or lop-sided economic development that they might be turned into an a-cultural proletarian fringe where they might lose their meaningful social values . . ."

In a message to the association, President Truman said, in part:

"I share with your members the acute awarenes of the inadequacies of our present measures for protecting families against those economic and social hazards which result from the complexities of our modern society.

"We have made progress in our past efforts to reduce proverty and insecurity due to old age, illness, unemployment and other factors of modern life," said the President, "But we have not gone far enough."

The three-day conference will end today with a 12:30 p. m. luncheon at the Statler. Ewan Clague, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will speak on employment trends.

The original plan for the project brought protests from the church and others in the neighborhood. Plans were revised and the result shows how things are going in the H and 13th sts. and New York ave. sector

Fairfax Group Asks School Bond Issue

The Fairfax County Emergency Association, with the backing of the school board, last night called for issuance of a $10,500,000 bond issue to meet estimated school needs by September, 1951.

The group adopted a motion calling for the $10,500,000 figure to be placed upon a petition aimed at getting the issue before county residents in a referendum. The petition must have 1000 signatures of registered voters.

Also set up was drafting of the petition and arrangements for its circulation by a committee to be appointment by Association President W. L. Alvord Sherman. The petition is to get under way, the motion specified, as soon as possible.

Another motion that the school board carry out the construction program on a priority basis, according to the need of an area, was defeated. It was voted down after School Board Chairman F. W. Robinson asserted the board already "is thinking along those lines."

The meeting, attended by more than 125 persons, in effect indorsed the proposed school building program, estimated to cost about $11,900,000. Robinson pointed out that approximately one million dollars probably will be loaned by the State Literary Fund.

Robinson, in asking for action, declared the building program represented "something approaching an ideal situation." But, he added, "even a $10,500,000 bond issue may be insufficient."

"Let's not let the children suffer," he said, "let's go ahead—let's have a little faith in Fairfax County and the people in it."

He pledged the school board will sell no more bonds than are necessary to build what county residents wish.

Chief Offers 8 Fire Safety Yule Hints

Fire Chief J. A. Mayhew yesterday issued an 8-point fire safety warning to local stores, clubs, cafes and other public meeting places.

Mayhew pointed out that last month the Fire Department responded to 1045 fire alarms, more than in any previous month in the history of the department.

His holiday season fire precaution suggestions were:

1. Emergency exits should be plainly indicated and stairways, corridors, passageways and exits kept free of obstructions at all times.

2. The automatic collapsing mechanism of all revolving doors should be tested daily and a responsible employe assigned to collapse them in the event of an emergency.

3. Request the cooperation of the public to refrain from smoking by displaying signs, "No Smoking by Request of the Fire Department."

4. Keep accumulation of rubbish at a minimum. Rubbish should be removed daily, or more frequently if necessary.

5. Overcrowding should not be permitted as fire in any crowded place may easily lead to panic.

6. Flammable decorations are not permitted and should not be used under any circumstances.

7. All fire-fighting appliances such as fire hose, fire extinguishers, standpipes and sprinkler systems should be inspected and ready for instant use.

8. Cooperate with your fire inspector as his visits to your place of business are in the inerest of fire safety for you and your patrons.

FHA Puts Ban on Racial Curbs

to build separate projects for Negroes and whites.

The spokesman also explained that the order will not prevent a landlord from renting his apartments only to whites, or only to Negroes.

All it does is bar him from entering into a written agreement or "covenant" with other landlords or with his tenants to keep out members of one race. He can't do that if he wants to get Federal insurance on his mortgage.

What the order will do, the spokesman added, is keep the Federal Government from insuring home loans and mortgages if restrictive covenants are made after the date the order is put into effect. It will not affect covenants in force at the time the regulation becomes effective.

Unwritten Agreements O. K.

Housing Specialist Charles S. Abrams said the new ruling will not prevent unwritten agreements restricting tenants.

The 300 housing experts at the New York conference passed a resolution urging that FHA go beyond the new policy. They asked that it refuse aid to any housing project which practices discrimination even though no restrictive agreement is on file.

The resolution declared that discrimination "by gentleman's agreement" should not receive Federal support.

Nathaniel S. Keith, Federal director of slum clearance and urban redevelopment, said Federal funds for slum clearance will be denied public agencies if the slum area is to be redeveloped on a covenanted basis.

Perlman said the rule change will "give effect to the public policy expressed on so many occasions by the President" and "implement the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the covenant cases."

The policy extends FHA's gradual withdrawal from a policy of encouraging restrictive covenants, which began about three years ago. At that time, the FHA stated it would not be made a party to protective covenants.

Since the Supreme Court declared racial covenants non-enforceable, an FHA spokesman said yesterday, FHA has been "color blind." It has taken no official recognition of race or religion of the FHA-insured mortgage-holders. In cases where a covenant has been included as part of the construction contract, FHA has simply followed the court pattern that such covenants are not legally enforceable.

In Washington, local FHA director Thomas Barringer last night estimated about 35 percent of small home financing is FHA-insured. He said that since 1946, his office has insured about 65 million dollars worth of small home mortgages.

In the rental housing over the same period, the District FHA office has insured 295 million dollars worth of projects, or about 80 percent of all such projects constructed.

More Bank Loans Expected

Rufus Lusk, president of the Washington Taxpayers Association, said yesterday the new Federal policy "may force more builders to use more private financing" in the Washington area.

"We might as well be practical about this thing," he said. "The builders here are not going to build apartments and open them up to white and colored alike."

Lusk predicted the FHA ruling would have no effect on higher-priced housing.

Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro Council, said he wired President Truman "hearty thanks for your upholding the Supreme Court decision against restrictive covenants . . . it speaks volumes for your statesmanship, official integrity and personal sincerity . . ."

Elmer W. Henderson, director of the American Council on Civil Rights, described the new policy as a "wonderful step forward." He said it "should provide a greater means of democratic living than heretofore has been possible under the restrictive policy that the FHA has had for a number of years."

Henderson said his organization is now working on the Public Housing Association to change its policy to conform to the new FHA standards.

Move Assailed in South As Impractical There

Atlanta, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—Southern building leaders today denounced the Government decision to bar FHA insurance for segregated housing as a measure that won't possibly work in this section.

If it is enforced, they said, it will mean the end of Federally insured private dwelling projects in many Southern cities.

"That's what I'd expect from Washington," said Jack Helm, executvie vice president of the Home-Builders' Association of New Orleans.

"I don't know how it's going to apply down here. We're building homes for white people. Do they expect us to sell them to Negroes, too?"

Ed Hiles, executive vice president of the Georgia Savings and Loan League, said his organization opposed Government's entrance into the housing field and had warned "just such as this would happen."

"Once you ask Uncle Sam to subsidize you, you've got to also be prepared to accept and carry out what he tells you to do," Hiles said.

James E. Robinson, chairman of the Atlanta Housing Authority, aded "I don't think anyone would insist on enforcing such a thing in this section."

Enforcement of the clause would mean "the end of home construction" in Montgomery, Ala., said a statement from the office of Folmar and Flynn.

"The Negroes don't want to live in white districts anyway," said Redding Stevenson, chairman of the Little Rock Housing Authority. "I don't see that it will make any difference here."

Dr. H. E. Christenberry, director of the Knoxville (Tenn.) Housing Authority, said he didn't see how the rule would work there. He said Negroes now occupied 70 percent of Federal housing projects in Knoxville although they comprise only 16 percent of the population.

Richmond Builders Fear For Business

Richmond, Va., Dec. 2 (AP).—The president of the Home Builders Association of Richmond, Ernest E. Mayo, said flatly tonight that the city's large subdivision contractors "are out of business" if the Government knuckles down on its plan to bar Federal aid to housing restricting Negroes.

And the president of the Richmond Real Estate Exchange, John W. Bates, jr., adding what amounted to an "amen," went on to brand the newly announced Government move as a socialistic step by a administration out to shove private capital out of the housing business.

Spottswood W. Robinson and Martin A. Martin, two Negro attorneys who have led antidiscrimination suits in Federal courts, hailed the decision as a "forward step."

Lieut. Col. Fane Rites Set Monday; Plane Crash Victim

Funeral services for Lieut. Col. Aubrey F. S. Fane, British Embassy messenger, will be held at 2:15 p. m. Monday at St. John's Episcopal Church, 3040 O st. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Lieut. Col. Fane was one of 28 killed in an American Airlines plane crash in Dallas, Tex., last Tuesday. He was then en route to Mexico City and Guatemala on an official mission.

Members of the British Embassy staff will act as pallbearers at the funeral.

3 Obstacles Described as Health Bars

Nations of the world must reexamine their attitude on public health and overcome "three serious impediments" to progress, the United States representative to the World Health Organization said last night.

In a talk at the Pan-American Union celebrating Pan American Health Day, Dr. Henry Van Zile Hyde, a member of the WHO executive board, cited these "distinct detriments to rapid progress in public health":

1. The feeling that "a doctor is something less than a doctor when his patients are measured by thousands and millions rather than by a full waiting room."

2. Lack of sufficient attention to the needs of public health nurses, "the great link between public health and officials and the people."

3. The "high degree of centralization" of health administration in many countries.

Dr. Fred L. Soper, a director of the Pan American Sanitary Bureau and regional director of the World Health Organization, prepared a talk which was read by Dr. Miguel E. Bustamante, secretary general of the bureau. Dr. Soper is in Geneva.

"In no field of international activity has collaboration been so successful as in that of health," Dr. Soper said.

Other speakers included Dr. Alberto Lleras, secretary general of the Organization of American States, and Miss Muna Lee, of the Office of American Republics Affairs of the State Department. Dr. John R. Murdock, assistant director of the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, presided.

Hyattsville To Open New Roads Today

A new $500,000 "gateway to Hyattsville" will be opened formally today at exercises dedicating the recently completed extensions of Ager and Queen's Chapel rds. at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Tippett

Dedication speaker will be Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Upper Marlboro, who will head a long list of local, county and State officials slated to participate in the exercises at Queen's Chapel rd. in Hyattsville. T. Howard Duckett, attorney and president of the Prince George's Bank, will cut the tape across the entrance to the new road sections, officially opening them to traffic.

Reigning over the celebration will be 18-year-old Thelma Tippett, 4643 Farragut st., who was chosen as "Miss Hyattsville" this week after the winner of an earlier popularity contest "abdicated." The original "Miss Hyattsville," Mary Ellen Owens, 5107 42d ave., told officials of the celebration she could not participate because the excitement "was too much for her." Miss Tippett was runner-up in the contest.

Morals Defendant Freed For Psychiatric Care

Grover C. Pitts, 31, of 3831 Rodman st. nw., yesterday was released in bond to secure psychiatric treatment following his arrest on charges of indecent exposure. Municipal Judge Walter J. Casey continued final disposition of the case until January 4, pending the scientific treatment. The man was arrested near American University after a 2-block chase.

legitimate representatives of business."

Declaring that "justifiable lobbying is recognized by the laws of the land," Wight added: "The legitimate representatives of business find Congressmen and Government officials anxious to have the views of all business and ready to review the problems of any American industrialist."

Wight appeared on a panel of speakers discussing the question "Who Best Represents Business in Washington?"

The character of Congress was defended by another panel speaker, a former Congressman from Alabama.

"Over 99 percent of Congressmen are doing what they think is in the best interests of the country," said Carter Manasco, now a registered lobbyist. "This is a better percentage than was had even among the Disciples—there it was only 11 out of 12."

Don't 'Threaten' Congress

"You don't threaten a member of Congress," the former Congressman said. "The best approach I've found is that of clean hands."

Tracing the growth of the Federal Government, Manasco said:

"Federal care now starts in the prenatal stage. It extends to giving you a marker on your grave, if you're a member of the armed forces. We have got some members of the Federal Administration who don't believe in a hereafter or we'd have a department on that."

Leaders in unpopularity in Washington he listed in this order of rank: "Congress, lobbyists, bureaucrats, five percenters and the U. S. Navy."

The five percenters came in for more tongue lashing from John L. Laskey, first vice president of the District Bar Association and a self-described former "hatchet man for the OPA."

"Joining" Defended

"The 5-percenter is created by those who want to believe in him," Laskey asserted. "Those who do employ him usually get gypped."

The other panel member, Reuel W. Elton, general manager of the American Trade Association Executives, defended the American practice of "joining."

"'Joiners,'" he declared, "are among the earliest casualties of the totalitarian system.

"Views on Washington Business Representation" were presented at an afternoon panel consisting of Paul Wooton, Washington correspondent of the New Orleans Times-Picayune; William Frye, director of the Defense Department's Office of Public Information; Robert Ramspeck, executive vice president of the Air Transport Association of America and former Congressman from Georgia; Tom Duncan, of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education, and John C. O'Brien, president of the National Press Club ann Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

President Truman sent greetings to the association from Key West, Fla.

Edward B. Lyman, assistant to the president of Fordham University, was reelected association president. Other reelected officers included Col. Benjamin F. Castle, executive director of the Milk Industry Foundation here, as vice-president for the Eastern division.

Ship Nelson Captured Sunk With Full Honors

Portsmouth, England, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—The 148-year-old warship Implacable, captured by Nelson from France at Trafalgar, was sunk at sea with full naval honors today. She was believed to be the oldest vessel afloat.

U. S. Pork 'Too Fat'

London, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—Butchers in rationed London told the Food Ministry today they did not want 7500 tons of American pork as a Christmas bonus because "it is so fat it isn't worth handling."

Probe to Hear Eccles, Snyder

him pertinent portions of Eccles' critical letter.

Snyder reminded the subcommittee it will have McCabe before it as a witness today.

"Read those paragraphs to him," he added, "and ask him if he concurs." "The implication was clear that Snyder believes Eccles' boss will not concur.

Snyder Denies Bias

Snyder denied that the Treasury has an immutable "easy-money bias," but was generally unwilling to talk at all about the conflict of opinion. He finally agreed to Douglas' suggestion for a closed session of the subcommittee next week with himself, McCabe and Eccles present.

Douglas asked him if he did not believe there should be cooperation between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

Snyder said there should be, but added icily, "cooperation has to work both ways; it's a two-way street."

The Eccles' side of the argument had support later in the day in testimony before the subcommittee of Allan Sproul, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

He spoke of the "inherent conflict" between the Treasury interest in keeping the interest rates low and the Federal Reserve System's need for the means of credit control.

Fear of "Unbridled Inflation"

There is a danger of "unbridled inflation," he said, unless the Federal Reserve Board has the ability to control credit. He implied this was nonexistent as long as the Treasury arbitrarily set low interest rates, and the Federal Reserve had to support the par price of the securities at all times.

Earlier in his testimony, Snyder declared the Federal budget should be balanced now, "in times as prosperous as these."

Senators asked him whether he proposed to do it by raising taxes or cutting Federal expenses. Snyder replied that the decision was President Truman's to make and that he would "be guided by the President's decision." That will presumably be made known in Mr. Truman's message to Congress next January.

Lewis Blocks Dawson Again

United Mine Workers signed a new contract. The old contract expired July 1.

The fund, established in 1946, is made up of 20-cents-a-ton royalties on all bituminous coal mined in this country. It has brought in more than 100 million dollars a year, and provided pensions and social insurance benefits for the soft coal miners and their dependents.

New Royalties Are Small

Yesterday, it was revealed that royalties paid in by the coal operators before July 1 amounted to around $300,000, not enough to continue even emergency payments for a month. Royalties accumulated since July 1 total nearly 12 million dollars but are frozen.

On November 21, Lewis held that since the operators take the position that the 1948 work contract expired—and was not automatically extended—on July 1, the operators had no right to appoint a new trustee to the fund.

Yesterday, according to Dawson, Lewis changed his position. Lewis argued now that Trustee Van Horn had made his resignation contingent on his obtaining legal separation from any responsibility or liability for the fund's activities. Inasmuch as the trustees have had no notification from Van Horn than he has effected such a separation, Lewis contends, Van Horn—and not Dawson—is the employers' trustee.

Issue May Go to Courts

Judge Dawson yesterday scoffed at Lewis' arguments. He observed that Senator Bridges voted at both meetings to recognize him as trustee for the operators. He indicated the issue would probably have to be settled in the courts.

At a press conference yesterday, Judge Dawson disclosed that, unlike Bridges and like Lewis, he believed the welfare fund has the legal right to spend the 12 million dollars that has accumulated in the fund since July 1. He said, however, that before voting for release of this money, he would insist that the fund be put on a "sound actuarial basis."

Rockville Set To Construct Fire House

Plans for a new $100,000 fire house of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department, to be started next spring, were aannounced yesterday by President Marbery Gates.

The building, to be located on Jefferson st. behind the Social Agencies Building, will accommodate five engines, a hook and ladder truck and ambulance on the ground floor. The second floor of the brick structure will contain an auditorium, sleeping quarters, first-aid rooms, kitchen and office space.

The department now has four engines and an ambulance at its present quarters at Perry and Jefferson sts. This building will be remodeled and rented for office space, Gates said.

Organized in 1921, the department has 65 members, owns property and equipment totalling $165,000 and has no indebtedness, Gates said. Aside from a county appropriation of $1500 its sole source of income is its annual carnival which nets an average of $30,000, he pointed out.

D. C. Milk Rules Criticized

tors examine a sample of the milk when it comes into Washington to be sold.

The discussion about Washington's milk regulations came when Hadlick questioned Nelson and other Agriculture officials about "ridiculous sanitary laws" in the country, and asked what the department was doing about them.

He said that Buffalo, N. Y. requires that all milk be placed in covered pails, while in the adjoining area, Rochester requires that all milk pails be open. This, he said, was done to bar milk from outside local areas.

The Milk Marketing law, he said, definitely states that it must be administered to permit milk producers from one section of the country to sell in other areas.

F. Richard Burke of the Marketing Division of Production and Marketing Administration, replied that such health laws are police powers of the municipalities and the States" and that the department has no authority to interfere.

Urges Model Code Here

Hadlick then asked why the department didn't act in the District, where there is no state or municipal interference and suggested establishment of a model code here.

Burke said that the United States Public Health Sevice had been studying health codes in cities. He then added that the Agriculture Research Administration had employed the National Research Foundation to study the 'feasibility of a uniform code for all municipalities."

Hadlick declared that the Washington code should be "true sanitary regulations and not trade barriers, set up to prevent other milk from coming into this market."

"In 14 years," he declared, "the Dairy Branch has done nothing to combat these barriers."

He added that Congress had "spelled out sanitary inspection laws in meat inspection."

Witness Promises Report

"Why hasn't the department done something," he demanded, "to bring about uniformity in milk inspection?"

Herbert L. Forest, another Agriculture Department witness, pointed out that the mater wasn't entirely up to the department. He said enforcement of some sanitary regulations is a reponsibility of the Pure Food and Drug Administration and some with the United States Public Health Service.

Forest promised to report to Gillette, an Iowa Democrat, on what can be done to provide a model milk code for Washington that can be used as an example for other cities.

District Health Officer Seckinger commented, when contacted by a reporter, that milk regulations here are considered to be "among the best" and that "as far as I know there is no need for revision."

"None of our milk regulations constitutes a trade barrier as far as I know," he said.

Dr. Seckinger said "Our own inspectors test the milk in the area milkshed which embraces Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

"Such inspections by our own men constitute the best protection for the people here against harmful milk.

"I'm happy to say I've been informed we had the largest amount of local milk production this year that we've ever had," he said. "That's good because it simplifies inspection—we know where the milk is coming from."

Judge Denies Dismissal Of Milk Indictment

The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association and 13 milk distributors here must go to trial on a conspiracy indictment charging them with price fixing and restraint of competition and interstate commerce.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff, in United States District Court, denied motions yesterday by defense attorneys to dismiss the true bill returned here against the association and distributors in March, 1948. The case already has been to the Supreme Court once.

Judge Holtzoff granted in part motions by the defense attorneys for bills of particulars, but denied motions for "discovery" by the defense of the Government's evidence.

However, he directed attorneys on both sides to get together in advance of trial for a survey of evidence to speed the adjudication. No trial date has been set.

U. N. Loophole

The mixup over status of Valentin A. Gubitchev in this country is further complicated by the report from United Nations headquarters that it is possible for representatives of a government to join the U. N. staff without resigning their governmental posts. If that is true, Mr. Gubitchev, who is facing trial for alleged spying here, may be able to establish that he was still third secretary of the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs while he was serving as a U. N. engineer. If he was still a Soviet functionary, it is obvious that he was not properly employed by the U. N. secretariat. It does not follow, however, that he had diplomatic immunity.

In order to obtain diplomatic immunity in the United States a representative of a foreign government must live in Washington and be attached to the embassy or legation of his country. Only when the individual in question has thus qualified and when his name has been officially placed on a State Department list for this purpose is he entitled to immunity to arrest under our laws. The State Department reports that Mr. Gubitchev was never on the diplomatic immunity list. He may have come to this country on a diplomatic passport and may have obtained a diplomatic visa, but that does not, as we understand it, give him diplomatic immunity.

What the Soviet Embassy has shown is that Mr. Gubitchev perpetrated a fraud upon the U. N. when he joined its secretariat. An employe of the secretariat is required to take an oath pledging himself not to "seek or accept instruction in regard to the performance of my duties from any government or other authority external to the United Nations organization." Mr. Gubitchev did sign such a pledge in 1946, yet claims to have remained throughout his U. N. employment the third secretary of the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Obviously he could not serve two masters faithfully. Apparently the present oath is not enough to make certain that employes of the secretariat will give undivided loyalty to the U. N. Regardless of what the outcome of the Gubitchev case may be, it seems to us imperative that the U. N. make certain that its employes, both present and future, have severed every official connection with any government, as the Charter appears to require.

Slapdash Budgeting

Spokesmen for the National Association of Manufacturers told the subcommittee investigating monetary, credit and fiscal policies that Federal spending in the next fiscal year should be cut by 10 billion dollars. Extravagant demands of this kind do nothing to further the cause of economy. On the contrary, they embarrass and antagonize advocates of a realistic economy program. For example, Senator Douglas, who is chairman of the investigating subcommittee, has recently urged a balancing of the budget through reduction of expenditures. But he is well aware that economies have to be selective, based on careful study of their effect on Government policies. It is neither practicable nor defensible to achieve budgetary balance by indiscriminate across-the-board cuts in military and civil outlays, as the NAM recommends. The failure to make any provision whatever in the NAM's model budget for western European military aid is of itself sufficient to condemn the whole program as a visionary scheme.

The unfavorable impression created by this kind of slapdash amateur budgeting was heightened by NAM's advocacy of budget balancing in years of depression as well as in good years. Under questioning, one of the NAM witnesses admitted that he might prefer tax increases in the form of excises on consumption goods as an alternative to a budget deficit. That is likewise a thoroughly unrealistic proposal. For a politician who approved a tax program of this kind in a period of depression and heavy unemployment would soon be retired to private life. Moreover, most economists are now convinced that more rather than less Government spending might be required in bad years, even if it should result in deficits, in order to feed the hungry, aid the unemployed and counteract deflationary pressures. The knowledge that circumstances may compel the Government at some future date to spend more than it receives from taxes is, indeed, one of the strongest possible arguments for balancing the budget in years of prosperity.

The Washington Post heartily supports all soundly conceived plans for reducing expenditures by elimination of waste and selective pruning of spending programs. But we realize that the area within which Government spending can be cut without weakening our defense and foreign-aid programs is severely limited. If the NAM or other organizations that are economy-minded want to be really helpful, they must go beyond demands for less spending and consider the effect of their proposals on the functional activities of the Government. For it cannot be said too often that the amount spent by the Government is largely determined by legislative policies approved by Congress. Hence substantial economies can seldom be effected unless Congress, backed by public opinion, is willing to modify those policies.

Cartel For Peace

Some fear is expressed in American circles in Europe that Europeans may try to "integrate" in the wrong way—that is to say, through cartelization. In our view, however, a cartel is the only feasible method not only of control of the really vital item, viz, steel, but also of laying the foundation of European unity.

Cartel is one of those words, like propaganda, that have become debased by wrong usage and omnibus application. In the old days a cartel was wholly or almost wholly privately managed—formed for the purpose of controlling output, dividing markets and fleecing customers, and it deserved all the mud that was thrown at it. It is this kind of organization that is banned in Law No. 75, governing treatment of Germany. Nowadays, however, a new concept stands alongside the old: a public cartel. A cartel is not necessarily against the public interest if consumers are represented on it and if governments supervise a predetermined code of fair practices. Indeed, it is the only way to start the process of winding up the present economic anarchy in the economic affairs of Europe. One or two key combinations, surely, are just what this country is seeking in Europe as a means of getting the governments themselves to combine.

There are no antitrust laws in Europe; Europeans don't know how to operate the system of private enterprise in the American fashion. In Germany they are used to a licensing system for almost every private activity. Countries with their different traditions and ways of doing things simply cannot be "made over" exactly in the American image. What is needed is both an appreciation of the difference between a good and a bad cartel and an understanding of the place there is for this form of economic organization in present-day Europe.

The last time the subject of cartels came up was when the National Association of Manufacturers went on record against cartels and then insisted upon the privilege of participating in world trade "on the same basis as nationals of other countries, without harassment from their own Government." The approach was a model of inconsistency. This newspaper took the occasion to repeat what it has said often enough in connection with the German problems, viz, that only by the creation of a continental vested interest can there be the required integration.

This is not to say that we think that the cartel should be the norm of doing business in Europe, far from it. It is recognized throughout Europe that Europe has lagged in productivity because of the pervasiveness of monopoly, and Jean Monnet is one of several leaders in Europe who are trying to get the governments to adopt antimonopoly laws. But every rule has its exception, and steel is in that category. Cartelization in steel would foment unity and allay the fear of a new militarism in Germany.

Seizing Formosa

Just back from a six-week tour of the Far East, Senator H. Alexander Smith has turned up with the rather pat proposal that United States military forces occupy the Island of Formosa. It is easy to understand and even to feel some sympathy for the zeal that can find so simple a solution for so difficult a situation as the advance of communism in China. Senator Smith called this "the most logical approach" to aiding the non-Communist areas of China and said "it would be better for us to go into Formosa now than to wait until the Russians did and then decide we had to occupy the island." Unfortunately, the Senator has ignored all the realities of the situation itself and all the implications of so reckless an undertaking.

Of course, the Russians are not going into Formosa. The Chinese Communists may do so. The two may be related, but they are exceedingly different. Chinese, whether Communists or not, have a claim to Formosa which the United States lacks no less than the Soviet Union. Moreover, an occupation of Formosa would afford no aid to the non-Communist areas of China—unless (and we cannot suppose that Senator Smith had any such thought in mind) the United States were to use Formosa as a base for a full-scale invasion of the mainland. This seems to be a continuing dream of the die-hard devotees of Chiang Kai-shek in the United States; but it is hardly an enterprise to be considered seriously by reasonable men. Finally, it appears that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have come to the considered conclusion that Formosa is not of vital strategic importance and that American occupation would encounter enormous administrative difficulties.

The imprudence of Senator Smith's suggestion is underscored by the action of the United Nations General Assembly on Thursday in ratifying 53 to 5 a 12-point American-British program setting forth "essentials of peace." American occupation of Formosa would be precisely the kind of expanionism which, on the part of the Soviet Union, has been so menacing to peace. It would run directly counter at once to the international obligations and the real interests of the United States in maintaining a peaceful world. We cannot afford to sacrifice the confidence of our partners in the U. N. by any such rash action.

IUE-UE Conflict

In the struggle between the left-wing United Electrical Workers Union, recently expelled from the CIO, and the new CIO International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, trade union objectives are subordinated to political objectives—an unfortunate but inevitable consequence of Communist infiltration. This contest is only the beginning of a movement to rid the CIO of Communist elements. The battle will be waged on a more extended front as other left-wing unions are expelled from the CIO. And the courts, employers, hundreds of thousands of bewildered union members, and the National Labor Relations Board will inevitably be drawn into the controversy. The courts will be called upon to settle questions of the ownership of union property. Injunctions will be sought by both left- and right-wing unions to restrain the activities of rival groups. Employers will be harried by conflicting claims of rival unions, and the National Labor Relations Board will be deluged with requests for elections to determine which group is entitled to represent employes.

James B. Carey, temporary chairman of the administrative committee of the new electrical union, says that more than 300 restraining orders have already been served on him in the month following the CIO revocation of the UE's charter. In our opinion, Mr. Carey has taken an utterly indefensible stand in rashly urging members of the IUE to defy court injunctions on the ground that no judge would penalize workers for a patriotic effort to oust Communists from control of the American labor movement. The trouble with this reasoning is that the suspect leaders of the expelled UE have complied with the anti-Communist oath provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. Although the NLRB has turned over the affidavits of a number of UE officials to the Department of Justice for investigation of their validity, these officials and the UE are, for the time being at least, entitled to participate in NLRB representation elections. And decisions regarding the choice of a representative are made by a majority of the workers.

The Taft-Hartley Act provides an orderly legal method of determining whether the electrical workers choose to be represented by a union suspected of being Communist-dominated or by a union purged of such suspects, affiliated with the CIO. The proper way to settle disputes between the rival groups is to request the NLRB to hold elections. Employers confronted by conflicting claims may make such requests, and so can groups of employes, as well as both the UE and the IUE. Ordinarily the board would not take any action that might disturb existing valid contracts, but it has ruled that a contract will not bar an election if the character or identity of the contract holder has changed.

The confusion that prevails as a result of the present UE-IUE conflict appears, therefore, to warrant prompt board investigation of petitions for representation elections. Many difficult problems will arise in connection with such investigations, especially in sifting charges of unfair labor practices brought by unions opposing elections. Since the board will have its hands full trying to settle these representation disputes, it is important that no time be lost by the board and no effort spared to dispose of them. When an election has been held the successful union's claim to representative status will be established, and it will then be illegal for any outside union to strike for recognition against board certification. The union supported by a majority of workers will also have the right to strike against an employer who refuses to recognize it as the accredited bargaining agency of his employes.

The CIO has gained stature in the eyes of the public by its forthright drive to oust Communists from its ranks. It must now concentrate on the task of winning the allegiance of rank and file members of expelled groups. If CIO unions resort to strong-arm methods instead of relying on orderly legal procedures to establish their right to represent workers in contract negotiations, they will be following the Communist line and will forfeit the prestige that has been gained by the expulsion move.

Good Will Tour

Twenty-one students and three members of the drama faculty of Howard University have just returned from a three-month European tour in the course of which they gave 54 performances in four countries—Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Germany. They won enthusiastic critical acclaim for their acting and their interpretation of Ibsen. And as an added triumph, it is now announced that they are to receive an award for "international public relations" from the American Public Relations Association.

The association's action is a most felicitous one. For, by all accounts, the Howard players did a magnificent public relations job for the United States, the more effective because it was not the purpose but a by-product of their tour. Their presence in Europe and the quality of their dramatic work provided a telling rebuttal to Russian propaganda representing Negroes in the United States as brutally oppressed and denied any share in cultural life. They appeared, of course, not as representatives of their race but as representatives of theater art in their country. By their demeanor and their art, they served their country very well, and we join enthusiastically in the applause they have earned.

What Dr. Bush Said

In his letter published November 30, R. M. S. suggests "a basic and fundamental error" in Dr. Vannevar Bush's recent book, Modern Arms and Free Men. The letter refers to Dr. Bush's conclusion that the defensive in warfare is today more powerful than the offensive, converts this into a conclusion as to the "permanent superiority of defensive weapons," knocks down his own straw man, and charges that "such a false doctrine merely establishes a Maginot Line of the mind."

If R. M. S. will read the book, and particularly Chapter X, he will find it difficult to support his accusations. In Chapter X, Dr. Bush points out that our Government, by its essentially democratic nature, is not going to assume the offensive by starting a war, prophylactic or otherwise. We must, therefore, prepare to defend ourselves against the shock of a surprise attack.

But Dr. Bush argues it would be a mistake to put all our political and military effort into purely defensive measures. He is against building a defensive radar net around every American city. In contrast to what R. M. S. says Dr. Bush says, Bush really says (p. 127): "We should never become so obsessed with a defense system as to invite disaster by relying upon it to the detriment of retaliatory striking power. The major effort should go into bombs and their delivery, until logic shows that a substantial defense effort should be added."

In his book, Bush says nothing about the permanent superiority of the defensive, nor does he urge us to relax and take things easy. On the contrary, he believes that "If we lose our liberties it will be because we abandon them," that our race with Russia will be decided by "which system of government and industry is the more efficient and has the better staying power," and that "we had better settle into harness for the long pull and mark well how we use our resources."

This is hardly a "Maginot Line of the mind." The "basic and fundamental error" would seem to be the failure of R. M. S. to read Modern Arms and Free Men before he wrote about it.

Southern Attitudes

In his November 27 article, Hodding Carter claims that nonsegregation cannot be legislated. Mr. Carter apparently does not know of the many Southerners who came to Washington and took jobs in Government buildings where they were forced to work and eat with Negroes. No trouble worth mentioning resulted. Many forgot their prejudices within a week or more. Some, of course, did not overcome their bigotry. We cannot legislate attitudes of mind, but legislation can give fair living and working conditions, without segregation, to the Negroes.

There is obviously no intrinsic harm in working with or going to school with Negroes, and there can be much good resulting. Anyone who has any decency or respect for democratic processes will uphold removal of unfair and discriminatory legislation within the immediate future. The prestige and foreign policy of the entire Nation is damaged by the undemocratic practices of which the majority stem from the South.

On November 20 Mr. Carter seemed to disagree with the Scandinavian visitor's impression, gained from newspapers, of the South. As a Southerner myself, I found that impression quite accurate except for one point: One does not find extreme brutalization of the Negroes, but rather extreme callousness of the whites.

As an example, let me tell another story of a visitor to Mississippi. In conversation the hostess told her guest that she paid her maid, who had eight children, $4 for a 12-hour day, 6½-day work week. "But don't you give your 10-year-old child $5 a week for spending money?" "Yes, but the maid doesn't live like we do. She doesn't need any more. Besides, everybody pays that."

Certainly the South is improving, probably because new blood is moving in. One wonders why this progress was not made half a century ago.

STANLEY BERNARD.

Christmas Card Rate

Lots of people will be disappointed this Christmas when their Christmas cards will be returned because of a shortage of postage. Most of them do not know that all Christmas cards that are not sealed are now 2 cents and not 1½ cents as last year.

Tax-Exempt Salaries

The resignation of Clark Clifford "to return to private practice to increase his income" plus Morris L. Cooke's comment in his November 28 letter that "Mr. Clifford is . . . abandoning . . . an exceptional salary fixed to attract the especially qualified" seem to imply that Federal salaries are still inadequate. Moreover if Mr. Clifford received the 66 percent raise attributed to him by Mr. Cooke, he fared much better than most Federal employes as evidenced by the table in your November 25 issue.

Such leakages from Government service might be eliminated or perhaps the flow of excellent personnel might be reversed if the income tax laws were changed and the income of Government workers made tax exempt.

With a sizable chunk of money being bitten from the salaries of permanent employes by the retirement and pension system and a second bite by the employer in the form of income tax, the lag between the take-home pay and salaries of Government workers is emphasized even to a greater degree than that indicated by the table referred to above.

Tax exemption attached to some Government bonds made them especially attractive to large investors. A comparable, and perhaps more equitable, concession with regard to salaries would make Government work more attractive to the exceptional organizers and administrators who now remain in private enterprise.

"Mad Hatter's Party"

In your editorial of November 29, you note the fact that 90 percent of the carrying trade with China is in British, American, Danish, etc., hands and you ask: "Would these countries agree to a subjection of their shipping to blockade?"

Surely in view of the dependence of the British, in particular, on American subsidies would it not be impossible to compel cessation of the practice of trading with the enemy in the cold war? Of what avail is it to embargo the export of strategic materials via, or from western Europe to the Soviet Union, if the Communist forces arrayed against us are permitted to obtain unlimited supplies via Hongkong, Shanghai or Tientsin?

It may be argued that it would be "imperialistic" to exert pressure upon the British and other European nations to prevent them from recognizing the Chinese Communist government and doing business with it. If Americans must pay taxes to support the economies of European nations and prevent the advance of communism, they have the right to insist that these nations should not pursue policies detrimental to their own long range interests as well as to those of the United States.

We must have very short memories if we fail to perceive the close analogy between the situation now and in the thirties. Then the British were as anxious to "do business with" the Japanese aggressors as they are now to do business with the Communists. Then the United States followed the British lead in refusing to embargo arms and war supplies to the Japanese aggressors in China, while now we refuse aid to the Chinese Nationalists against Soviet Russia's satellites, while protesting the Nationalist blockade of Shanghai designed to stop "self-seeking capitalists" from supplying the Communists.

In 1931 when Japan seized Manchuria, Matsuoka remarked that Sir John Simon, the British representative in the League of Nations, had put the Japanese case for them better than they could express it themselves. Today American State Department officials, popular journalists, and eminent professors such as Owen Lattimore of Johns Hopkins, and John Fairbank of Harvard, make out a better case for the Chinese Communists than they do for themselves.

In 1937 at the Brussels Conference the Nine-Power Treaty Powers, pledged to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of China, refused to take any action to restrain Japan. Today we have the United Nations on the verge of refusing even to take cognizance of the evidence showing Russia's violation of the United Nations Charter, the Yalta agreements and the Sino-Soviet Treaty of August 1945.

Mr. Hull's pious protests against Japanese aggression were of necessity ineffective but at least he never denied the reality of Japanese conquest when she set up her puppet governments first in Manchuria and North China, and then in Nanking. But Mr. Jessup, on November 28, in the United Nations Assembly, referred to Soviet encroachments on Chinese sovereignty as merely an "allegation" made by the Chinese delegation to the United Nations. And with consummate hypocrisy, or an appalling ignorance of the nature of Communist tyranny, he left it to "people of China" to judge in the future whether or not "an attempt at foreign domination" had been made "through the Soviet controlled world Communist movement."

The issue is confused by those who now condemn the National government in almost the same terms as Japan once used to justify her conquests. Not so long ago we were being told by the British and by many a popular American writer that Japan's "superior" culture and ability to maintain law and order, justified our giving her a free hand in China. Today the American public has been conditioned to believe that the Chinese Communists are, similarly, more fit to rule than the Chinese Nationalists.

Has the lesson of Pearl Harbor so soon been forgotten? Are we once again to supply the sinews of war to the powers preparing for war against us once we shall have helped them to become strong enough to attack us?

Your editorial is rightly entitled "Mad Hatter's Party," but not in the sense you intended.

Cold War Bait For Women

By Malvina Lindsay

Drive In Asia

TWO DISTORTED feminine prototypes—the anemic Western glamour girl of nylon hose and permanent wave, and the husky, blooming Soviet "work heroine" with pickax or shovel have been increasingly pitted against each other in the cold war.

Latest scene of their conflict is Asia. This week in Peiping the Communist drive to line up Asia's millions of women is getting under way with a meeting of a "democratic" Asian woman's conference. It comes on the heels of the Moscow meeting of the Women's International Democratic Federation, at which two American delegates, Mrs. Paul Robeson and Mrs. Muriel Draper, told how oppressed their countrywomen were.

Delegates at the Peiping meeting are from China, Indonesia, Iran, India, Korea, Mongolia and Viet Nam. Mrs. Robeson and Mrs. Draper also are reported to be there. The Asian women delegates are being instructed as to how to organize the masses of women in their countries in accordance with Soviet concepts. For the Moscow Communists, always more alert than the Western nations to the potential power of the world's preponderance of women, are moving rapidly in Asia to institute for women the one-club system directed from the top.

SUCH evangelism would seem easy considering the poverty, oppression and illiteracy of Asian women—and the bait that a poster picture of a well-fed "work heroine" offers. Yet there are a few Western barricades to be overcome. One is the glamorous picture of the American woman that has been built up in the minds of less fortunate women around the world. This picture, though frequently exaggerated as to luxury and leisure, nevertheless carries with it a convincing assumption of a high level of living. It has been etched by means of movies, magazine advertisements, radio programs, mail order catalogues, tourists, salesmen and sales products.

Also some strong native leadership of the Western self-willed variety has been built up by American missionaries and educators. And in India, at least, there is a growing organized movement among women that has its own aims and wants no advice from outsiders.

Apparently what Communist leaders most fear is the counter influence of what they call "bourgeois decadence." When Red armies first marched into Europe they were repeatedly warned not to be fooled by the tawdry superficialities of Western civilization, especially not by Western women, who were pictured as having the "regimented prettiness of dolls," and as seeking to beguile with their painted faces, short skirts, and open-toed shoes. And in eastern European countries a big effort has been made to glamorize the "work heroine" with ditch digging biceps, and to contrast her with her "idle, drinking, smoking, lazy" Western rivals.

IN ASIA "barkers" for the Communist way of life will find more hungry, oppressed feminine listeners than anywhere else. One can imagine them saying: "Women, we offer you the true democracy and freedom—freedom to work at any job a man does and receive equal pay! We also offer you the freedom to be mothers as well as laborers. We will give you time off with pay during pregnancy, provide nurseries in which your children can be cared for, also services that will help you with your double jobs.

"What is more, we will glorify you as work heroines—the kind of women that true democratic, freedom loving men prefer to the outdated, lazy, painted women of the "western world."

No such rosy promises are being made to Asia's women by the West. Yet in some of the most primitive villages of Asia, American documentary films have been taken to show everyday American life and methods of caring for children, healing the sick, preparing food, making homes sanitary. And tales of local Marco Polos returned from contact with the West, especially America, are passed along and kept alive. Moreover cosmetic exporters are on the job in India, Siam, Thailand, Indo-China, Lebanon, Guam, Iran, Tangier. The rage for permanent waves has spread among many young Asian women.

The permanent wave would indeed be a flimsy weapon with which to counter the Soviet drive among Asia's hungry, drudging women. But there are signs of a new spirit among Asian women that may prevent their being complete pushovers for any ideology. Women members of the Japanese Diet have just raised a big rumpus because they were left out of a junket to the United States to which their men colleagues were invited. And in the recent election in Syria virtually every woman who could meet the educational qualifications for suffrage went to the polls for the first time, and voted solidly for progressive candidates committed to extending the rights of women.

British Elections

By Marquis Childs

Majority View Sees Labor Victory

LONDON.—Even the passing observer can find certain striking parallels between the political scene in Britain and politics back home in the United States. On the one side it is pointed up by the current visit of American trade union leaders here to form a world federation of free trade unions.

Childs

Such a politically conscious trade union leader as Walter E. Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers and chief of the CIO delegation now in London, talks the same language as the leaders of Britain's Labor Party. While members of the AFL delegation, headed by William Green, are far more conservative in their outlook, nevertheless the trend in the older and more traditionally minded organization is toward the goal of direct and active participation by labor in politics.

But it is on the other side of the political fence, in the Conservative Party, that the parallel is most evident. Ever since the defeat of 1945, which surprised and dismayed them in somewhat the same degree as the Republicans were surprised and overwhelmed by their defeat in 1948, the Conservatives have been divided and dispirited.

They are preparing to face an election early next year with a great outward show of confidence. The Labor Party is already charging that the Conservatives have a war chest for propaganda of millions of dollars provided by big industrialists. And that will sound familiar to American readers, too.

Beneath the surface, however, the confidence is not quite so great. There is even the suspicion that the Conservatives, or important elements among them, do not really want to win.

TO WIN would be to assume responsibility with all its risks in this era of Britain's prolonged crisis. It would mean that Winston Churchill would once again become Prime Minister. And with all his daring, his romantic dash, Churchill could precipitate the kind of showdown with organized labor that many industrialists fear.

The parallel should not, of course, be pushed too far. But the Conservatives even have their Colonel McCormick in Lord Beaverbrook, who is for empire first, last and always.

The visitor might easily come away with the impression that a Labor victory in February or March is a foregone conclusion. In view of what happened in the United States on November 2, 1948, caution is in order. Here, then, are two views of what is likely to happen at the forthcoming election.

Majority view: The word should be overwhelming rather than majority. Except for conscious expression of party confidence by party leaders, there is little dissent to the belief that the Labor Party will win by a reduced majority but with sufficient seats in the House of Commons to form a government.

This belief is based on conclusions that will sound familiar to Americans who will substitute Democrat for Labor and Republican for Conservative. The Labor Party, so the argument runs, has passed out so many benefits to so many people that inevitably the beneficiaries must add up to a majority.

THE AVERAGE Briton is getting more food. There is not merely full employment but perhaps even overemployment, by which it is meant that people are kept in jobs where they are not doing a full day's work and not contributing to productivity. The national compulsory insurance system has benefited millions, although a superabundance of red tape has probably curtailed these benefits.

The other face of the argument is that the Conservative Party has no positive program to offer. Their policies might mean unemployment or they are merely saying that they can pass out the benefits more efficiently.

Minority view: This is expressed by several highly informed editors who, far from wanting a Conservative victory, believe it might be a calamity. They base their belief in part on a secret poll recently taken, showing that whereas Labor won nearly 48 percent of the vote in 1945 and the Conservatives 40 percent, with the balance going to the Liberals and scattering independent parties, that ratio now has been almost exactly reversed.

By the poll, the Conservatives are shown to have 49 percent, Labor 39 and the Independents 12. The margin is so great, it is argued, that even the crude measurement of a poll cannot this time be wrong.

For those holding the minority view, the polls confirm a growing intuition that a considerable segment of the British public has revolted against regimentation and bungling on the part of the struggling Labor government. This is held to be particularly true of housewives and the middle class.

As is readily acknowledged in both camps, a great deal can happen in politics in three months. And here again American experience will be recalled—in that ancient phrase, "you pays your money and you takes your choice," calmly ignoring the prophets and the prognosticators.

Chinese Reds Nearly Catch Fleeing Chiang

Chengtu, China, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Chinese Communists almost caught Chiang Kai-shek, No. 1 on their "war criminals list," at Chungking.

Chiang had refused for several days to leave Chungking despite the pleas of his staff and so he waited, while the Reds marched nearer to the city. Tuesday it became impossible to delay longer. The generalissimo got into his car and set out for Peishiyi airfield in the northwestern outskirts.

The jam of refugees was so great he had to abandon his automobile. He got out and walked part way. A jeep came along and he borrowed it. It was midnight when he reached the field, where his Skymaster plane waited.

Through their grapevine the Communists outside the city knew Chiang had not yet left Chungking. They tried desperately to fight to positions where their cannon could rake the airfield.

At last Chiang boarded the Skymaster, but he insisted on waiting until daylight Wednesday morning before taking off. At daybreak the plane took off. A few hours later Communist troops occupied Chungking.

Vote Delayed on China's Charge Against Russians

New York, Dec. 2 (NYHT).—At the request of Dr. T. F. Tsiang, Chinese delegate, the United Nations General Assembly Political Committee today agreed to postpone until Monday a vote on two resolutions dealing with China's charge that Russia, in giving military and economic aid to the Chinese Communists, violated treaties and the U. N. Charter.

Dr. Tsiang said he was waiting for "fresh instructions" from his government and indications were the delegation was reassessing its position in view of the unfavorable reception its resolution, which strongly condemned Russia, has received.

Chinese tactics—still undecided—may range from withdrawal of their foredoomed resolution to amending a milder United States-backed proposal.

World Bank Group Going To Far East

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development announced yesterday that a mission will leave by air Monday to review the economic position of the Philippines, Thailand, India and Pakistan for possible future loans.

The economic standing of the Philippines will be reviewed for World Bank financing of an electric power project. Thailand has indicated interest in obtaining funds for irrigation and railway development.

In India, which already has received two loans totalling 44 million dollars, World Bank representatives will re-examine the country's development in view of a third loan now pending for 25 million dollars.

The Pakistan study was scheduled following that country's application for membership in the World Bank, and its interest in getting World Bank help for national development.

The mission will be headed by Joseph Rucinski, loan officer of the World Bank. Other members will be Antonin Basch, chief economist; William M. Gilmartin, economic department; and William Fraser, loan department.

Gilmartin will return to Washington after the Philippine survey. Other members will later be joined by J. Thomsen Lund, agricultural specialist of the Bank; H. E. Tolley, economic department; M. F. Ryan, railway consultant; and W. N. McLeod, engineering consultant.

Priest Pleads 'Partly' Guilty In Spy Trial

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—A Russian orthodox priest, Alexei Krisko, pleaded guilty to spying for the Soviet Union today in the first trial of alleged Moscow agents ever held in a Communist state.

The only woman defendant, Ksenia Komad, 46, who said she lived with the priest during the war, followed him to the witness box and confessed to collaboration with the Nazis.

They were the first of 10 defendants, mostly Russian diplomats and newspapermen, to be heard. Of the original 12, one hanged himself in his prison cell and the other is too ill to appear.

Krisko, who is charged as leader of the Soviet espionage ring here, told the Sarajevo district court he was only "partly guilty." He testified he had furnished the Soviet Embassy in Belgrade with information, but he denied wartime collaboration with the Nazis.

The prosecution charged yesterday that Krisko toured the country, preaching against communism before Marshal Tito was expelled from the Cominform in June, 1948, and that afterwards he contacted Soviet Embassy officials and offered to spy for them.

Under cross-examination, the priest admitted writing a series of letters giving the Soviet Embassy information on Yugoslav economics and politics.

Enver Krzic, 27-year-old prosecutor, interrupted at this point to point out "the similarity" beween Krisko's reports and Radio Moscow broadcasts. He compared excerpts from broadcasts with the letters.

The priest said he arrived in Yugoslavia as a "White Guardist" and until the end of World War II was consistently anti-Soviet.

Vatican Stamps Due

Vatican City, Dec. 2 (AP).—A new series of Vatican stamps will be issued soon for the 1950 Holy Year.

French, U. S. Plan to Rebuild Ruhr Charged

London, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—A veteran German trade unionist charged today that American capitalists and the French steel cartel have joined forces to rebuild the Ruhr.

Hans Boeckler, bitter opponent of communism and president of the West German Labor Federation, told a conference on formation of a new labor international that 200 million dollars of American capital is going into German industry via France—and not by way of the French government but by way of the Comite des Forges into private Ruhr industry.

The Comite des Forges is the powerful association of French iron, steel and coal magnates who banded together between the two World Wars. Before World War II the Comite had close connections with the German Ruhr industrialists.

Boeckler also came up with a cautious suggestion that all west Europe's heavy industry be "internationalized."

Just before Boeckler spoke, Leon Jouhaux, head of the anti-Communist French Workers Forces, said German trade unions must wrest control of industry away from its prewar owners.

Jouhaux also charged that "Wall Street and American military observers are looking in Spain for bases as if it were possible to cooperate with a system which is diametrically opposed to democracy."

Paul K. Reed of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers asked the conference to build a new organization and not try to revive old machinery.

U. S. Declares Red Apology Is Inadequate

Berlin, Dec. 2 (AP).—Soviet Col. Alexei Yelisarov today said he was sorry one of his sentries killed an American serviceman in Berlin last week.

But he indicated it could happen again if Americans refuse to obey orders of border guards. He said the guard fired at the auto's tires.

Yelisarov replied to a protest by Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United States commandant, over the shooting of an Air Force staff sergeant, John E. Staff of Ramsay, Ill. Staff apparently failed to heed a challenge at a Russian checkpoint.

The Russian colonel expressed "sincere regrets," but made it plain he considered the shooting the American's fault. A United States spokesman called the reply unsatisfactory because it refused to acknowledge "irresponsible use of firearms."

The sergeant, two other soldiers and a German girl drove up to the Soviet-zone checkpoint and, when halted, tried to get away. The sentry fired and staff was hit in the head.

Czech Purge Not Over Yet, West Feels

London, Dec. 2 (U.P.).—Western diplomats today predicted the Communists would renew their "purge" of the Czechoslovak middle class as soon as labor camps have "digested" thousands already seized.

Conservative estimates, based on reliable reports from Prague, indicated between 5000 and 10,000 persons have been arrested. Western press reports had estimated the total as high as 40,000.

Well-documented reports said many prisoners had been put to work in uranium mines of northern Bohemia, after mass sentencings for "political unreliability" and "negative attitudes" toward the Communists.

Diplomatic quarters listed three possible reasons for the offensive against the middle class:

1. To eliminate opponents of the regime and to remove those who might think and act "independently."

2. To recruit a labor force for government-owned industry.

3. To advance Communist plans for transforming Prague into a "workers' city" by freeing homes and apartments belonging to the middle class for occupancy by the "proletariat."

MacArthur Urged For Top Post in Orient

Tokyo, Dec. 2 (AP).—A seven-point American program under which General MacArthur would become high commissioner for U. S. affairs in the Orient was proposed today by Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.).

Knowland said the U. S. should make it plain "we have no intention to recognize the Chinese Communist regime." In fact, he advocated an American air-sea blockade of North China to bring the Reds "to their senses."

The California Senator also:

Suggested the U. S. send a new team of diplomats to the Orient—a team without a "defeatist attitude."

Proposed a new mission to China headed by Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, wartime commander of the China theater, or an officer of similar stature.

Urged the U. S. "take off the freeze" on unspent Economic Cooperation Administration funds allocated to China and that it boost air and Navy strength in the Orient.

Knowland said good-will visits by American Navy task forces, including carriers, would have a stabilizing influence.

[The United Press reported that Knowland intends to propose this new position for MacArthur in the Senate next month].

Nickel Holdup Costly

Noblesville, Ind., Dec. 2 (U.P.).—Charles German, 29, Indianapolis, was taken to the Indiana reformatory today to serve a 1-to-5-year term for stealing a nickel in a street holdup.

Brazil Plane Crash Kills 20

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Dec. 2 (AP).—A plane crash in a rainstorm killed 20 Brazilians yesterday. Only two aboard survived. They were Mrs. Lina Machado and her 2-year-old son, Eribelto.

The plane, a Real (Royal) Air Line DC-3 was bound inland from this Atlantic port 200 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro.

Apparently groping through overcast for an emergency landing, it plowed into the earth near Ribeirao, not far from the Parana-panema River. Pilot Carlos da Rocha, his three fellow crew members and 16 passengers perished.

Among those who died were Mrs. Machado's husband, Antonio, and another son.

The airline office here said the plane had circled and returned to Itapetininga, 110 miles out of Sao Paulo, to unload three other passengers because the weather was bad. Then it resumed the flight.

2 Die in Truck Crash

Kokomo, Ind., Dec. 2 (AP).—Two men were burned to death today in two trucks that caught fire after colliding near here.

Gilt-Edge Stocks In England Slash Devaluation Loss

London, Dec. 4 (NYHT).—A strong and steady rise in the value of British gilt-edged securities has virtually wiped out losses that followed devaluation of the pound sterling nearly two and a half months ago.

The change in the trend of gilt-edged securities began three weeks ago when Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, sent the government broker—who happens to be his cousin—into the market to announce that the government was willing to buy.

Sir Stafford's decision was designed admittedly to "squeeze the bears" who were exploiting the falling market.

McDermott said he had talked on the telephone to Smith's wife in Long Beach, Calif. "She said she hoped we could get them out by Christmas," McDermott told reporters, "and I replied, 'I hope you get your hope.'"

Filling Station Man Arrested on Numbers Charges

John Norwood Branch, 59-year-old attendant, was arrested by vice squad detectives at 11 a. m. yesterday on numbers charges at a filling station at 22d and M sts. nw.

Police said a warrant had been obtained in advance after an undercover man had made several plays with Branch.

Branch, who lives at 2137 Ward pl. nw., was charged with operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips and taken before United States Commissioner Cyril S Lawrence.

He was released in $1500 bond and Lawrence continued his case until December 7.

protests with the International Court of Justice at The Hague.

Britain, with 70 million peoples in 40 dependencies, France, with 35 million in eight more, and Belgium, with 11 million in the Congo, all contended the Charter required them to submit reports only on economic, social and educational affairs—for U. N. information only, instead of supervision.

They contended the Charter had specifically separated the colonial problem from the trust territories that come under specific U. N. supervision, and had further refrained from setting up any permanent U. N. body in the colonial field.

They promised to cooperate with Charter requirements, but as Roger Garreau put it for France, "we would not feel that we had to follow decisions which we would consider to be in contravention of the Charter."

The United States, already reporting voluntarily on political progress of 2,800,000 inhabitants of Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, American Samoa, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, voted for eight parts of the program.

It voted against the resolution moving toward a requiring of political reports and abstained on a proposal by which the Assembly itself would seek to determine whether territories were self-governing or not.

Monty, Leaving, Finds Football 'Jolly Fine Game'

New York, Dec. 2 (AP).—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery returned to England today with a liking for American shoe repair shops, drugstores and football, which he called a "jolly fine game."

One disappointment—he missed trying peanut butter. He saw it on a menu but when he asked for some was told the restaurant was out of it.

Jordan said he now is assistant to the president of the American-Pacific Industrial Corp., New York contractors and construction engineers. He said he was a sergeant gunner in the first World War and received a commission as captain in May, 1942, in the last war.

Jordan said there was a Russian staff at Great Falls to receive the planes and materials. He said the commanding Russian officer was Col. Anatole Kotikov.

All-Woman Jury Acquits Man; Judge Sets Probe

Philadelphia, Dec. 2 (AP).—An indignant judge today ordered a sweeping investigation of an all-woman jury which he rebuked for acquitting a club bartender of a murder charge.

He also asked a study of the possibility of rearresting the formerly accused man on charges of assault and battery.

The verdict, he asserted, was a "miscarriage of justice."

The jury returned its findings last night, a few hours after Judge Joseph Sloane of Common Pleas Court charged: "I do not see how you can find a verdict of not guilty."

Under the lash of the judge's censure the jurors went and one of them fainted and was carried from the jury box.

The accused was 31-year-old James Comber, charged with beating and kicking to death Hubert E. Madden, 53, well-known clubman and sales executive.

No Great Shakes As Stage Stooge

By Richard L. Coe

EVER SINCE the Philadelphia La Scala Opera Company mercifully stopped giving "Aida" in Constitution Hall, thus keeping me from my oft applauded part of Second Jailer to Amonasro, I've been unable to land an acting role.

The other night, however, I returned to the stage at no less a landmark than New York's famed Palace Theater. Because the event has been totally ignored by the press, I feel it should be set down here for my own satisfaction if for no one else's. Here's how it happened.

Back in the good old you-never-had-it-so-good Army days I was stationed in Cairo where, during off hours and under a halfdozen luridly assumed names, I wrote for the Egyptian papers, a cynical deal whereby I bartered my words for the heady Cypriot brandies with which international soldiery there washed its innards.

In the course of my labors for the English Egyptian Gazette, I covered theaters and ran into many a convivial British actor. Among these was a Lieut. Col. Nigel Patrick, whose King's Rifles insignia below a cagily youthful face I lazily interpreted as those of a mere lieutenant. After this protocol gaffe was ironed out, Sergeant Coe and Colonel Patrick became good companions to the horror of the American Army headquarters, which used to eye us queasily every time we entered one of the better bistros with ENSA blondes decorously in attendance.

Nigel, now again a London stage star, introduced me to a breezy and urbane major who, in private life, had been a magician. At our first meeting in the Metropolitan Hotel, this Maj. Robert Harbin proceeded to entertain the Yank sergeant with a few simple tricks, glasses of water that moved about the table top and such like.

"Now," said Bob, "I have an especially good one. We'll place these four glasses under this napkin and, after a few magic moments, all will move back to their positions."

Earth-Shattering Trick

It was a sleepy Sunday afternoon in Middle East midsummer and we were all, I think, a trifle drowsy. The napkin was placed over the glasses and Bob began his incantations. Slowly the whole room began to shake. The chandeliers rattled. We rattled. The glasses rattled, shook off the napkin and slid off the table onto the floor, in splinters.

Major Harbin seemed vaguely surprised, indeed paled. Immediately afterward we hit the sack for siesta.

Not until the next morning did we know that Cairo had an earthquake that stifling Sunday afternoon.

Try as he might to amuse us in the future, we never again permitted Harbin to attempt one of his table tricks. We greeted Dolly, his wife, fresh from a torpedoed ENSA ship, and concentrated on charades.

During the years since we've all corresponded erratically, so it was no surprise to me to find Bob's name up in front of the Palace while I was in New York last week. I paid my way in to find Bob's act just going on. When he asked for people in the audience to help him and Dolly—now a dazzling blonde—with their tricks, I slumped in my seat, the shy type. Soon, however, he was imploring someone else to come up and be sawed in half. That I couldn't resist. The chance to break up his act in revenge for the Cairo earthquake had finally come.

By the time I got to the stage, he was doing another trick and so couldn't see me. When he turned to ask me my name, I told him "Nigel Patrick."

It didn't work, though. The guy knew me: "But Dick, you've sure gotten FAT." This was not my idea of how to make a graceful debut at the Palace Theater and, before I'd recovered my dignity, he and Dolly had, in truth, sawed me in half.

I'm not sure that the audtience didn't think it was a put-up job, but considering Bob's affable sangfroid and rapid touche at my increasing chin, it little knows how closely it escaped an earthquake.

I see by the papers that Bob's over at the Hippodrome in Baltimore this week, and if it weren't for the fact that the railroads have increased their coolness toward passenger travel, I'd go over and dare him to give Baltimore, chich could stand one, an earthquake.

TODAY: The Capitol dips back to 1941 for a re-issue of Lana Turner, Robert Taylor and Van Heflin in a melodrama, "Johnny Eager"; Paul Haskon and Sylvia Eroos headline the stage bill . . . The Columbia also comes up with a re-issue today, "The Sun Never Sets" . . . "Tom Sawyer" will be acted this afternoon at Roosevelt High auditorium by the Children's Theater of Washington . . . "The Boss Comes to Dinner" will be played by the Montgomery Players over WBCC this morning at 11:15 for the Montgomery County TB association . . . Pierce Hall's Sunday Motion Picture Hour tomorrow night at 7:30 will show "Den Glade Skarddaren" . . . "Brigadoon" closes a solid week tonight at Ford's Baltimore, with James Jamison dancing the role that made him a ondon favorite.

GENTLEMAN? Robert Taylor takes a poke at Lana Turner in their melodrama, "Johnny Eager," which the Capitol revives today with Van Heflin in the role that made him a star. The Capitol's new stage bill stars Dancer Paul Haakon and Singer Sylvia Froos

Pacific Hiring Halls Illegal, NLRB Trial Examiner Holds

West Coast waterfront hiring halls, as presently operated, are illegal under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner ruled yesterday.

At the same time, Examiner Irvin, Rogosin held, in effect, that hiring halls could be jointly operated by management and union under the Taft-Hartley Act so long as there was no discrimination against non-union workers.

The ruling, affecting some 15,000 CIO longshoremen and waterfront clerks, can be contested by the International Longshoremen's Union before the NLRB five-man panel. The full board ruled last spring that East Coast hiring halls operated by the CIO National Maritime Union were illegal. The NMU may seek a Supreme Court review of this decision.

The West Coast NLRB trial examiner found that preferential hiring based on union membership was practiced, resulting in illegal discrimination against nonmembers.

The trial examiner's ruling was made on charges brought against the union by the Waterfront Employers Association of the Pacific Coast. After filing the charges, the employers joined the union in asking the NLRB to forget the matter, on the ground that a decision in the case might disrupt the waterfront's industrial peace.

The request was denied after NRLB General Counsel Robert Denham opposed dismissal of the case on the ground that such action would condone unlawful practices.

The issue of hiring halls is due to come up for hearings before the Senate Labor Committee, when Congress returns in January. Bills are pending in both chambers to give maritime unions specific authority to run hiring halls.

Judge Weighs Another Trial For Burgman

A motion for a new trial for Herbert John Burgman, 52-year-old American convicted of 13 acts of treason in Germany during World War II was taken under advisement yesterday by Judge Alexander Holtzoff in District Court.

Defense Counsel William J. Owen, argued that his conviction on November 15 was improper on four principal grounds. They were:

1. Federal employes were on the jury.

2. Words do not constitute treason.

3. Witnesses should have been brought to Washington from the American zone of Germany instead of questioned there by James J. Lauglin of defense counsel.

4. The court here had no jurisdiction because Burgman should have been tried in the court where a plane returning Burgman from Germany first flew over, rather than where it first landed. A law, passed before the Civil War, requires that a treason defendant be tried where he first touches this country.

Victor Woerheide, a special assistant attorney general, represented the Government. Burgman was not in court. The former United States Embassy employe in Berlin, who was charged with broadcasting Nazi propaganda during the war, was reported too ill to attend.

U. S. Employe Sentenced in Morals Case

Edward F. Kelly, 41-year-old employe of the U. S. Public Health Service, yesterday was sentenced to pay $75 or go to jail for 60 days on a charge of soliciting for lewd and immoral purposes.

In pronouncing sentence, Municipal Court Judge Thomas Dewey Quinn said he was taking into consideration that the man had no record of previous violations.

Quinn earlier rejected a motion for a new trial. The defense attorney contended that Kelly's conviction was based on the "uncorroborated" testimony of Police Pvt. Frank Manthos, whose veracity the defense counsel questioned.

The judge pointed out that Manthos' testimony had been corroborated in part by Kelly himself and another police officer. The case will be appealed, defense counsel said.

Kelly was first found guilty more than year ago of a charge of inviting Manthos, whom he met in a park, to his apartment for immoral purposes. A new trial was ordered and a second conviction ensued. Kelly declared that he had merely wanted to offer a friendly drink to a man he thought was a lonely stranger in town.

D.C. Policeman Faces Ouster

Dismissal of Pvt. Ellsworth Williams, 55, a policeman for 25 years, was recommended by a Police Trial Board yesterday after he pleaded guilty to charges of being drunk off duty.

Williams has been convicted six times previously by a trial board, police officials said.

He was suspended November 27 by Lieut. Samuel J. Prophet 45 minutes after he had concluded his tour of duty at No. 11 Precent. Prophet charged him with being under the influence and said that Williams had insisted he was supposed to be starting his tour of duty instead of ending it.

Williams lives at 764 Columbia rd. nw. Through his lawyer, Harry A. Dyson, Williams asked for leniency and threw himself on the mercy of the three-man board, headed by Inspector Milton D. Smith and including Capt. John E. Fondahl and Archie Winfree.

Prophet was the only witness for either side during the 15-minute proceedings.

AAC Boss Orders Colts Not to Talk To Redskins

Commodore O. O. Kessing (ret.), commissioner of the All-America Conference, yesterday nipped the attempt of Redskin Owner George Marshall to lure the Baltimore Colts into the National Football League with an official crackdown.

In a teletype message from his New York headquarters to Walter F. Driskill, Colt's general manager, Kessing stated:

"I have been advised that George Marshall has asked the Colts to discuss a proposal to jump to the National Football League. I officially inform you the Colts have no authority to discuss the subject with Marshall or any other NFL representative.

"And I am directing you not to discuss the matter with him. Interleague matters are for discussion only between the commissioners of the two leagues."

Driskill declared, "Naturally, we will abide with Commissioner Kessing's directive, although it was never our purpose to seek admission to the NFL."

Peace between the two rival pro leagues, not the inclusion of Baltimore in the NFL, would have been the topic of any discussion with Marshall, Driskill said. "He invited us to talk with him, it was not our idea," said the Colts' boss. "We were willing to help improve relations between the two leagues."

Driskill added he would be in Washington to witness the Redskins-Packers game, "but, of course, since the Commissioner's directive will avoid Marshall."

He declared that Marshall had relayed through Roger Pippen, Baltimore sports editor, the original invitation to have Colts' officials come to Washington and take up the matter of Baltimore's pro football future.

"In a telephone call with Pippen," Driskill related, "Marshall also asked him to invite Mayor D'Allesandro to a conference in Washington. Mr. D'Allesandro didn't think it was quite the dignified way to approach the mayor of the country's sixth largest city, and said he would have none of it."

Driskill made clear and emphatic that the Colts would stick with the AAC. "We are bound, morally, if not legally to support in every conceivable manner our partners in the conference.

"We're proud of our AAC association. They've treated us fairly the last three years and we would not make a move to jeopardize our relations.

"Our thought is that teams of the two leagues should meet in preseason exhibition games and then in a title game at the end of the regular season to determine for the fans which is the true champion."

The Colts admittedly operated at a loss of "just under $100,000" last season, but club officials declared the team is debt free and got magnificent support from the fans in the light of its one victory in 12 games.

Two days after their recently announced plan to enlist more fan support by selling 50,000 tickets for a pre-season game next fall at $5 per seat, the Colts' officials reported that half of the goal was already reached.

When a merger of the two leagues was broached last year, Marshall demanded payment for "territorial rights" if the Colts were brought into the NFL. He pointed to the 75-mile radius of "rights" granted him by the NFL constitution. One report had it that Marshall was asking $250,000 from the Colts to share his rights, but he denied it was that much.

Marshall also scoffed at reports the war between the two leagues has meant red ink for almost every team. "I know five teams in the NFL made money this season," he said. "They are the Redskins, Eagles, Steelers, Bears and Cardinals."

Mighty Mo, Joe Tucker Score Terps' Touchdowns

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP).—In a flicker of glory, not to be confused with a blaze, Maryland ended the most successful football season in its history tonight by whipping Miami U., 13-0.

At the finish, 34,886 irate partisans of Miami in the Orange Bowl Stadium, were loudly booing the game's officials, charging they had deprived the Floridians of an important touchdown in the third quarter.

The Terrapins moved into a quick lead when Quarterback Joe Tucker climaxed a 73-yard drive by skipping the last 15 yards through guard on a "keep" play. And then after muffing a slew of scoring opportunities in the next two quarters, Maryland got its second touchdown on a short fourth-down pass, Stan Lavine to Modzelewski.

It was Maryland's eighth victory in nine starts this season.

Terps' Defenses Sag

In between their first and second scores, however, the Terps were not sensational. Their vaunted defense, which stood up brilliantly in the first half, went to pieces in the third quarter when the hustling Hurricanes ran and passed their way down to the Terps 19 only to have the drive end in failure.

Later, the Hurricanes struck again, but this drive also ended in failure as the officials ruled a fourth down Miami pass no good, much to the dislike of the partisan Orange Bowl assembly.

The crowd and the Miami team felt End Andy Novak had made a legitimate catch of Quarterback Jack Del Bello's fourth down, fourth-period pass, but the officials ruled the ball had hit the ground first.

If allowed, the pass would have given the Miamians, who were trailing only 6-0 at the time, a first down on the Terp 27. When the officials ruled it incomplete, it set off a booing in the vast stadium which subsided only when the last customers had left the park.

Except for those two sorties, the Hurricanes offered little except fight and determination against Maryland. They made all of their seven first downs in the second half, five in the third period.

Until the ill-fated third period excursion, Coach Andy Gustafson's youngsters had been held inside their own 40-yard line by Bobby Ward, Elmer Wingate, Ray Krouse and Co.

Thanks to the great defensive play of Ward, Krouse and Wingate, the Hurricanes gained only 156 yards running and throwing. They made 142 of these in the second half.

Harvard Slur Brings Retort By Stassen

Boston, Dec. 2 (AP).—University of Pennsylvania President Harold E. Stassen today denounced any implication Penn's "State scholarships" were given for athletic ability.

And he expressed surprise at a report Harvard intends to drop Penn from the Crimson football schedule because of these scholarships.

Stassen said he was ready to take up the issue with Harvard President James B. Conant.

Harvard Athletic Director William J. Bingham touched off the tempest by telling the Associated Press in an interview yesterday that he favored dropping Penn.

Bingham said "we can't compete against their State scholarships."

Under this system, each of Pennsylvania's 50 State senators can nominate three students for a tuition scholarship, Stassen explained.

But he insisted "State scholarships are not connected with athletics at the University of Pennsylvania in any way."

"A nomination for a scholarship is not a ticket of admission," said

Harvard Provost, Bingham Don't Agree

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 2.—Athletic Director Bill Bingham's declaration that Harvard would retire from "big-time" football, would schedule only Ivy League teams and now considers the Big Three no longer in existence, drew a sharp retort today from a superior.

Harvard Provost Paul H. Buck, who is also dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, said: "It is premature to describe the report of an interview with Mr. Bingham as an official statement of Harvard policy."

Mr. Buck added, "I am now in the process of making a thorough study of the situation. An announcement of policy will not be ready until after the New Year."

Post Brings You Bobby Riggs' Own Story Starting Tomorrow

Bobby Riggs, an irrepressible kid who grew up to become world's tennis champion, will tell the story of his career in a series of articles beginning Sunday in The Washington Post.

In "Tennis Is My Racket," Riggs tells how the "lily whites" of the game (himself included) drew down lavish "expense accounts," with the blessing of the game's czars.

Riggs' disputes with the brass hats of tennis were many, and stemmed largely from his dislike of the code of "pure amateurism," which became a mockery to him.

The Riggs story will take you from the time Bobby started out as the barefoot son of a preacher with a borrowed racquet and a nickname of "Sissy," along the bumpy road to stardom.

The series will run daily, December 4 through December 11.

Post's All-Star Selections Will Be Published Sunday

The Washington Post's All-Star Football Selections for the year will be published in Sunday's editions.

These include:

1. An All-Star aggregation chosen by staff writers from the college teams covered throughout the year.

2. An All-Area collegiate team.

3. And in the high school ranks All-Metro, All-Interhigh, All Private and All-Suburban rankings.

Post staff writers have made their selections from more than 50 major colleges covered during the year, including Army, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Southern California and Tulane. You'll be seeing them in tomorrow's editions of The Washington Post.

Caps Meet Philadelphia Here Tonight

Joe Fulks and the sagging Philadelphia Warriors invade Uline Arena tonight to meet Washington's Capitols in an 8:45 National Basketball Association, Eastern Division game.

The Warriors aren't doing too wel, having lost 11 of their 16 starts. Washington has won seven and lost six. Last time they played the Caps, the Warriors lost, 84-69.

Dick O'Keefe was the Washington hero in that game, holding high scoring Fulks pointless until O'Keefe left on fouls in the third quarter.

Meanwhile, Dick scored 12 points, himself.

However, there's another new scoring threat in the Philly lineup, whom the Caps must cope with.

He's 6-foot, 4-inch Vern Gardner, 210-pound Utah All-America, who has been scoring at a 15-1 clip. Fulks has a four-year average of 23.5 points per game.

Other Warrior standbys are the veteran Ed Sadowski, former Chicago ace; George Senesky, Jerry Fleishman, Jake Bornheimer, Nelson Bobb, John Payak, Chink Crossin, Leo Mogus, Mike Noval, Jim Nolan and Jerry Rullo.

In a 7:15 p. m. preliminary, Catholic Youth Organization's crack unlimited team plays the Henderson Hall Marines.

In the CYO lineup will be Billy Conn, sensational halfback of Georgetown's Sun Bowl bound football team, and Miggs Reilly and Danny Kraus, former Hoya basketball stars.

Rochester Beats Warriors, 82-79

Philadelphia, Dec. 2 (AP).—The Rochester Royals gained their seventh straight victory over the Philadelphia Warriors, 82-79, in a National Basketball Association game tonight.

The Warriors' Vern Gardner, back in action after missing five games because of a leg infection, was the leading scorer with 23 points.

Interhigh Expansion

Schools Plan Night Football, Basketball Shift to Uline

Arena to Charge For Only 3 Dates

Because of date conflicts at the National Guard Armory, the Interhigh League probably will play its basketball series at Uline Arena this season.

Uline has offered the Interhighs 13 afternoon dates free of charge and three afternoon-and-evening dates for $500 each.

For the last two seasons, the series has been played at the Armory, which has a standing offer of free afternoon and evening dates to the Interhighs.

However, the schools are leaning toward the Uline offer because:

1. The Armory reserves the right to change the Interhigh schedule when commercial groups offer to rent the hall on game days.

2. The National Automobile Show is booked for the Armory during the last two weeks of February when the Interhighs ordinarily stage their championship playoffs.

Besides, the schools are peeved because the Armory, last week, submitted a bill of $500 to them for alleged breakage and cleaning in 1948-49. According to the schools, the Armory had not previously mentioned anything about damage.

Before they moved their games to the Armory, the Interhighs played night doubleheaders at McKinley Tech High gym with crowds of 3500 in attendance.

However, two years ago, D. C. fire inspectors ruled that only 700 people could be safely accommodated inside the Teech gym. So the league shifted to the Armory, where most games were played during the day.

The Uline and Armory propositions have both been submitted to the High School Board of Principals for a final decision next week. Uline seats 6500 and the Armory 4200.

Meanwhile, coaches of the 10 schools have been authorized to plan their schedules under the assumption that the Interhigh games will be played at Uline in afternoon doubleheaders, with the playoffs slated for the nights of February 17 and 22.

The Uline schedule calls for a season opening double-header pitting Coolidge against Woodrow Wilson and Eastern against McKinley Tech on the afternoon of Friday, January 6.

Corning to Propose Lights for Eastern

Eastern High's three-year fight to light its stadium for night football has a new and active backer—Superintendent of Schools Hobart N. Corning.

Heretofore silent on the question of night football, Corning will go before the Board of Education athletic committee Wednesday with the recommendation that a lighting system be installed at Eastern by next football season.

Assistant Superintendent Norman J. Nelson credited success of The Washington Post-sponsored Interhigh championship game last week with convincing a lot of border-line school people that night football is an asset. Despite sleet and snow, 8000 saw Wilson beat McKinley Tech at night at Griffith Stadium.

Said Nelson yesterday, "we are convinced now that the adult community is interested in school football and will support it if the games do not conflict with daytime working hours.

"We must now convince the Board of Education and the District Commissioners that the Interhigh athletic program cannot

Wilson High, Gonzaga Clash Today

Wilson's Interhigh champions (Division 1-9) meet the Catholic High league champs, Gonzaga, this afternoon at 1:30 at Griffith Stadium.

The weatherman has predicted sunny but cold weather for the game which will be preceded by special entertainment starting at 1 p. m.

Wilson with seven straight wins after dropping its opening game, will be only a slight favorite over a Gonzaga squad that lost four games while winning five.

Second Time for Gonzaga

The Green Tigers are playing in their first Interhigh-Catholic game while Gonzaga is appearing for the second straight year. The Eagles lost to Central last year, 26-6 in the first annual game.

A lot of interest will be fixed on the opposing No. 30's today.

Wilson's No. 30 is Pete Haley, star pass catching end and demon blocker while No. 30 for Gonzaga will be worn by Pete's younger brother, Billy Haley.

Billy is the passer for the Eagles and shares most of the running chores with fullback Tommy O'Keefe.

Leo Speros, stacks up as the chief Wilson passing and running threat, but he gets a lift in the ball-carrying department from Lee Brinson, a breakway artist who missed the last two Wilson games due to an injured knee which has mended.

Punter Carl Prigg, the other halfback in Wilson's single wing system, will probably not be used as he injured his leg in the Tech game last week.

Hyattsville meets Greenbelt in a Prince Georges County league game at 2 o'clock at College Park in the only other high school game scheduled for today.

Howard Wins, 66-35

Fort Meade, Md., Dec. 2.—Howard University of Washington, D. C., trounced Fort Meade, 66-35 here tonight. It was Howard's third straight win.

Alabama Favored Over Auburn

SMU, Without Walker, Looks Easy for Notre Dame Today

New York, Dec. 3 (AP).—Notre Dame's fighting Irish wind up their campaign tomorrow as heavy favorites to bowl over Southern Methodist and run their record unbeaten football streak through four consecutive seasons.

With SMU's Doak Walker on the sidelines with a leg injury, the Irish aren't expected to encounter much trouble in extending their unbeaten string to 38 games.

Notre Dame hasn't been beaten since the end of the 1945 season. The Irish, rated first in the Nation, have won all nine of their contests thus far. SMU has a 5-3-1 record.

Nevertheless a crowd of 75,000 will jam the Cotton Bowl in Dallas to watch the slick Notre Damers display their full bag of tricks.

In the second most important game of the day, Alabama riding high on a five-game winning streak, meets Auburn at Birmingham. The Tide, with a 6-2-1 record, looks too strong for its State rival which has won one game, lost four and tied in three others.

Arizona State of Tempe, which tangles with Xavier of Ohio in the Salad Bowl game in Phoenix, January 2, closes out its regular program against Utah State at Tempe.

South Carolina (3-6) visits The Citadel (4-4) which has a modest three-game victory streak going.

Three bowl games are on tap, headed by the Glass Bowl at Toledo which matches the University of Toledo (6-3-0) and the strong U. of Cincinnati Bearcats (6-4-0).

The Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., sends undefeated, untied Hillsdale of Michigan (9-0-0) against Evansville (7-2-1).

The Shrine Potato Bowl at Bakersfield, Calif., offers another all-winning aggregation, Boise (Idaho) Junior College (9-0-0), Taft (Calif.) Junior College (7-1-1).

Michigan, Stanford Listed Too

Army 'Braces' 1950 Slate With New Mexico, Colgate

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—Army today announced a 1950 football schedule schedule which includes games with Stanford and Michigan. End Dan Foldberg was also elected captain of the team.

The Cadets, ranked fourth in the final Associated Press poll for 1949 and unbeaten in their last 20 contests, will visit the West Coast for football for the second time in 60 years when they clash with Stanford at Palo Alto November 18.

The game may turn out to be one of the classics of the 1950 season. Stanford's young eleven finished this year with a 6-3-1 record. Army, of course, won all of its nine tilts.

On their last trip to the Pacific Coast in 1929, the Cadets also played Stanford, losing 34-13 to the Indians in a post-season game.

Michigan will tangle with Army in New York's "game of the year" at the Yankee Stadium October 14. The Cadets whipped Michigan, 21-7, at Ann Arbor this year.

Besides Stanford, Army has added two newcomers to its schedule, Colgate and New Mexico.

The Army-Navy game will be played at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium December 2.

Foldberg, a crack pass receiver, hails from Dallas, Tex. He succeeds John Trent of Memphis, Tenn., defensive end of this year's team.

An aggressive wingman, Foldberg was an outstanding performer for Army during the past two seasons. He caught five of Quarterback Arnie Galiffa's passes for touchdowns.

His brother, Henry, was an All-America at Army.

Coach Earl Blaik said that "Dan's receiving in the Navy game was the best I have seen all season."

The 1950 schedule: September 30, Colgate; October 7, Penn State; October 14, Michigan at Yankee Stadium; October 21, Harvard at Cambridge; October 28, Columbia at New York (Baker Field); November 4, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; November 11, New Mexico; November 18, Stanford at Palo Alto; November 25, open; December 2, Navy at Philadelphia.

He Signs With AAC Browns

Chandnois Sore at Redskins

Cleveland, Dec. 2 (AP).—Coach Paul Brown announced tonight that his Cleveland All-America Conference pro football team signed Lynn Chandnois of Michigan State on Tuesday. No salary was announced.

Chandnois, reached at the Michigan State College campus, confirmed that he signed with Cleveland.

"I signed with the Browns on the twenty-ninth largely because the Washington Redskins have been going around saying I signed with Cleveland before the start of the 1949 college football season," declared Chandnois.

"I didn't appreciate those remarks at all," he added. "They were not true and I can prove it."

Chandnois was the No. 1 choice of the Redskins in the recent National Football League draft. (The Redskins have made no formal announcement of their draft choices in an attempt to keep them secret.)

Brown, whose club ended the regular league season atop the standings, declared Chandnois was the best collegiate halfback in the Nation this season.

Brown and his club got their first good look at the Spartan star a year ago in California. Both the Browns and Michigan State were then getting ready at Sonoma Mission Inn for games.

Three of Brown's assistants went to San Francisco's Kezar Stadium a day ahead of their game and watched Michigan State play a 21-21 tie against Santa Clara.

On the strength of his performance there, the Browns drafted Chandnois last summer, Brown said.

$20,000 'Cap Ends Bowie Season Today

Bowie, Md., Dec. 2.—Maryland's 1949 racing season comes to a close here tomorrow with the $20,000 Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap topping the program.

Charles Town will open its 15-day winter meeting on Monday. Tropical Park already has begun its 41-day session.

Stables here will ship to Florida, to Charles Town or to the farm. Few local horsemen will campaign in either California or Louisiana.

Sharing top weight of 124 pounds in the mile and three sixteenths event are Frank A. Bonsal's Pilaster and Mrs. E. DuPont Weir's Royal Governor.

Pilaster, seeking his fourth consecutive stakes victory, and is almost certain to reign favorite in the 11-horse field.

Royal Governor, however, won three straight stakes in New York this fall, but was a bitter disappointment in his lone appearance over this track, failing to land a money position after being bumped severely at the initial turn.

In addition to the top weighed pair, the lineup boasts such stalwart routers as Hasty House Farm's Inseparable 114, and Seaward 113; C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy 111; Brandywine Stable's Cochise 114 and Burton Chait's Sky Miracle 118.

Pilaster and Royal Governor are both 5-year-old gelded sons of Pilate. Pilaster is trained by Bonsal, and Royal Governor by Jim Ryan.

Cochise, trained by V. W. Raines, won the Thomas K. Lynch Memorial Handicap here earlier in the meeting, scoring over Seaward, Manchac and Royal Governor.

Sky Miracle, claimed for $12,500 this summer, is also a stakes winner and promises to be the best claim of the 1949 season. Like Double Brandy, he is a 3-year-old.

WALTER HAIGHT.

September Second In Dec. 2 Race

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., Dec. 2—Alairne, a colt owned by George M. Jacobson and trained by Ernest E. Hart, both Washingtonians, won his first victory of the year here today in the Snow Hill Purse.

The 4-year-old made 20 unsuccessful tries, while operating in topflight company. Alairne finally made the grade the hard way in a tight photo finish. Chris Rogers rode the winner.

W. J. Lenfn's September was second after looking the part of the winner inside the sixteenth pole while William Ziegler, jr.'s Props was third in the field of eight horses of assorted age and sex.

Alairne, son of Questionnaire, had better than a scattered backing and paid $12.80 after being clocked in 1.48 for the mile and a sixteenth over a track slightly on the dull side.

The race was a thriller due to the fact that every member of the field was a threat at some stage. Several entries had poor racing luck to blame for not getting home in front. This was particularly true of J. T. Gibson's Service Pilot who was shut off when making a move that seemed to mean a trip into the winner's circle.

Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher, beaten when off poorly last out here, made amends today with a smashing effort in the fifth race named the Mistletoe Springs.

Responding to mild urging through the stretch, The Pincher pulled away from his opposition to win by a length and a half over Miss Disco.

Clocked in 1.111/5 for the 6 furlongs, the 3-year-old colt equalled Miss Disco's 6 furlongs time on opening day. The Pincher paid $3.60 straight.

Miss Disco was only second to The Pincher today, however, and was unable to threaten Chris Rogers' willing mount. Third Ace, a stablemate of the runner-up, led into the stretch but wound up third, a half length behind Miss Disco.

The daily double paid $69.60 and the payoff combination was 4 and 9. W. W. Walter's Cork Tip came from behind to win the first race, while S. G. Endleman's Burley Bid proved the best in the second event at $12.80.

Bill Benning Says

DEAR FOLKS:

Arthur White vanned his horses to winter quarters in Middleburg, Va. Danny Marzani, one of the leading steeplechase riders this year, also shipped his African Sunray and Cave Canem in the same consignment. Marzani will leave following the holidays for England where he will inspect the English cources an possibly purchase a chase prospect or two for racing in this country next year. Trainer Buddy Raines of the Brandywine Stable, who saddled Cochise in his winning effort in the Lynch Memorial and scored a stake double with Greek Song in the Endurance Handicap stated that the improving Greek Song would be shipped to Aiken, S. C., with the 1950 Kentucky Derby the object fo the chestnut colt by Heliopolis. BILL

Thomas Added To Fight Show

Pat Thomas, former local amateur lightweight champion, has been matched against Walter Hudson of Baltimore in one of the five-round supporting bouts on Monday night's boxing show at Joe Turner's Arena.

Charlie Titone, Brooklyn featherweight, and Art Llanos, Puerto Rican, will headline the card in a 10-round match.

Another five-rounder booked by Matchmaker Gabe Menendez has Marshall Clayton, former all-Army lightweight champion, undefeated in six professional bouts, engaging Jimmy Briscoe of Washington. Jackie Williams of Baltimore and Scott Richardson of Washington also are slated for one of three four-rounders on the card.

Thomas has won 10 out of 11 professional matches and is fresh from a knockout over Walter Ham, the only boxer to beat him.

The Titone-Llanos match looms as a toss-up. Titone has dropped but two bouts in more than two years, one of them to Jimmy Cooper. Oddly enough, Llanos' one setback in more than 100 matches was to Cooper.

Penn Tactics Defended

Stassen. "The university may reject any of them."

"Occasionally," he said, "a boy turns out to be a good athlete," but Stassen added:

"I believe that the percentage of boys in athletics on these scholarships is no higher than in the university as a whole."

He said further:

"Mr. Bingham's complaint is the first I've heard with respect to athletics since I came to the university.

"It is my understanding that the University of Pennsylvania is complying fully with the athletic code. I believe it is nicknamed the 'sanity code.'

Stassen suggested that Bingham talk with Dr. Roy Mercer, Penn's athletic director, on any complaints he might have.

With a smile, Stassen told newsmen:

"I certainly have no complaints against the teams we defeat or those who win over us."

The University of Pennsylvania football team won only four out of eight games last season.

But, said Stassen "there was much enjoyment at all the games, by players and spectators.

When told of Stassen's remarks, Bingham replied:

"I have absolutely no comment to make."

Pressed further by newsmen, he said:

"I have nothing further to say. I'm sorry I did any talking in the first place."

Stassen was here to lunch with Pennsylvania alumni and address a meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Lano Charges Bias, Asks Venue Change

Sam Lano, a coin machine operator, yesterday asked that his pending trial be shifted from Prince Georges County because of "false" rumors linking him to Frank Costello.

Lano is scheduled to go on trial in Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro on a two-count indictment which charges him with threatening a Brentwood tavern owner.

Lano's plea for a change of venue, filed by Attorneys Louis Lebowitz and Robert W. McCullough, stated that "false and misleading rumors have been circulated" that Lano is "a personal representative of one Frank Costello of New York City, reputed to be Public Enemy No. 1."

The petition said that the rumor that Lano is "Costello's personal ambassador" is "untrue."

Articles Held Biased

The plea said newspaper articles about Lano have been "prejudiced, sensational and untrue and have so increased the bitter feeling against him that it will be impossible to have a fair and impartial trial in Prince Georges County."

Judge Charles C. Marbury considered the plea in his closed chambers, where he was closeted for some time with Lebowitz, McCullough, State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie and H. Winship Wheatley, special assistant to Bowie.

After the conference the judge announced he would rule on the request Monday morning.

One of the counts in the indictment charges that Lano "with a view to gaining money from the operation of certain coin-operated devices on the premises of one John Duffy . . . feloniously did threaten to accuse the said Duffy of a crime of an indictable nature, to wit the crime of having obtained money under false pretenses."

"Doesn't Know" Costello

The John Duffy in the case is the proprietor of Duffy's Tavern at 4308 Rhode Island ave., just over the District line.

When Lano, a former New Yorker, was indicted reports were revived that out-of-town operators were preparing to step in and take over control of legalized slot machines in the county.

However, Lano has said that he does not even know Costello, oft termed "King of the Slot Machines."

County voters approved legalized slot machines in a referendum June 2, but 22 days later Judge Marbury invalidated the law under which the voting was authorized, which in effect kept the "payoff" slot machines illegal.

ABC Hearings On Renewals Are Started

The District Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday held the first of 24 public hearings to be conducted in the next two months on an estimated 1700 applications for renewal of retail liquor licenses.

Under a new procedure which requires every applicant to be present, 74 applications were read off without public protest. They must still be approved by the ABC Board.

In previous years, applicants were forced to appear only when protests against renewal made a hearing necessary. The corporation counsel recently ruled, however, that this procedure did not exactly fulfill the terms of the ABC law.

ABC Board Chairman Alan W. Payne said there are 1905 retail liquor licenses now in effect, but that past experience shows not all will seek renewal by the start of the license year—February 1. He estimated the board would have to average yesterday's figure to finish its work.

Renewal hearings have been scheduled on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from now through January in the ABC hearing room in the Municipal Center, 3d st. and Indiana ave. nw.

in Florida, Louisiana and Nevada. It doesn't mean that he personally is in control, but his cohorts, in alliance with him, have some control."

He asked the mayors to develop a means of swapping information among cities as a way to control operations of underworld characters by tracking their movements.

The counterparts of "the Costellos, the Capones and the Lazias" have become far too commonplace in contemporary American municipal history," he said.

"In Kansas City, Tom Pendergast ruled over one of the most powerful political machines in the Nation. Admittedly, his chief Lieutenant was John Lazia. A protege of Lazia and a pallbearer at his funeral is today one of the most important political figures in Missouri.

"When Huey Long maintained his dictatorial regime over Louisiana, the Kingfish welcomed into the State the king of slot machines and America's No. 1 racketeer, Frank Costello.

"A few years ago, Jimmy Hines was one of the most powerful political leaders in New York. But Hines eventually became a mere order boy for the gangster Dutch Schultz, and the underworld leader, Frank Costello."

Peterson said the Capone gang in Chicago named State senators, representatives and judges, placed key men in the city government and controlled entire wards to influence city elections.

The mayors' group unanimously approved a motion by Mayor William F. Devin of Seattle to refer the whole matter of crime to the executive board "to make studies and findings."

The chairman announced that the next convention would be held in Washington, D. C., on December 3, 4 and 5 next year.

5 Jailed, 11 Deferred For Gaming

Five persons were given jail terms and 11 others placed on probation yesterday for recent gaming law violations.

The defendants, captured by police in recent months in separate instances, were convicted before Judges Alexander Holtzoff, Edward M. Curran, Edward A. Tamm and Matthew F. McGuire in District Court.

The charges included operating a numbers lottery, possession of numbers slips, setting up a gaming table for horserace bets, permitting gaming, accepting a bet and operating a dice game.

Sent to jail were the following:

Mrs. Laura M. Waters, 54, 603 P st. nw., six months; Frederick Douglas, 40, 1436 W st. nw., three to nine months; Pearl L. Davis, 40, 1133 6th st. nw., 30 to 90 days; Richmond Hairston, 45, 1717 14th st. nw., two to six months, and Rubin J. Williams, 34, 1521 Columbia rd. nw., 30 to 90 days.

The others, all placed on probation terms of from one to two years with suspended jail terms were:

Francis D. Evans, 43, 2719 Georgia ave. nw.; Paul O. Hansborough, 27, 2520 12th pl. se.; Edward J. Hoffman, 54, 1221 Wisconsin ave. nw.; James E. Irby, 28, 2523 13th st. nw.; Clayroy A. Seward, 47, District Heights, Md., Dora Thomas, 24, 1768 U st. nw.; Booker T. White, 39, 1909 30th pl. se.; Hugh J. Carlin, 37, 1225 15th st. nw.; Emma Cobb, 46, 89 Fenton ct. nw.; John C. Commings, 32, Colmar Manor, Md., and George Whitney, 41, 1015 M st. nw.

Evans got a tongue-lashing from Judge Holtzoff. The jurist said that Evans was a college graduate and one-time high-school teacher who quit this work because he did not make enough money.

"You ought to be a leader in the community. Instead, you are in the numbers game. You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said the judge.

5 Arraigned After Raids on County Stills

Five men were arraigned in Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday as a result of two raids made by Federal agents Thursday on bootleg whisky stills in Chapel Oaks.

Four of the men were arrested on the scene. A fifth man surrendered to authorities yesterday morning.

United States Commissioner Samuel Meloy ordered these men held for the action of a Federal grand jury in Baltimore, and released under $500 bond each: Thomas Wells, 45, 1000 60th ave., Fairmont Heights, Md.; his son, Samuel Wells, 24; and Charles Foster, 42, who gave his address as Unadilla, Ga., but said he had been living at the 60th ave. address.

The men were arrested just beyond the District Line near Seat Pleasant, where police said they found a 100-gallon still in operation in a shanty by a hog pen.

Smidth Shuler, 29, 5331 Chapel la., Chapel Oaks, was released under $1000 bond for his appearance before Meloy Tuesday at 10 a. m. Postponement was granted to allow him to obtain counsel.

His brother, McAdoo Shuler of the same address, surrendered this morning and was also released under $1000 bond to appear before Meloy Tuesday.

Smidth Shuler was arrested in his home, police said, after Federal agents found a 200-gallon still and 24 barrels of mash at that address.

Three agents of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit and two Prince Georges County policemen conducted the raids and wrecked the stills.

Corning Ready to Propose Lights for Eastern Stadium

finance itself unless there are night games and the parents can help pay the way."

On Wednesday, Corning will tell the athletic committee that he and Nelson are ready to sit down and figure out the best way to raise the $35,000 needed to install the lights.

Eastern Principal John Paul Collins claims he has the solution. "Eastern alumni and friends have offered to loan the money," he says.

Athletic Committee Head Albert E. Steinem, a lawyer, who declares himself in favor of night football, says, however, "I doubt if a group of private citizens can lend money to a Federal group for erection of lights on public property."

There is another alternative. The Board of Education, when it submits its budget to the Commissioners in June, can ask for an appropriation to light Eastern.

"If the Board of Education approves the lights for Eastern, we will do our best to convince the Commissioners of the urgent need of lights at Eastern," said Collins last night.

Eastern Stadium seats 5500 on one side of the field with room to expand the capacity to 12,000 by temporary seats this fall. There are some parking areas adjacent to the stadium and two blocks away at the National Guard Armory.

In his recommendation Wednesday, Corning will ask that a lighting system be included in the plans for the Coolidge High Stadium which is scheduled to be built within the next three years.

Terps Win Over Miami

other hand, moved 209 yards, only 14 of which came off the five passes they completed. One of the aerials, fortunately, was a touchdown pitch, a 4-yarder from Stan Lavine to Mighty Mo Modzelewski in the last three minutes of the game.

Had Maryland been able to take advantage of the numerous scoring opportunities it had, the Terrapins could have socked the Hurricanes by a much larger margin than Kentucky's Orange Bowl bound Wildcats did. That was the goal of the Terrapins, but they failed, by two points. Kentucky won, 21-6.

Senior Halfback Vern Seibert returned a punt 31 yards to invite a Maryland score which didn't materialize; Sophomore speedster Bob (The Brat) Shemonski legged a kickback 39 yards to place the Terps in scoring position again, but they failed; Jeff Keith intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble, both inside the Miami 35-yard line, but the Terps couldn't cash in on these either.

Their first score climaxed a 73-yard drive with the opening kickoff. Quarterback Joe Tucker ripped through the middle for the final 15 yards. Lavine's pitch to Modzelewski brought the fourth period tally. Guard Bob Dean converted after the second touchdown. He missed his first-period attempt.

Tucker Fakes Superbly

Tucker, playing his last regular season's game for the Terps, sparked the first scoring drive. He ripped off 37 yards on four tries as the Terps moved the 73 yards in 13 plays.

Faking deftly, Tucker did most of his damage by pretending a handoff, but keeping the ball instead. On the few occasions he did handoff, he gave the ball to Fullback Earl Roth who contributed two valuable first downs during the march. When the excursion reached the 15-yard line, Tucker faked a handoff to Shemonski, but kept the ball himself.

He wheeled between guard and tackle and just as he hit the goal line Johnny Troha removed two Miami defenders and Tucker simply walked over.

Maryland threatened three more times the first quarter as the Hurricanes couldn't dent the Maryland defense, but each Terp thrust was repelled, chiefly by their own sluggishness and partly by the tenacity of the Hurricanes.

After the two Miami scares, the Terrapins struck for good late in the fourth period. It was a 51-yard trip, completed in eight tries, Roth got 16 of the yards, but Modzelewski placed the ball on the 8-yard line with a 23-yard burst off tackle after taking a handoff from Lavine.

On fourth down, with the ball on the 3-yard line, Lavine pitched to Modzelewski on the flank and the sophomore smasher from West Natrona, Pa., barreled over, dragging a Miami halfback over the goal line with him.

Keith intercepted a Jack Hackett pass on the Miami 31, three plays later, but four Terps' last second passes failed and Maryland had to, and was glad to, accept a 13-0 victory.

Priory Wins 2d, 53-25

Priory High registered its second straight basketall victory by defeating St. Paul's, 53-25, last night at Priory.

Jack Foley and Bruce Warring paced Priory with 15 and 10 points. St. Paul's was restricted to three field goals in the first half and two in the second. John Cassidy collected four of St. Paul's five field goals.

The Fort Belvoir Engineers will enter today's game with Fort Myer for the Military District of Washington football championship without the services of two star linemen—Guard Jim Battle and Tackle John Overstreet.

Battle is in Walter Reed Hospital recovering from a chest injury. Overstreet is out of the lineup with a bad knee and will not dress for the game.

The game will be played at 1:30 at Pullen Field at Fort Belvoir. Halftime entertainment will be provided by the 356th Army Band of Fort Belvoir and the drill team of the Ceremonial Detachment at Fort Myer.

Immaculata Girls, St. Patrick's Tied

Immaculata and St. Patrick's are still tied for the lead in the varsity division of the Catholic Youth Organization Girls' basketball league, having boosted their records to two wins and no losses in games played yesterday.

Marcella Jordan paced Immaculata to its 33-28 win over Sacred Heart by scoring 15 points. St. Patrick's defeated St. Paul's, 33-23 and Notre Dame romped to a 27-9 win over St. Mary's of Alexandria in other varsity games.

In the junior varsity division, Notre Dame defeated St. Mary's of Alexandria, 26-16, and Sacred Heart won from Immaculata, 26-14.

Who Is Responsible for Costello?

then in the case of liquor that it does not now have in the case of gambling. It had a law—the Volstead Act.

There is no Federal law against gambling. If there were, it is not likely that Frank Costello, Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson would list themselves on their income-tax returns as gamblers.

There is no Federal law against slot machines, either. Actually, Uncle Sam collects a license fee on such machines.

And, finally, there is no Federal law to prevent a gambler from bribing local officials in order to get protection for handbooks, roulette wheels, dice games, and slot machines.

There are some members of Congress who think there ought to be a Federal law under which gambling could be attacked in its interstate aspects. However, that is something for the future.

As matters stand, Federal officials with enforcement experience are convinced that gambling can thrive only where there are one of two sets of conditions.

Whole Business Wide Open

In places like Reno, Las Vegas and Saratoga, the whole business is wide open, having the blessing of both the officials and the populace.

In other places, gambling either is tacitly condoned or somebody is taking graft in cases where it persists in one spot for very long.

What it all boils down to, as the aforementioned Federal officials see it, is this: What really may be needed in communities suffering from gambling and corruption is a housecleaning, a shake-up of the law enforcement agencies.

The mayors of the country—some 9500 of them represented in the American Municipal Association, with headquarters in Chicago—say they need help. They have sought it from the Federal Government, declaring, in effect, that the problem is too big for them.

Carl H. Chatters, executive director of the American Municipal Association, wrote to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath on September 19 to enlist his "active assistance."

"From the experience of several mayors of our member cities," Chatters wrote, "there has recently emerged the necessity of dealing with organized crime on a national scale. The matter is important because it appears that crime syndicates are making an effort to control local politics in those municipalities where the public officials are most opposed to organized crime in all of its aspects.

"In some cases the mayors are threatened with recall, and in other cases it appears there is active political pressure prior to election.

"In any case the matter is too great to be handled by local officials alone, since the organized criminal element operates on a national scale across State boundaries."

Morrison Names Costello Head

Mayor DeLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, president of the American Municipal Association, was more specific in a statement issued a few days earlier. He named Costello as the head, or "reputed head," of a crime syndicate national and perhaps international in extent.

McGrath, replying to Chatters on October 21, said he was "deeply concerned" about the situation outlined, and added that he was not unmindful of his responsibility in regard thereto as Attorney General of the United States.

But he added:

"I do wish to point out, however, that before action can be taken by a Federal law enforcement agency there must be an allegation of a specific violation of a Federal statute within the prescribed jurisdiction of that agency."

McGrath urged the Nation's mayors to report any information coming to their attention of a violation of Federal statutes. These statutes cover income-tax violation, white slavery, traffic in narcotics, kidnaping, evasion of the immigration laws, and so on.

Accused of Nothing Specific

This calls to mind a seeming paradox in the case of Frank Costello: Generally, he is accused of tremendous things; specifically, of nothing—nothing, that is, which would justify a prosecutor in seeking an indictment.

This, as Costello says, is not because he has not been investigated. He has been, he says, and "by experts."

Frank Hogan, District Attorney of New York, and no admirer of Costello, told me that if he had anything on the gambler, he would not tell a reporter about it—but would seek an indictment, prosecute in court, and try and get a conviction.

Col. Garland Williams, head of the New York division of the Federal Narcotic Bureau, was quoted three years ago as saying that Costello was the kingpin of Harlem's modern Mafia or latter-day Union Siciliano, and was engaged in a multitude of profitable rackets.

Costello called a press conference in Attorney Wolf's office, and made public a letter in which he said he was "shocked" by Williams' charges. He challenged District Attorney Hogan to call him before a grand jury, and offered to waive immunity.

I asked Colonel Williams about the charges that had been attributed to him. He said he had to laugh at some of the things that newspapers had quoted him as saying.

Well, what did he think of Costello?

"Costello is generally regarded as being one of the leading racketeers in the United States," Colonel Williams said. "It is impossible for him to avoid being allied with syndicated crime in this country."

Having said this, Colonel Williams had to admit that he had no evidence that Costello was connected with the narcotics racket. If he did have evidence, he said, he would take Costello to court.

Costello himself gets almost violently angry when his name is connected with narcotics.

"I'd rather be dead than do anything like that," he said on one occasion. "That's despicable."

As far as this reporter was able to determine, Federal authorities have no evidence that Costello is the head of a gigantic underworld syndicate.

If he is, I was told, it will eventually be brought to light.

Although Attorney General McGrath said nothing about it in his letter to Chatters, the Department of Justice is throwing a sort of slow-moving dragnet over the country as a result of the mayors' appeal.

It is conducting grand jury investigations in one city after another, aimed at big-time racketeers in general.

The grand jury investigation that started in Kansas City, Mo., late in September was ordered by President Truman himself. It was in session at the time Mr. Truman went to Kansas City for a dinner in honor of "Bill" Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Testifies, Then Hurries to Dinner

One of those called before the grand jury was Charles Binaggio, Kansas City political boss, who is credited with seizing control of the remnants of the Pendergast machine. After testifying, he hurried to the Boyle dinner and sat among some of the high-ranking officials from Washington.

This series of grand jury investigations already has developed information that led to the indictment of a narcotics dealer in Miami. It may lead to much more.

Meantime, Frank Costello says he has no fear of prosecution. He insists that his only interests are his real estate holdings in New York and his gambling casino outside of New Orleans in tolerant Jefferson Parish. He says he reports all his operations to Uncle Sam and pays a proper income tax.

Some persons who have made a study of Costello are convinced that he has a "compulsion toward respectability." They say this accounts for his extraordinary efforts to knock down the many things that are said about him—his letter-writing, his statements to the press, and his repeated challenges that his critics "put up or shut up."

There may be something to that, but I don't think it is the whole answer.

A man with a fixation about respectability would hardly have gone down to Ellis Island to bid bon voyage to a character like Charles (Lucky) Luciano, as Costello did in 1946 when Luciano was being deported.

Would Never Repudiate Friends

Anyway, Costello told me that he would never repudiate old underworld friends, regardless of their reputation.

"I'll always buy them a drink whenever I meet them," he said at our luncheon in the Waldorf.

What worries Costello most, I am convinced, is a fear that he will be built up into such an awesome figure that a Nation-wide outcry will come for his deportation back to Italy.

Costello applied for his first citizenship papers in 1923, which was 12 years after he served his 10-month sentence for carrying a gun. He was admitted to citizenship in 1925. Three months later he was arrested on a rum-running charge, but beat the rap when the jury got hung.

From time to time, there have been reports that Bureau of Immigration officials were looking into Costello's case. However, his lawyers have assured him that he had nothing to worry about.

Costello, nevertheless, does worry. He likes the United States and its free-enterprise system.

He and the other tygoons, now rich and powerful, have good reason to like it.

The End

'Threat' Case Up Monday

The third of the special gambling grand jury's 12 indictments is scheduled to go to trial Monday.

In the case, Attilio Acalotti, alias Till Alcott, 908 14th st. nw., is charged with obstructing justice by threatening "serious bodily harm" to a Government witness.

The Government witness is red-haired Bernice Franklin, once Acalotti's girl friend, and subsequently the Government's leading informer on matters pertaining to Washington numbers and bookmaking circles.

Her appearance on the stand Monday has been assured by Prosecutor William Hitz. Charles E. Ford is representing Acalotti. Ford's associate, Clifford Allder, represents Miss Franklin.

Three other gambling cases in which Acalotti is involved also were scheduled to be tried Monday, but will be postponed, Hitz said yesterday.

Layoff to Eliminate 40% of Jobs in Office Of Export Controls

COMMERCE: A coming new layoff will wipe out about 40 percent of the jobs in Commerce's Office of Export Controls. The notices are slated to go out next month after the office's sharply reduced budget goes to Congress.

BUREAUCRACY UNLIMITED: An amendment to the Air Force manual for its budget officers was issued this week by that agency. It dealt with money to be used for "emergency repairs." This is it:

"Covers requirements to repair property damage resulting from acts of God such as fire, flood, tornado, etc., as directed or approved by headquarters, U. S. Air Force."

Since when has the Air Force the authority to "direct" acts of God?

HOLIDAYS: The Mondays following Christmas and New Year's will be full holidays for Federal workers. No additional time off will be authorized.

GSA: Jess Larson, administrator of General Services, yesterday took steps to set up a permanent organization structure of his new agency. Four major services were established and the men to head them are:

W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of Public Buildings Service; Pere F. Seward, commissioner of Community Facilities Service; Clifton E. Mack, director, Federal Supply Service, and Dr. Wayne C. Grover, director, National Archives & Records Service. The men were all heads of their respective agencies before their transfer to GSA.

Larson also announced that War Assets Administration would be liquidated by January 1. Several hundred employes will lose their joos in the process. The GSA administrator soon will announce an organization plan for his field activities. GSA regional offices will be set up in a dozen cities.

At Internal Revenue, these three retiring employes have been given the Albert Gallatin Award for faithful service: Della D. Childress, Ernest W. Galbraith and John H. Robinson . . . At National Defense, Curt Mitchell and Bob Bruskin have resigned from its public relations division . . . Henry E. Allanson has retired as assistant chief of Agriculture's Bureau of Plant Industry, Soil & Engineering . . . A. J. Ted Meurer has retired from the Tariff Commission . . . Henry C. Badger is the new president of the Federal Security local of the National Federation of Federal Employes. Other officers are: J. B. Moore, vice president; Mildred Hensley, secretary; Ruth M. Cornman, Lyle B. Steever and Mary M. Willhoite, board members.

Fourteen young Federal employes are being groomed for bigger and better administrative jobs. They were selected by Civil Service from nearly 1000 applicants for a special six-month course at American University here in Government administration. They are:

3 D. C. Youths Jailed 8 Years For Robbery

'Saddened' Judge Imposes Sentence In Virginia Holdup

Three Washington youths were sentenced yesterday to eight years each in the penitentiary—the minimum under Virginia law—for beating and robbing a man in Arlington.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, in Arlington Circuit Court, said he was "saddened" by having to impose the sentences. But, he added, the court should not turn antisocial people, who will probably do the same thing again, loose upon society."

The defendants were Charles Albert Riddle, jr., now 21, of 1871 Newton st. nw.; James H. Sebastian, 25, of 1346 Fairmont st. nw., and James Delbert Shively, 2740 14th st. nw., now 18, who was a juvenile when arrested.

All Pleaded Guilty

They were accused of the "brass knuckles" robbery last July of J. L. Heatwole, Georgetown restaurant owner, after he alighted from a bus near his home at 4140 Lorcom lane, Arlington. The loss in the robbery was $900.

In addition to the three youths sentenced, another juvenile was involved, and a girl, against whom charges have been nolle prossed.

Judge McCarthy pointed out that all three youths are children of broken homes. He said, however, that this background may be a reason "but not an excuse" for their conduct. And he asserted that society must be protected, although the day of "eye for eye and tooth for tooth vengeance is gone among enlightened persons."

Judge McCarthy also passed sentence on three other young men in other cases.

Leland T. Atherton, jr., 18, son of a Justice Department tax attorney, 3709 Chevy Chase Lake dr., Chevy Chase, Md., was given eight years probation on a robbery charge. His father appeared in court and pleaded that the youth (who is nearly 6 feet 6 inches tall) has had a heart ailment since he was a baby and has been "pampered."

The boy already is on probation in the District for a holdup of an ice cream store in the District. Judge McCarthy said he imposed the long probation because a probation officer's report on the youth indicated he can be helped. He was accused in Arlington of robbing Ruth Pearl of $10.10.

Richard Seldon, 19, of 2423 Ontario rd. nw., drew five years' probation from Judge McCarthy on housebreaking charges. The youth was a student at Howard University. Judge McCarthy pointed out that he has a good family background, and is expected to respond to supervision.

In the case of John Wesley Atkinson, 25, 1116 N. Fillmore st., Arlington, charged with housebreaking, Judge McCarthy imposed a sentence of a year's imprisonment.

Wagstaff Charged With Conspiracy To Break Jail

Joseph A. Wagstaff of 5506 Grove st., Chevy Chase, yesterday was charged by Montgomery County police with conspiracy to break out of jail.

Wagstaff, 24-year-old veteran of numerous brushes with the law, was accused of conniving with two of his pals to escape from the county jail in Rockville by use of smuggled hacksaw blades. He is confined awaiting sentencing on an assault conviction.

His partners in the abortive jail break, Alfred S. De Argo, 18, of 8105 University la., Silver Spring, and Leonard W. Lewis, 21, of 4623 Asbury pl. nw., were ordered held for the grand jury Thursday on similar charges.

Coroner Investigates Woman's Death

Pending further investigation, Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said yesterday he is withholding a certificate in the death of Mrs. Maude D. Coupe, 54.

Mrs. Coupe was critically burned Wednesday night when the gas stove in her home, at 315 Quackenbos st. nw., exploded. She died Thursday night at Casualty Hospital.

Judge Wins Quoting Tilt With Lawyer

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

A battle of "quotations" was waged yesterday in District Court during sentencing of a petty thief, with the judge getting the best of the skirmish as usual.

James Hinton, jr., 24, of 3138 Stanton rd. se., had been convicted of stealing $8.75 out of a letter while he was a substitute mail clerk for the Postoffice Department.

His lawyer pointed out that Hinton came from a good family, was an honorably discharged soldier, and a college man who had taken graduate courses.

"Besides," said the lawyer, "To err is human, to forgive divine."

Shakespeare Quoted

"What you say about forgiveness and this man's good background is correct, said Judge Edward A. Tamm. But Shakespeare says that when the lily becomes infected its odor is much worse than that of the weeds in the fields."

He then gave Hinton six months in jail.

[Ed. Note: Although Judge Tamm had the right idea, the actual quotation is:

"For sweetest things turned sourest by their deeds.

"Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds,"—Sonnet XCIV, Shakespeare.]

In another case, Judge Tamm gave a man a short term in jail so he can spend Christmas elsewhere.

The defendant, Guildia Caudle, 39, of the rear 79 M st. se., was convicted of simple assault. Since he was charged five months ago, he has been in jail, because he was unable to make bail.

Judge Tamm gave him five days in jail, saying:

"I'm giving you a chance to get out of jail next week. You are getting a chance to get a job before Christmas."

Man Gets 3 to 9 Years

Hyland T. Gray, 38, of 2116 Ward pl. nw., was sentenced to serve three to nine years in prison for mayhem. He was charged with throwing lye on Samuel W. Rutherford, 1319 S st. nw., impairing the sight of his left eye.

Lorenzo S. Wilson, 44, of 1704 9th st. nw., received two to six years for taking indecent liberties with a 9-year-old girl.

George W. Pumphrey, 47, of 1212 Myrtle ave., Takoma Park, Md., received 20 months to 5 years for taking indecent liberties with an 8-year-old girl.

National Symphony Enthralls 2000 Students at Central High

By Paul Hume

Two thousand Washington school children filled Central High School auditorium yesterday afternoon to hear the National Symphony.

Howard Mitchell was there with the whole orchestra. Many thousands more, throughout the elementary school system of Washington, heard the music in their own auditoriums and classrooms. It was the opening of a new series of concerts, free to the city's children, broadcast over Station WQQW.

Six donors made the free concerts possible: The Hecht Co., Peoples Drug Stores, Sears, Roebuck, the Campbell Music Co., Lee D. Butler, and an anonymous giver.

Yesterday the children listened entranced to a wonderful program. The music was chosen especially for them. Mitchell, as he has done for several years, not only conducted but explained the music.

The children's conduct might very well serve as a model for their parents. They were quiet, attentive and didn't cough once during the whole hour.

But there was nothing quiet about the way they applauded after each piece. Sometimes in their excited approval, they even started clapping before the last chord had died away.

It is a wonderful thing for children to hear such music so well played. The orchestra played at the top of its form. The program included the Corsair overture of Berlioz, the first movement of Haydn's London symphony, the march from Tschaikowsky's sixth symphony, and short pieces by Britten and Johann Strauss.

The afternoon came to a stormy closing with the Sorcerer's Apprentice, in which Paul Hume served as narrator. Five more concerts will be played for the children in this year's series. The next one will be in January.

Yesterday morning, the Friday Morning Music Club heard Frances Villaret, pianist; Phyllis Hoyland, soprano, and Marius Thor, violinist.

Miss Villaret played Chopin's B Flat Minor Sonata with power and good style. The big scherzo did not tax her, but the repeated lyrical section was a trifle lacking in repose. The Funeral March suffered from over-pedaling. The finale needs much more clarity and accent. The songful moments of the march came off well.

Phyllis Hoyland has a remarkably beautiful voice. She has added some things to her use of it. But as a singer of great potential, she is a disappointment. She sings flat in much of her lower and middle register, she has little sense of rhythm, and her German and French enunciation cry out for some care.

She sang four beautiful songs of Grieg with more facility. But where in all this, plus Debussy and Brahms, is some style?

'Twasn't Night Before Christmas

Had 'Spell', Chimney-Stuck 'Santa' Tells Blinking Police

Incredulous firemen yesterday morning dug Odell Anderson, 37, of 1107 9th st. nw., out of a second-floor chimney in a wall at 908 M st., nw., with axes and sledge hammers.

Equally incredulous policemen questioned the premature Santa Claus and entered this story on the books at No. 2 Precinct Station.

Anderson told police he had been up on the roof of the three-story building at 4:30 a. m., when he suffered a "spell" and fell down the chimney feet first. The top of the chimney is five feet above the roof, police said, and only 14 by 18 inches wide.

But perhaps the most incredulous persons involved were Mr. and Mrs. Early Banks of Room 6 on the second floor of the M st. address.

Their early morning sleep was interrupted by what both could swear were cries for help coming from the bricked-up chimney at the foot of their bed. For just a moment they dismissed the noise as either (1) rats, or (2) dreams. But when the cries recurred, they told police they made tracks for the nearest telephone and help.

Two hours later firemen freed Anderson, and the Banks made preparations to move from the room which now contained a gaping hole in the wall.

Anderson was taken to Freedmen's Hospital, and treated for shock and bruises and released. Police said no charges would be placed against him.

U. S. Is Sued For $221,000 In Accident

Seven lawsuits, asking a total of $221,000 in damages from the Federal Government, were filed yesterday in Federal District Court at Baltimore as result of an auto crash last April that orphaned and injured a Silver Spring boy.

The boy is 7-year-old Lewis Edward O'Hara, jr., who lived through a crash of his parents' auto with an Army tractor-trailer truck. The accident occurred April 19, on Route 240, a mile north of Clarksburg, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Edward O'Hara, sr., and their 5-year-old daughter, Sandra, were killed. They lived at 10116 Brunett ave., Silver Spring.

Mrs. Beulah Price, grandmother of Lewis, filed the suits, through Attorneys Howard Larcombe and Arthur Bready of Silver Spring and James R. Miller of Rockville.

Three of the actions were brought by Mrs. Price as next friend of Lewis. One asked $75,000 for the death of the father; another, $75,000 for the death of the mother; and one asked $50,000 for injuries to the boy, included a permanent eye damage and impairment of the nervous system.

Mrs. Price asked $10,000 for herself for expenses incident to the boy's medical care. And as administratrix of the estates of the three who were killed, she asked a total of $11,000 for funeral and other expenses.

The suits alleged the Army truck was on the wrong side of the road on a curve, that this constituted negligence, and as result, the Government is liable.

Man, 43, Found Dead in His Auto South of Norbeck

Alexander Hamilton, 43, of Norbeck, Md., was found dead at the wheel of his automobile yesterday afternoon a mile south of Norbeck on Route 97.

Montgomery County police reported the car had run off the road and struck a tree. The vehicle was only slightly damaged.

Hamilton, a Government Printing Office employe, suffered a heart attack, according to staff doctors at Montgomery General Hospital. County Police said that county medical examiner Dr. F. J. Broschart issued a certificate of death by natural causes

Boy, 9, Hurt By Car After Leaving Home

Suffers Cuts, Bruises, But Condition Is Good; Ran Away Thursday

Robert Karpowicz, 9, who had been missing from his home at 3 Squadron Green sw. since Thursday morning, was struck by an automobile yesterday at about 8:15 a. m.

Police said the boy was hit when he ran into the street in the 3900 block of S. Capitol st., which is about a quarter of a mile from his home.

Driver of the car, police said, was James C. Clements, 22, a Maryland University student, of 203 Blackhawk dr., Forest Heights, Md.

During the day the boy was transferred from Gallinger Hospital to Bethesda Naval Hospital where X-rays were made to see if his skull was fractured.

There were cuts and bruises about his head and face as well as his legs, but hospital doctors said his condition appeared to be good.

The boy is the son of Navy Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Cheslaw Karpowicz and a student in the fourth grade at St. Mary's Parochial School.

He did not appear in school Thursday morning, police said, but his parents were not aware of this until Thursday night when they made inquiries because he had not returned home. The parents called police and reported the boy missing.

Police said they learned the boy had spent the night in the hallway of a house at 20 Mississippi ave. se., about a block from where he was struck by the car.

Truck Driver Fined $300 In Fatal Traffic Accident

A 24-year-old Branchville (Md.) truck driver yesterday was fined $300 after he was convicted on a traffic manslaughter charge in which he was found guilty of gross negligence.

He is Joseph Raymond Bordas, jr., 5010 Branchville rd., charged in the death of John T. Pullen, 15, of 6811 Riggs rd., Hyattsville, last October 15.

The case was heard before Upper Marlboro Police Court Judge Alan Bowie, who also fined Bordas $100 for reckless driving in connection with the accident, but suspended the fine.

Bordas told the court that Pullen, driving a motor scooter, started to make a left turn directly in front of him near Greenbelt on the day of the accident. He said he swerved sharply to the left, but was unable to avoid the collision.

Robert E. Hand, 13, of 601 Roxboro pl. nw., Washington, a passenger on the motor scooter, said his vision was obscured by Pullen, and that he did not see what took place before the accident. He said he was certain Pullen had not started a left turn, because he would have been forced to lean with the bike.

York Rite Masons To Confer More Degrees Tonight

The York Rite of Freemasonry will complete degree work for the current sixth annual York Rite Reunion tonight, when the Order of the Temple will be conferred at the Masonic Temple, 13th and New York ave. nw.

Beginning at 6:30 p. m., 37 candidates will receive the Templar degree tonight, in addition to 38 others who received it last night.

The York Rite Reunion is a joint activity of all groups of the York Rite and embraces the Masonic Lodge, the Royal Arch Chapter, the Council of Royal and Select Masters and the Commandery of Knights Templar.

Final event of the 1949 reunion will be a banquet to be held at 6 p. m. Monday at the Washington Hotel, with Dr. Edward Gardiner Latch, pastor of the Metropolitan Memorial Baptist Church, as speaker.

Private Plan Of Financing Urged For Parking Need

Gen. Young Asks Investors to Back Off-Street Program In Downtown Area

Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young yesterday asked members of the Board of Trade to encourage private capital to provide off-street parking for automobiles in the downtown area.

Off-street parking is one of three ways to solve traffic problems here, Brig. Gen. Young told a Board of Trade traffic committee luncheon at the Burlington Hotel, concluding a five-day celebration of the board's sixtieth anniversary.

Speaking after others had recalled traffic problems and regulations of the old days, Young said traffic moves a lot farther and faster now than it did in 1890, "but not as fast as people want it to."

Bottlenecks Being Removed

To make it move faster, he said, more and more bottlenecks, extending out from the central core of Federal buildings, are being removed "piece by piece" in a 10-year program.

Secondly, downtown congestion has to be relieved, the Commissioner said, "and there's not much we can do about that but widen streets and abolish parking." In the third place, he said, "we can help get cars off the streets when they have reached their destination, which means off-street parking."

He pointed out legislation is on the books permitting the District to go into the parking business, but added, "I hope it will be done by private capital." The District's Motor Vehicle Parking Agency has the same policy, he said.

Traffic Inspector Arthur E. Miller said some Washingtonians are "very critical' of traffic conditions here, but when they visit other cities, they are usually glad to get back home.

Old-Time Rules Reviewed

Committee Vice Chairman Charles Cooke reviewed some of the first traffic regulations and a few early recommendations of the Board of Trade. Among these was one asking the Police Department to keep police officers from "forcing their attentions on young women drivers who may or may not have committed minor traffic violations."

Cooke presented Frederick P. H. Siddons, board president, with a Dick Mansfield cartoon.

William O. Herrmann, committee chairman, presided at the luncheon. Guests included past officers of the board and past chairmen of the committee. Music was furnished by the Metropolitan Police Quartet and the Capitolians.

Chest Keymen Push for Goal By Thursday

Community Chest workers yesterday were working at a quickened pace to reach their $3,991,719 goal by the general report meeting on Thursday.

Campaign chairman Frank Lucas said yesterday that many teams, units, sections and divisions are over their quota, and that the Government unit and the city of Alexandria are trying for campaign lead.

Government has reached 91.87 percent of its quota while Alexandria has 90.03 percent of its quota subscribed.

At week's end, the campaign stood at 82.67 percent of the goal, with $3,300,097 collected.

Chairman Luchs pointed out yesterday that if the average gift of $10 can be maintained, the Chest will require another 70,000 contributions to put the drive over the top. Luchs said the goal is "still attainable."

Retired McKinley Teacher Ends Life

Leroy Birch, 67, retired McKinley High School teacher and member of an old Georgetown family, shot himself to death yesterday in his home at 3032 R st. nw.

Birch

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

Mr. Birch, who retired in 1944 after 42 years of teaching, suffered from cancer of the throat. Since an operation last summer, he had to eat and breathe through a tube.

Police said Mr. Birch was in an upstairs bedroom yesterday morning at about 8 o'clock. His wife, Mrs. Ruby Birch, was on a lower floor fixing him some orange juice.

Finds Husband in Room

Mrs. Birch heard a shot, hurried upstairs and found her husband with a bullet through his head. Dr. Catherine Birch, their daughter, who has offices next door at 3030 R st. nw., pronounced her father dead at 8:05.

Police said Mr. Birch apparently got out of bed, took a .38 caliber Colt revolver from his gun collection, stood in front of a full-length mirror and shot himself through the mouth.

When Mr. Birch retired he was lauded by Robert L. Haycock, then superintendent of schools, for his "loyalty and devotion which helped to create something new and vital in the Washington educational system."

Taught Manual Arts

Graduating from Western High School in 1900, after distinguishing himself as a cadet corps lieutenant, Mr. Birch studied in the shops of the new McKinley Technical High School and was appointed to the faculty in September, 1902. He later studied at Cornell University and George Washington University School of Education.

In McKinley's manual arts division, he was called a "true artisan" who knew how to handle steel. He also painted in water colors. Students called him "Doc" because he traveled with the football team, carrying a black bag filled with iodine, court plaster and bandages.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jean Steele Finney, 79, wife of Edward C. Finney, former First Assistant Secretary of Interior, will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be private.

Mrs. Finney died after a heart attack Thursday night while attending a turkey bazaar in the Shepherd Park Christian Church, 7900 Eastern ave. nw.

Mr. Finney held the Interior post from 1921 to 1929. He is now practicing law here.

She was born in Vinton, Iowa, and has been a Washington resident more than 50 years. For many years she was a Sunday school teacher and organist at the Park View Christian Church (now called Shepherd Park Christian Church).

Mrs. Finney also leaves two daughters, Mrs. Charles P. Ryland, 4901 Massachusetts ave. nw., and Mrs. Eivend T. Scoyen of Sequoia National Park, Calif.

Abraham Futrowsky

Funeral services for Abraham Futrowsky, 72, who died yesterday at his home, 4917 Illinois ave. nw., were held at the Danzansky funeral home, 3501 14th st. nw., in the afternoon. Burial was in Ezras Israel Congregation Cemetery.

Mr. Futrowsky was born in Poland and came to America 45 years ago. He operated a butcher shop at 505 Morse st. ne. for 20 years before his retirement in 1947. Active in a number of Jewish organizations, he was a member of B'nai Israel, Ezras Israel Congregations and the National Capital Lodge, a Jewish charity group.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sophia Futrowsky; seven daughters, Mrs. George Winters, Mrs. Fabius Aaronson, Mrs. Ellis Levy, and the Misses Rose, Molly and Jean Futrowsky, all of Washington, and Mrs. David Margulies of Linden, N. J., and two sons, Max and Charles Futrowsky, both of Washington. Also surviving are two brothers, Henry and Benjamin Futrowsky; a sister, Mrs. Chia Azerovitz, and seven grandchildren, all of Washington.

Rainsford French

Funeral services for Rainsford French, 65, a life-long District resident, were held yesterday morning at Chambers Funeral Home, 1400 Chapin st. nw.

Mr. French, a machinist before his retirement last January, died of a heart attack Wednesday at his home, 1834 Belmont rd. nw.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Edytha Upham French; two sons by a former marriage, William Bates and Charles Ballough French, both of Daytona Beach, Fla., and a daughter, Miss Joy French of the Belmont st. address.

Mrs. Munson Dies; Former D. C. Teacher

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Reed Munson, 80, a public school teacher here in the 1890's who died Thursday after a long illness, will be held at 11 a. m. today at First Presbyterian Church, Arlington.

Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Falls Church.

Mrs. Munson died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas H. Johnston, 4713 N. 37th st., Arlington.

She was born in Arlington in 1869, and will be buried from the church in which she married the late Dr. Charles B. Munson, a Washington dentist for many years, in October 1894. She was a charter member of the church.

In addition to Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Munson is survived by three sons, William Reed Munson and Boardman Munson, both of Arlington, and Charles B. Munson of Rileyville, Va., and two other daughters, Mrs. Marian M. Donovan, Arlington, and Mrs. Lucy M. Rose, Fairfax.

Mrs. Mary Herwig

Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Mary Amelia Herwig, 93, of Annapolis and Upperville, Va., at the Fort Myer Chapel. Burial was in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Herwig was the widow of Comdr. Henry Herwig, USN, who died in 1898. She died Wednesday in Annapolis where she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Hildegarde Dutton.

Born in Alexandria, the daughter of an old Virginia family, Mrs. Herwig spent her summers at Rock Cliff, a farm in Upperville which has been in her family for the past 150 years.

Beside her daughter, she is survived by Col. H. R. W. Herwig, USA, on duty in Tokyo, and Maj. L. J. H. Herwig, USA, retired, who lives in Annapolis and practices law in Washington.

Samuel Goldman

A funeral service for Samuel Goldman, 71, Washington Tobacco Co. salesman for 37 years who died Thursday at his home, 1707 Columbia rd. nw., will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Gawler's chapel, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Burial will be in Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

Mr. Goldman was born in Danville, Va., but had lived in Washington more than 60 years. He retired from the tobacco company 15 years ago. He was a member of Washington Hebrew Congregation.

A bachelor, he is survived by his sister, Miss Belle Goldman, who lived with him at the Chatham Apartments.

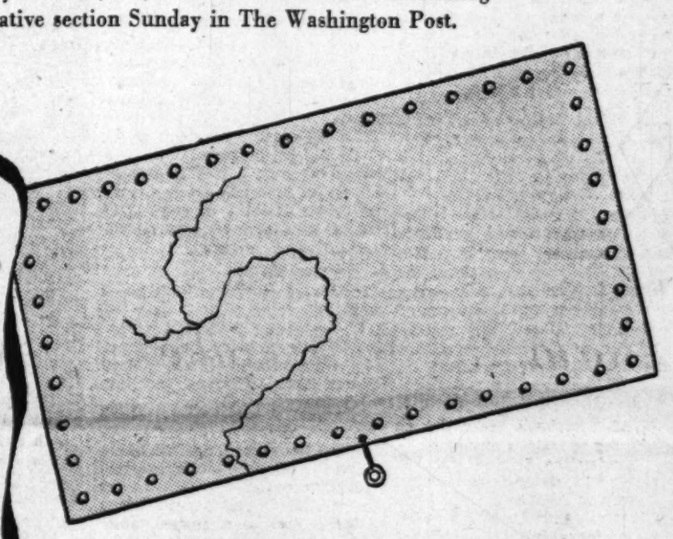
. . . plus The Washington Post's regular Sunday book pages, with latest reviews by Sterling North, illustrations and the best-seller list. Plenty of news, too, about books on sale at all leading Washington dealers. Enjoy this informative section Sunday in The Washington Post.

STARTING SUNDAY

"TENNIS Is My Racket"
by Bobby Riggs

Bobby Riggs tells how he fought a running battle with the czars of tennis—and became America's No. 1 player in spite of them. Riggs tears down the legend of pure amateurism . . . describes the lavish "expense accounts" paid him as a nonpro.

Read Bobby's story of his campaign upward through the national ratings, his setback by the Davis Cup committee, the unveiling of his "secret weapon" that beat Budge. It's another outstanding Washington Post sports special.



They Found a Crack in the IRON CURTAIN

Every year hundreds of fearful families slip from the Russian bear's clutches, change their identities and seek peace in other lands. Harvard professor Merle Fainsod talked with these hunted people, got their stories of terror and persecution. What they told him makes stark drama as Chalmers Roberts passes it on to you.

Methods of escape . . . the planting of spies in offices . . . the NKVD's dreaded midnight calls . . . anti-American propaganda—all are depicted in these actual interviews. Be sure to get Sunday's Washington Post for the first in this series.

A HOLIDAY FOOD FEATURE!

ROUND-THE-WORLD Cookies

Know how to make Swedish springerle, French croissants or Moravian stars? Broaden your cookie repertoire this Sunday, with Lucia Brown's aid. She brings you the best-known foreign recipes—try them for special holiday treats. You'll want to clip this handy food feature in The Sunday Washington Post.

Which City Has the MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRLS?

Hartford, Connecticut, claims itself winner in the pulchritude sweepstakes—and sets forth its proof in this Sunday's Parade. Make your own decision after you've looked at two pages of Hartford's finest. It's an easy-on-the-eyes Parade picture story.

Cotillion Club Meets at Sulgrave

MEMBERS of the Friday Cotillion Club held their second dance of the season last evening at the Sulgrave Club. Dinners and cocktail parties preceded the dancing, which began at 10 and lasted till 2 to the strains of Meyer Davis and his orchestra.

Sponsors for the Cotillion are Miss Cynthia Hill, Mrs. James McSherry Wimsatt, Mrs. Francis Wilson Wozencraft, Mrs. Lawrence Jacobsen and Miss Delphine Colquitt.

Mrs. P. Wayne Kittell and Miss Agnes Birney were among the many who gave dinners. Mrs. Kittell entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Wimsatt, Mr. and Mrs. William Sasscer Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Fangboner, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Chester Flather, Col. Charles Muldoon, Mr. and Mrs. John Boland and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bradford.

Miss Birney's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen 3d, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. Jacobsen and Dr. Hugh Stevens. Cocktail parties were given by Miss Nancy Payne, James Bowers and Maj. George Marthens.

Indonesian Party Honors FAO Delegates

FAO delegates were entertained yesterday at a reception given by the Indonesian delegation to the conference. The party was held from 6 to 8 in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel.

As Indonesia has no official diplomatic representatives to Washington as yet, yesterday's receiving line was lengthy. It included the First Secretary of the Netherlands Embassy and Mrs. Henrik Gysbert Wattimena; Hermen Kartowisastro, secretary general of the Ministry of Food at Jogjakarta, Java; Mr. Moedjaswardi, of the Department of Economic Affairs at Batavia; Jan Van der Ploeg, secretary-general of the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries at Batavia; and Dr. Kusnoto, head agriculture research, Ministry of Welfare, at Buitenzborg, Indonesia.

Among those attending the reception were the Resident Commissioner for Indonesia and Mrs. E. C. Zimmerman; Dr. Soemitro, Commissioner for Republic of Idonesia; Mr. S. A. Almassawa, head of Indonesian information service; and Miss Theodora Meijers, trade commissioner for Indonesia, all of whom came from New York for the party.

Also, the Ambassador of China, Wellington Koo; the Ambassador of Cuba and new FAO chairman, Oscar Gans; the Ambassador of the Netherlands and Mme. van Kleffens; the Ambassador of Israel, Eliahu Elath; the Minister of India and Mrs. B. B. Sen; the Minister of Luxembourg, Hugues Le Gallais; and Peter Thorsteinson of Iceland.

Other guests included delegates from nearly all the 62 member countries of FAO.

With the State Societies

Floridians Will Make a Day of It

By Nicha Soure

THE Floridians are really going to make a day of it.

Sunday the Florida State Society will gather at Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria (corner of Cameron and Royal sts.) at 3 p. m. for a full afternoon and evening of fun. It'll last till midnight.

There will be dancing, card games and bingo, as well as a tour of the historic old Gadsby's Tavern, where George Washington received his first military commission in 1753.

The Florida get-together is limited to Floridians. For further information call Miss Utha Gray Smith at Temple 6128.

CHIEF JUSTICE FRED VINSON will be among the members of the Federal Judiciary who will be honored at the December meeting of the Kentucky Society of Washington.

Justice Vinson, who has been active for a long time in the Blue Grass organization, will be the guest of honor at the December 9 dance at the Shoreham Hotel.

Membership applications to the society can be made at Room 505, Old House Office Building.

THE Oklahoma State Society will hold an open house Sunday at the Women's City Club, 1733 I st. nw.

At the Sooner State gathering, Oklahoma books and authors will be featured. Tea will be served at 4 p. m., and the program will begin at 5 p. m.

On the afternoon program will be Elgin Groseclose, author of "The Persian Journey," "Ararat," and "An Introduction to Iran"; Miss Muna Lee, regional specialist, Bureau of Inter-American Affairs, Department of State, and Dr. Joseph P. Blickensderfer, editor United States Quarterly Book List.

THE first dance of the fall season of the South Dakota State Society will be held tonight in the ballroom of Hotel 2400. Dancing to the music of Tiny Meeker's orchestra will begin at 10 p. m.

The theme of the dance will be "West River Night," honoring all South Dakotans who hail from west of the Missouri River. Formal dress is optional.

Mrs. Royal C. Johnson, wife of the late Congressman from South Dakota, will be among the honored guests. Carl Bowman is chairman of the entertainment. Reservations for tables may be made with Miss Georgia McKeever, 1313 Hamilton st., nw., Randolph 2825.

STARTING their Christmas celebrations early are the Peach Staters.

The Georgia State Society has slated its Christmas party for tonight at 9 p. m. in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, president of the society, announced there would be a reception at 9 p. m., to be followed by a program of Yuletide music under the direction of Mrs. Clark Tate.

Dancing will begin at 10 p. m.

Wisner Ray is chairman of the dance committee, assisted by Mary Lou Alexander, Elizabeth Erown, Ben Stembridge and Jackson Jones.

For the Georgians who would rather play card games, tables can be reserved with Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Ordway 7908, or Mrs. Hugh Peterson, Adams 2673.

THE NATIONAL Press Club is the place, today is the date for the Texas State Society cocktail party. Between the hours of 5 to 8 p. m., Lone Star Staters will band together to discuss—you guessed it—Texas, of course!

THE FORMER presidents of the Magnolia State will be in the limelight tonight.

The Mississippi State Society has taken inventory, found that it is one of the largest and oldest of the State groups in Washington. So the society decided to honor its past presidents who were instrumental in putting the Mississippians in that position.

The dance will be held in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, between the hours of 9 p. m. and 1 a. m.

Former presidents of the society will be in the receiving line which will form at 9 p. m. They include Dr. Oscar Wilkinson, Mrs. Sue Fite Ramsey, Harry R. Fulton, Jeff Busby, William M. Whittington, George W. Potter, R. W. Harned, Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Vernon Holleman, Judge R. V. Fletcher, Leslie H. Whitten, G. R. Gaillard, Tomas G. Abernethy and Mrs. Virginia M. Simmerman.

James A. Davis, chairman of the dance, is assisted by Miss Susan Burress, Miss Mary Ellen Johnson, Miss Marguerite Pack, Miss Dorothy Shans, Mrs. John C. Stennis and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hays.

THE Interior Department will be honored at the New York State Society dance Saturday, December 10, at the Shoreham Hotel.

THE Bay Staters will usher in the holiday season with a pre-Christmas ball Friday at the Shoreham Hotel.

The Massachusetts State Society members will dance to the music of Dave McWilliams orchestra from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

TONIGHT'S the night when Maryland and Delaware State Societies will hold a joint party at the Burlington Hotel. Both State's congressional delegations have been invited to attend the banquet and dance.

Serving on the Delaware dance committee are Mrs. Ruth Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCloskey, Mrs. Varina Penrod, Norman Stewart, Mrs. Evelyn Deck, George Raymond, Mrs. Fred Klund and Mrs. Katharine Phillips.

On Maryland's dance committee are Mrs. Winifred Grant, Miss Marie Kesee, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Strickland, Miss Mariam Abel, Miss Dorothy Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Roy May, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Clay, Mrs. Helen Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. James Foster.

National Leaders Meet Here for Conference On Status of Women

By Genevieve Reynolds

FROM EIGHT sections of the Nation, eight distinguished women will converge on Washington today to ponder the status of their sex. Mayor Dorothy McCullough Lee of Portland, Oreg., will be one of the group attending a meeting of the national Status of Women Committee, American Association of University Women. Sessions will be held at the AAUW national headquarters, 1634 Eye st. nw.

Judge Lucy Somerville Howorth of this city, who long has been active in promoting the advancement of women in government, business and professional fields, is chairman of the committee. Currently Judge Howorth is assistant general counsel in the War Claims Commission.

A nationally famous business woman, Mrs. Marjorie Child Husted, vice president of General Mills, Inc., is another committee member working on the problem of advancing women. Better known as "Betty Crocker," she has directed the staff of the Betty Crocker test kitchens for 20 years.

Other committee members expected to attend include Mrs. John Frederick Lewis, member of the Philadelphia Board of Education; Dr. Rosamonde Ramsay Boyd, professor of sociology at Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C.; Dr. Ruth A. Merrill, social adviser for women and director of Cutley Union at the University of Rochester; Mrs. Carl Ettinger of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who is a State leader in the status-of-women field, and Mrs. J. L. Meyers, a prominent attorney in Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Following the work-study sessions, Judge Howorth will be hostess at a buffet dinner honoring the committee members. Among invited guests will be Dean Althea K. Hottel, national president of AAUW, and Dr. Kathryn McHale, AAUW general director.

Service Guild Meets

REVIEWING projects highlighted the report luncheon of the Service Guild of Washington held yesterday at the Woodmont Country Club.

Mrs. Harold J. Cohen announced that the Guild's newest social welfare project is with the Bureau of Maternal Welfare. Speciality jobs, she said, are being done at Gallinger Hospital. She told of Mrs. Arthur Sims' research in orthopedics and her own work in legal research on child permit regulations. Mrs. Philip Rosenfeld does statistical research at Gallinger. Other members of the guild also do volunteer work as laboratory technicians, receptionists and hostess.

Two members of the guild teach typing at the Florence Crittenton home. They are Mrs. Albert Arent and Mrs. Arthur Lewis.

DAR Tea, Exhibit Today

UNSUSPECTED talents of District Daughters of the American Revolution will be revealed today when they exhibit their arts and handiwork at the benefit silver tea. The exhibit and tea, sponsored by the Katherine Montgomery County Chapter, DAR, will be held 3 to 6 p. m. at 1732 Massachusetts ave. nw.

On display will be water colors, etchings, needlepoint, tapestry work, quilts, bedspreads, crochet pieces, ceramics, handmade dolls, photographs and dozens of other articles. Purpose of the benefit is to raise money for the DAR national building fund.

Canadian Club Plans Luncheon

MRS. HUME WRONG, wife of the Canadian Ambassador, will be ranking guest when the Canadian Club of Washington holds its Christmas luncheon today, 1 p. m., in the Hotel 2400.

Conditions in Eastern Europe will be discussed by Dr. Lorand Debasi-Schweng, 1945 Undersecretary of Finance in the Hungarian government. Recently the speaker served as director of research in the Hungarian National Bank. As a guest of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, Dr. Schweng lectured in 25 cities and towns while in that country.

Mrs. L. H. Lavigne and Mrs. Tomas Cajigas are general chairmen of the luncheon. Cochairmen assisting include Mrs. J. H. English, Mrs. L. J. Birchall, Mrs. Bruce Clark, Mrs. Blanche Main, Mrs. Gilbert Dawkins, Miss Olive Martin and Miss Irene Dow. Miss Kathleen McDonald, reservation chairman, can be reached at OR. 1891.

Joaquin Nabuco Honored

DIPLOMATS, poets, journalists and authors gathered yesterday at a meeting of El Ateneo American de Washington to pay homage to Joaquin Nabuco, Brazil's first Ambassador to the United States. But the group that assembled at the Peruvian Embassy to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the illustrious statesman, emphasized Nabuco the man and historian, rather than the diplomat.

Mexican Ambassador to the Organization of American States Luis Quintanilla pointed out that Nabuco was a strong advocate of inter-Latin-American solidarity. He also recalled how Nabuco promoted friendship between the United States and Brazil.

Miss Caroline Nabuco, author and sister of Brazilian Ambassador Mauricio Nabuco, was among the speakers. Miss Nabuco and Ambassador Nabuco are children of the statesman who was honored yesterday. Other speakers included Juan Bautista de Lavalle, Peruvian Ambassador to OAS, and the Peruvian Ambassador to the United States, Don Fernando Breckemeyer. The Honduran Ambassador Rafael Helidoro Valle, president of Washington El Ateneo, brought greetings, as did Ambassador Mauricio Nabuco.

ON TODAY'S CALENDAR . . .

Washington Alumnae Chapter of Longwood College will hold a luncheon 12 noon at Woodward & Lothrop's Tea Room . . . Four of the authors of "Date Line, Washington"—Cabell Philips, Thomas Stokes, Duncan Aikman and Hugh Morrow—will be spotlighted at the New Book Fair, sponsored by the Arts Club of Washington, 4 p. m. at the clubhouse, 2017 I st. nw. . . . University Women's Club will hold a formal dance, 9 p. m. to midnight, at the clubhouse, 1515 New Hampshire ave. nw. Hostess will be Miss Alice Brueck . . . Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority will celebrate its twenty-fifth year on the campus with a Founders' Day dinner dance at Brooks Farm. Among those attending will be Mrs. John Safer, patroness; Mrs. Paul Eanet, alumnae president; Mrs. Raphael Turover, past grand archon; Mrs. David Linowes, Southern divisional adviser; Mrs. Don A. # Ask Anne — Advice on Traveling With Baby

We are planning a trip by car to the West Coast (Los Angeles) in December through January 15 with a six-months-old baby. Could you give me any information on what clothes will be needed during this period? We will plan for at least seven days driving time each way, feeding and caring for the baby. We will have a small ice box in the car.
N. H. S.

The most practical clothes for a traveling baby are made of knitted or seersucker materials which require no ironing. For daytime wear you could use knited kimonos or rompers topped with a soft sweater for warmth. While the baby is asleep and wrapped in blankets, this is enough. During his waking periods he should be dressed in a light but warm snow suit which completely covers the legs and arms but allows freedom to kick.

To give the baby room to kick, build up the area between the front and back seat with luggage and cover with your crib mattress. Warmly dressed, the baby can lie on this flat surface and play as happily as he would in his own crib at home. This also gives a good sleeping surface when nap time arrives.

You could use disposable or the quick drying gauze diapers. If you do not use disposable diapers, the laundry problem can be easily handled by stopping for your noon meal or at night in a large town near a public automatic laundry. Before you go to lunch drop your baby wash into an automatic machine and when you return 45 minutes later everything will be clean and dry, ready for flooding. Most automatic laundries have attendants who will see the clothes through the entire washing and drying process for a small extra fee.

If your baby's formula is mixed with water you can avoid having to change the water each day if you will take with you enough boiled water for the first long leg of your journey. The formula-fixing can be further simplified on the trip by combining the water, syrup, or dextro maltose in the exact proportion it is used in the formula before you leave home. To increase the keeping qualities of the mixture, boil the water with sweetening in it to sterilize and seal it into sterilized fruit jars. Plan so that only one jar needs to be opened each day. When you are ready to give the baby a bottle, pour enough water-sugar solution for one feeding into the bottle, and add enough evaporated milk directly from the can. By opening a small can of evaporated milk for each feeding you will be absolutely sure of a fresh supply. Or, since you have an ice box, you may be able to keep the milk adequately refrigerated until a large can is used. You could use disposable plastic bottles or you could plan to sterilize glass ones each night.

To warm the bottle, carry a large mouthed thermos full of hot water. Just drop the bottle into the thermos to warm it. It's simple to refill the thermos along the road when the water becomes cool.

I have a wicker hamper or trunk of the kind still made and used in Europe. Is there anything which I could apply to it to preserve it? K. A.

You could apply varnish. Before applying, brush thoroughly with a stiff brush to remove all dust and loose particles from cracks and crevices. Apply varnish with an old brush, working it well into cracks. Do not let the cracks fill with varnish and stay filled because the varnish will not harden where the application is too thick. If you do not want a shiny finish you could apply dull-drying varnish.

Another way to apply the varnish is to thin it with a bit of turpentine and put it into a hand sprayer. Spraying it on gives a uniformly thin application.

I accidently broke a thermometer yesterday and, while scraping up the mercury from the floor, I got some on a heavy gold and onyx ring I was wearing. It has blotched the gold with dull silver splotches and looks just awful! Please, is there any way I can get these horrible stains off my ring? I'm just sick about the way it looks!
D. M. N.

This is a job for a jeweler, and the sooner you turn it over to one the better, for the mercury might damage the gold. To completely remove it, the ring is placed in a strong solution and then is buffed mechanically.

I would like to obtain a black lacquered finish on several large pieces of furniture without using lacquer. I understand it dries too quickly to achieve a smooth effect. Could you tell me of some other method I might use? I have heard that the Chinese use a black stain. This would not be practical for my pieces have been painted several times and the wood itself is not in first-class condition. I'm afraid that a plain black enamel would be too shiny. I doubt that even rubbing it with pumice would obtain the desired lacquered appearance. V. R.

The best and easiest finish for your pieces would be to use a flat black enamel. This will dry with little or no shine and can be applied directly over a painted surface.

Before applying, sand the present surface smooth and cut the gloss so that the new coat of paint will adhere well. After sanding, wipe with a soft cloth dampened with turpentine to remove all dust from the surface.

PETUNIA!

I take my tonic
Every day
And ALWAYS throw
The spoon away!

Good idea, Petunia! It's hard to remove completely that strong fishy smell from metal spoons. So why not just use paper ones and toss them out?

Church Women Hold Yule Candle Services

Members of the Washington Council of Church Women will "light the way for the Christ Child" at a series of three Advent services beginning Sunday.

The services at the Washington Federation of Churches, 1751 N st. nw., will be held from 3 to 5 p. m. on Sunday, and at the same time on December 11 and 18.

Two Advent candles will be lighted Sunday and one at each of the other services until on the third Sunday four candles burn to signify the arrival of the Christ Child is near.

The custom of lighting Advent candles originated in Europe, where on each Sunday preceding Christmas friends gathered in homes or churches to participate in the ritual and to sing traditional carols.

Each of the services sponsored by the Washington church women will feature the customs of a different country.

On Sunday the theme will be Scandinavian, with Scandinavian carols and stories and traditional Christmas sweet cakes on the coffee table.

A wassail bowl, Scotch bread, and carols of the British Isles will be featured the second Sunday and on the last Sunday the Christmas tree, typical of the Yuletide season in Germany, will be brought in.

The council has invited students of the Americanization School to be their special agents at the Advent services, which are open to all church people.

Mrs. Wallace N. Streeter is president of the council and Mrs. Clarence T. Nelson is chairman of the Christian Social Relations Committee of the council which is sponsoring the services.

Christian Living Study Courses Spark Activities

Christian living study courses at the Ecumenical Church of the Saviour, 1707, 19th st. nw., have led several members of the church to launch community service projects.

After taking a course in basic Christianity, Mrs. William Maloney of 4414 Quarles st., Kensington, initiated a recreational and social program for teen-agers in her neighborhood.

A couple in Arlington began a Sunday school class at a Government housing project.

Study classes, which began last night, will be held each Wednesday and Friday at 8 p. m. at the church through February 2.

The Rev. Newton Gordon Cosby, pastor, will teach the course on "What Christians Believe and Do."

Dr. Magner to Speak At Alumnae Breakfast

The Rev. Dr. James A. Magner, procurator of Catholic University, will be the speaker at the annual communion breakfast of the Catholic University Alumnae Association at 10 a. m. Sunday in Graduate Hall on the campus.

The breakfast will follow a mass to be celebrated at 9 a. m. at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception by the Right Rev. P. J. McCormick, rector of the university.

Foreign Themes to Be Featured in Series of Three Advent Services Here

SCANDINAVIAN TEA TABLE—Mrs. A. M. Anderson of the Wardman Park Hotel watches while Mrs. Melvin Amoth, 2850 South Buchanan st., Arlington, lights the candles on a table set in Scandinavian style. Christmas in the Scandinavian countries will be the theme of the first of three Advent services sponsored by the Washington Council of Church Women at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Washington Federation of Churches, 1751 N st. nw.

By Jack Lartz—The Washington Post

OLD GERMAN CUSTOM—Judy Schlosser, 4, and sister Suzanne, 6, of 3322 Stuyvesant pl. nw., stand before the Christmas tree, typical of Yuletide observance in Germany. German customs will be the theme at the Advent service at the Washington Federation of Churches at 3 p. m. on December 18

Episcopalians To Follow Up Mission Work

Follow-up services to the successful Bryan Green Mission conducted by the Episcopal Diocese of Washington are being planned by several Greater Washington Episcopal churches.

An estimated 27,000 persons attended the nine nightly services at the Washington Cathedral from November 13 through 21.

The mission was led by the Rev. Bryan Green, rector of St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, England, who conducted a similar mission in New York last spring and will return to the United States in 1950 to direct missions in other cities.

Postcards distributed at the services are now being returned to diocesan headquarters at 1702 Rhode Island ave. nw., where clergymen are studying them in preparation for mission follow-up work.

About 7000 such cards have been received. They show that about 85 per cent of those who attended were Episcopalians, and 15 percent belonged to other denominations.

At St. John's Church, Bethesda, the Rev. William F. Creighton, rector, will hold a series of three Monday night lectures on the church's teaching as part of the post-mission program. At 8 p. m. Monday the Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, warden of the College of Preachers of the Cathedral, will speak on "The Christian Church."

The Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, rector of St. Thomas' Church, 18th st. between P and Q sts. nw., will conduct services similar to the mission at 8 p. m. Sunday. Each service will include community hymn singing, a question and answer period, and a brief sermon.

Bazaar Set for Today

The Sisterhood and Young Peoples Club of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Church will give a pre-Christmas bazaar today from noon until 9 p. m. on the second floor of Maxim's restaurant, 1731 Connecticut ave. nw. Tea and Russian delicacies will also be sold following services Sunday at the church, 1768 Church st. nw.

Rummage Sale Today

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Hughes Methodist Church will hold a rummage sale today from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. in the Kensington Fire House.

Latter Day Saints To Hold Two-Day Conference Here

A priesthood-leadership meeting at 8:30 p. m. today will open the quarterly conference of the Washington stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Albert E. Brown of Salt Lake City, a member of the council of Twelve Apostles of the Mormon Church, will represent the general authorities of the church. He will speak at the priesthood meeting and at general sessions at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday at the Washington chapel, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw.

Young people from the stake will rally at 6:30 p. m. Sunday at the concluding event in the two-day meeting. Theme of the youth session is "Clean Living," the slogan adopted by the church Mutual Improvement Association.

The Utah Centennial Chorus, a group of young Mormon missionaries with headquarters here, will give a concert at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at the chapel.

Baptist Church To Observe Its 25th Milestone

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the First Baptist Church of Silver Spring, Md., will be observed Wednesday in the Silver Spring Armory, Fenton st. and Pershing dr.

The first service of the congregation was held 25 years ago on the same date in the old Silver Spring Armory.

The Rev. Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn, executive secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, will speak at the anniversary service, to be held at 8 p. m.

The Rev. Dr. William S. Abernathy, pastor emeritus of the Calvary Baptist Church of Washington, will lead the devotions. He preached the recognition sermon 24 years ago when the Silver Spring church became a member of the District of Columbia Baptist Convention.

Three former pastors of the congregation will be present for the anniversary service, which will be conducted by the Rev. Frank K. Brasington, pastor for the past year.

They are the Rev. J. Wesley Loftis, who now has a church in Tampa, Fla.; the Rev. William J. Cumbie, former assistant, who is now pastor of a church in Annandale, Va., and the Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Ripley, interim pastor, who is retired.

Christ Church In Bethesda to Mark Birthday

Christ Lutheran Church, 8011 Old Georgetown rd., Bethesda, will celebrate the 15th anniversary of its founding at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Honor guests at the service will be the 17 charter members who are still members of the congregation. Mrs. Grover L. Brake, one of the group, will speak briefly on the early days of the church.

First services of the Bethesda congregation were held in what is now the Hiser Theater on December 2, 1934, with 46 charter members present. The congregation now has 340 active confirmed members and 508 baptized members.

After four years of meeting in the theater, the congregation purchased a large house on Old Georgetown rd. and remodelled it into a chapel and pastor's apartment. In 1941 a large addition was built and this year the church erected a new parsonage directly behind the church property.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. Otto C. Schuetze, who came here in 1945 after serving churches in Kitchener, Ontario, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Westmoreland Church to Seat New Pastor

The Rev. Philip Gordon Scott will be installed as pastor of Westmoreland Congregational Church, Westmoreland cir. nw., at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Rev. Scott

Before the installation the Ecclesiastical Council of the Washington Association of Congregational Christian Churches will meet to examine Mr. Scott.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Pitney VanDusen, president of Union Theological Seminary, New York, will deliver the installation sermon. The charge to the church will be given by the Rev. Dr. Fred Sherman Buschmeyer, former pastor of Westmoreland Church who is now associate minister of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches.

The Rev. Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, will give the charge to the pastor.

Other clergymen who will participate will be the Rev. Dr. James F. English, superintendent of the Connecticut Conference of Congregational Christian Churches; the Rev. Dr. Carl Heath Kopf, pastor of First Congregational Church; the Rev. L. Maynard Catchings, pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church; the Rev. Edmund Robert Strait, assistant pastor of Westmoreland Church.

Speakers at the installation supper will be the Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Stein, superintendent of the Middle Atlantic Conference of Congregational Christian Churches.

Mr. Scott, who came to Westmoreland Church last February, has held pastorates in New Jersey, New York, and Connecticut.

Laborites, Catholics In Row Over School Aid

London, Dec. 3 (AP).—A battle between the Roman Catholic Church and Britain's Labor government has broken out over government aid for church schools.

The Catholic hierarchy of England and Wales has accused the government of trying to gag the church with threats to cut off financial aid.

The Ministry of Education replied that Catholics are trying to tap the public treasury in a way that "amounts to the state providing all the money while the Catholics keep all the control."

In Britain, teachers of church schools, including priests and nuns, are paid from tax money, which also provides operating expenses.

The issue arose this way:

Britain requires all schools to meet minimum building standards. It estimated the cost of improving Catholic schools at 10 million pounds (28 million dollars). Catholic bishops say the outlay would be closer to 60 million pounds (168 million dollars) and that the church cannot afford it.

The bishops have proposed that local education authorities take over church schools under lease and make improvements from public funds. In return they would let local authorities appoint teaching staffs, subject to church approval.

Rev. Pfeiffer Has Surprise Testimonial

A monogrammed brief case was presented to the Rev. J. Adrian Pfeiffer at a surprise testimonial dinner last night marking the fifteenth anniversary of his pastorate at Takoma Lutheran Church, 7th and Dahlia sts. nw.

Rev. Pfeiffer

More than 100 members of the congregation attended the dinner at the Hot Shoppe at Georgia and Alaska aves. nw.

Pastor Pfeiffer came to the Takoma church from St. James' Church, Rockdale, Md., in 1934. Since he began his work church membership rose from 80 to more than 300 persons.

The congregation is now studying plans for a new $150,000 church unit, for which they hope to break ground during 1950. When completed the church at 13th st. and Eastern ave. nw., will have double the capacity of the present building.

A native of Springfield, Ohio, pastor Pfeiffer is a graduate of Capitol University Theological Seminary in Columbus.

He is chairman of the radio committee of the Washington Federation of Churches.

15th St. Church to Hear The Rev. W. R. Holder

The Rev. W. R. Holder will preach at 10:50 a. m. Sunday at Fifteenth Street Church of Christ, 15th st. and Kentucky ave. se., at a woman's day service.

He is director of the department of financial resources of the United Christian Missionary Society of the Disciples of Christ.

Evangelist to Be Heard

Howard A. White, evangelist, of New Orleans, La., will begin a 10-day revival Sunday at the Fourteenth Street Church of Christ, 3460 14th st. nw. Services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Church to Break Ground for Large School Building

Ground for a $350,000 educational building will be broken following the 11 a. m. service at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, Nebraska and New Mexico aves. nw.

The three-story structure will be added to the present church building, and will provide space for Sunday school classes and a pastor's study. It is the first of three contemplated additions to the church building.

Completion of the building is set for next fall.

Participants in the ground-breaking ceremony will include the Rev. Dr. Edward Gardiner Latch, pastor of the church, Bishop Charles W. Flint, bishop of the Washington area of the Methodist Church, the Rev. Dr. Ralph D. Smith, district superintendent, and the Rev. Dr. James Shera Montgomery, minister emeritus of the church.

Trinity Lutheran Has Musical on Sunday

An Advent-Christmas musical will be given by the Greater Washington Chapter of the Valparaiso Guild at 4 p. m. Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church, 4th and E sts nw.

Dr. Herbert Umbach, professor of English at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., will be the reader, and a volunteer Lutheran choral group will sing.

Dr. Pruden to Observe His 13th Anniversary

The Rev. Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw., will observe his 13th anniversary as pastor of the church on Sunday.

At 9:45 and 11 a. m. he will preach on "More Than a Symbol." At 8 p. m. George Koehler, organist, will give the first recital on the new organ.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw., will mark the third anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson at services Sunday.

At 9 and 11 a. m. Dr. Elson will preach on "Many Languages—One Message." A vesper service for young adults of the Presbytery of Washington City will be held at 5 p. m. and at 8 p. m. the choir will present Bach's "Christmas Oratoria."

The Right Rev. Conrad H. Gesner, Bishop Coadjutor of South Dakota, will preach at 11 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral. At 4 p. m. the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, will conduct a general confirmation service and deliver the sermon.

"Japan and the Church Tomorrow" will be discussed by Miss Betty Alt, Methodist missionary who helped organize nursing schools in Japan after the war, at 8 p. m. at Petworth Methodist Church, Grant Circle and New Hampshire ave. nw.

Margaret Spriggs, soprano, and Thomas Fallen, pianist, will present a vesper service at 5:30 p. m. at Mount Zion Methodist Church, 1334 29th st. nw.

Woman's Day will be observed at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., at 10:50 a. m. Women of the congregation will participate in the service, at which the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Harry L. Bell, will preach on "Hope for a Lost World."

As part of the eightieth anniversary celebration of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., Dr. J. Frank Fife, newly elected president of the Synod of Maryland, will preach at 11 a. m. on "The Mission of the Church."

Truman Bust To Be Placed In Capitol

A sleek white bust of President Truman, honoring not his present position but his last one of Vice President, is ready to be placed on a pedestal in the Senate wing of the Capitol.

The decision on where it will go is up the the Joint Congressional Committee on the Library.

Probable location is a niche in the corridor just off the Senate floor beside the main east stairs of the Senate wing.

If the Truman bust goes where expected, it will stand between statues of Benjamin Franklin and former Vice President John N. Garner.

The marble portrait of the President was made by Charles Keck of New York after Mr. Truman had entered the White House.

Also waiting assignment of a spot near the Senate floor is a marble bust of former Vice President Henry Wallace, by Jo Davidson. A statue of Brigham Young, the Morman leader, is to be placed in Statuary Hall, and a spot is also to be found for a bronze bust of John Paul Jones, the famous American naval commander.

Two Talks Scheduled For Wm. H. McKinney

William H. McKinney, executive secretary of the Department of Men's Work of the United Christian Missionary Society, will speak at 8 p. m. Sunday at Minnesota ave. Christian Church, Minnesota ave. and C sts. ne.

He will also be the speaker at a dinner meeting for men at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw. at 6:30 p. m. Monday.

College Group Plans to Act Next Year on Pay, Libraries

Houston, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP).—The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools ended its annual convention yesterday after arranging a busy schedule for next year's session at Richmond, Va.

Educators sidestepped for at least a year a proposal to accept Negro schools into full membership in the association.

Also placed on next year's convention docket was final consideration of new sets of standards under which colleges and universities are qualified for membership.

The new standards to be voted on at Richmond call for:

1. Increases in the minimum salary levels for colleges and university faculties.
2. Boosting the desired per capita expenditures for instruction from $150 to $200.
3. Provisions to strengthen the role of libraries as an educational function.

There is a possibility the Negro membership problem may not receive final consideration even at Richmond.

The association's planning committee report recommended that an adequate study of means of improving Negro education in the South be launched immediately so that possible changes could be made in 1950.

Reference to 1950 was deleted by a convention vote after H. M. Ivey, superintendent of schools at Meridian, Miss., said next year might be "crowding things too fast."

The convention action was a disappointment to Dr. A. D. Beittel, president of Talladega (Ala.) College, who sought immediate full membership for the Negro schools.

"The action was a large step," he said, "but not as large as we had hoped. It is not going to be easy for me to explain the action to the Negro group. They've been waiting for this about 25 years."

The proposed minimum teacher salary increase and accreditation changes were submitted by the commission on institutions of higher education.

Current standards call for an $1800 nine-month minimum salary for senior college instructors, $2300 for assistant professors, $2800 for associate professors and $3300 for professors. The commission hopes to see these increased to $2400 for instructors, $2800 for assistants, $3200 for associates and $3600 for professors.

Dr. E. B. Robert, dean of the school of education, Louisiana State University, was elected president, succeeding Dr. Henry H. Hill of Nashville, Tenn.

Crucifix Blessing

A wooden crucifix, carved in Oberammergau, Germany, will be blessed by the Rev. Dr. Henry W. Snyder at 11 a. m. Sunday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett sts. nw.

Felix Morley to Speak

Dr. Felix Morley will address the Goethe Society of Maryland and the District of Columbia at 8 p. m. today at the International Student House, 1825 R st. nw. His subject: "Frankfurt Revisited: Literature in the Age of Technology."

Big Jump Due in School Budget

Prince Georges County school costs may be increased by as much as $500,000 in the next fiscal year, the county's Council of Parent-Teacher Associations was told Tuesday night.

William S. Schmidt, assistant superintendent of schools, told the group at a meeting in Greenbelt School the new budget possibly will exceed five million dollars, in contrast to the current year's outlay of about $4,500,000. He gave the tentative figure in a discussion of procedures for preparing the budget, which must be submitted to the County Commissioners by next March 10.

Additional teachers to staff several newly built schools and to lighten teacher-loads in existing schools, as well as generally increased operating costs, were cited as factors in the expected increase.

A breakdown of funds expended for education was given by School Superintendent G. Gardner Shugart, who also discussed the county's sources for obtaining school funds.

A life membership in the Maryland PT-A Congress was awarded by the council's executive committee to Carroll Palmer, former president of the group, who resigned recently because he planned to move from Prince Georges to Montgomery County.

Dr. Glasser to Speak In Forum at Calvary

Dr. Melvin Glasser, director of the Mid-Century White House Conference on Children, will speak at a forum at 8 p. m. Sunday in Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw.

Dr. Glasser, former director of international operations of the American Red Cross, will speak on the forthcoming White House conference.

Sales Up 3% Here as Yule Rush Begins

By S. Oliver Goodman

The week that usually starts the Yuletide shopping rush was recorded on the plus side of the ledger in Washington, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported last night.

Local department stores in the week ended November 26 registered an increase of 3 percent in dollar volume over the same 1948 period, the bank reported.

This was in contrast with the lower trend in other leading cities. For the same period, Baltimore stores showed a 6 percent decline and other cities in the Fifth Federal Reserve District averaged 8 percent lower. Nationally, the Federal Reserve Board reported that store sales showed a decline of 5 percent for the week ended November 26.

Local mercants generally were hopeful that dollar volume this Christmas will equal last year's record. Heads of stores that handle hard goods lines were especially cheerful. Those who sell only soft goods or apparel were not so optimistic. Clothing sales in October and November were reported down sharply and there is little indication as yet of any reversal of trend.

Fastest selling items are such hard goods as television sets, washing machines, radios, lamps and other electrical appliances, it was reported.

Slow moving so far are such items as jewelry, lingerie, luggage, men's and women's furnishings and luxury goods.

Dun & Bradstreet reported this week that lower priced merchandise is proving most popular.

INITIAL DIVIDEND: Some early Christmas cheer was dished out yesterday by the Shirlington Trust Co. in nearby Arlington County, Va. Directors voted an initial dividend of 50 cents a share on capital stock, payable December 23 to stock of record December 10. In addition a bonus of $2875 was authorized for the seven employes. President Joseph Cherner pointed out that the bank, which started business on March 9, 1948, now has deposits in excess of 5½ million dollars and resources of about six million.

ODD LOTS: Du Pont yesterday announced an immediate increase of about 5 percent in the price of rayon viscose textile yarn . . . The RFC price of Grade A tin for spot delivery was reduced 2 cents a pound yesterday, the second cut in as many days . . . General Motors will have all of its 1950 models on display at a Waldorf-Astoria showing in New York, January 19 through January 27 . . . Dr. Lorand Dabasi-Schweng, director of research in the Hungarian National Bank, will address the Canadian Club of Washington at a luncheon today in the Hotel 2400 . . . A North Dakota firm is putting onto the market what it claims is the first commercial ready-mix for the baking of bread at home . . . Oil and gas properties appraised at more than 40 million dollars are being consolidated into a single firm to be known as Texmass Petroleum Corp. of Dallas. To finance the merger, application for a loan of 15 million dollars has been filed with the RFC.

PEPCO NET OFF: Potomac Electric Power Co. yesterday reported net income of $245,283 for October, as compared with $316,335 in the same 1948 month. Operating revenues of $2,785,616 were about the same as last year, but operating costs of $2,406,848 were about $93,000 higher. For the first 10 months, Pepco's net totaled $3,704,320, for a gain of 19 percent over the same 1948 period.

STRIKE EFFECT: Reflecting the coal and steel strikes in October, estimated net income of Class 1 railroads in that month amounted to 24 million dollars, compared with 85 million in the same 1948 month, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. For the first 10 months, the carriers' net was estimated at 303 million dollars, compared with 590 million in the corresponding period last year.

EARNINGS: Lanston Monotype Machine Co. reported net income of $330,460 or $1.32 a common share for the six months ended August 31, compared with $472,896 or $1.89 a share in the same 1948 period. Other earnings reports:

Fairfax to Fight Annexation Moves

In Arlington

Poisoning Of 13 Dogs Reported

A total of 13 cases of apparent dog poisoning in Arlington have been reported in the past 10 days to the county's Animal Welfare League, the group's president reported yesterday.

Seven of the dead animals have been found in the area near the Washington-Lee High School, Mrs. Paul M. Twyne said, with several in the Cherrydale neighborhood, too.

Owner of at least one of the dogs said her pet died in convulsions within sight, Mrs. Twyne said.

The pets may be the victims of rat poison, Mrs. Twyne said, though the type of poison—if any—has not yet been determined.

Health Officer Ralph Beachly said the Health Department is not yet sure the dogs were poisoned, but will know more next Thursday, when results of laboratory tests on one of the dogs are in.

Fairfax County will fight any court action by Alexandria to annex part of its land and will seek antiannexation legislation from the Virginia General Assembly.

This decision was made by the county board of supervisors at a meeting Thursday night with representatives of the New Alexandria Citizens Association. The 94-home community, a short distance below Alexandria, might be among sections of Fairfax sought in annexation.

Alexandria has a bill before its city council—already passed on first reading—setting up $2000 for a survey of Fairfax land which might be annexed. Falls Church has temporarily halted its move to take in adjoining Fairfax territory.

The board unanimously passed a motion asking State Senator Andrew W. Clarke and Delegate Edwin Lynch to introduce and promote antiannexation legislation when the General Assembly gets underway at Richmond next month.

Informed of the board's action, Lynch said he would file antiannexation legislation if asked by the supervisors, but Clarke said flatly he would not sponsor any measure aimed to prevent cities from annexing.

"I am very much against annexation," said Lynch, who represents Falls Church and Fairfax County. He said he would do anything to prevent Alexandria, Arlington or Falls Church from "growing too large at Fairfax's expense."

Senator Clarke said the request of the supervisors "puts me in the middle." He pointed out he represents Alexandria as well as Fairfax, and lives in Belle Haven, which, he said, is a portion of the county that would be annexed.

Kennel Man Is Cleared Of Cruelty

Baltimore, Dec. 2 (AP).—After a veterinarian testified he found no evidence of torture or cruel treatment o" a truckload of dogs being delivered to the University of Maryland Medical School, charges against a Pennsylvania animal dealer were dismissed by a magistrate.

The dealer, John S. Tuck, who operates kennels at Hershey, Pa., had been arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals on orders of Norman P. Huster, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

At a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Julius A. Romano, a veterinarian for the SPCA, said the 16 dogs were "in fairly good health" and said he found no evidence of torture or cruelty.

Two SPCA employes said the dogs, which are to be used for experimental purposes, were in truck compartments that were 'smelly" and a little dirty."

Tuck once before had been arrested by humane society workers and a charge of cruelty to animals at that time also was dismissed. He furnishes dogs to both the Maryland and Johns Hopkins Medical Schools.

The SPCA and the large medical schools in Maryland are battling over the use of unclaimed dogs for experimental work. The medical schools want a new city-SPCA contract to allot them a certain number of dogs which otherwise would be destroyed. The society says such experimental work is not "humane."

Auditors Ask Pension Funds Policy Change

A change in investment policies for the Arlington County Employes Pension Retirement Fund—whose assets were $219,349.98 at the close of the 1949 fiscal year—has been recommended by auditors of the county's books.

The 1949 audit, prepared by the accounting firm of Halquist and Murray, of Arlington, was submitted this week to Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg.

The auditors recommended "further diversification of investments" for the fund, pointing out that 68.5 percent of its assets are invested in first deeds of trust, and 54 percent of the total assets consist of three such deeds.

What's more, the auditors said, accounting records of the director of finance show only cash transactions of the fund, but should record currently the changes in fund investments.

A shortage of $157,548.56 in the Sewer Assessment Fund was reported by the auditors, who chalked it up to "inadequate revenue from frontage and tapping charges."

The audit noted that the Virginia Code, under an amendment effective in June, 1948, prohibits county officials and employes from being financially interested in contracts with the county.

The report said the county school board paid the law firm of Green and Trueax, in which County Treasurer John Locke Green is a partner, two fees—one for $815.25 and one for $203 for legal services during the year.

"This matter was discussed with Mr. John Locke Green who stated that he personally received no part of the above sums, since the services were rendered exclusively by his associate (Alfred Trueax)," the report said

School Board Choice Problem In Falls Church

The chief question apparently bothering Falls Church school system officials concerning the new city charter is whether school board members should be appointed by the city council or elected by the voters.

Members now are named by the council. At a meeting of the City Charter Commission and the school board last night, the consensus, according to Superintendent of Schools Irvin H. Schmitt, was that the voters should do the picking.

The charter commission is currently conducting a series of hearings to determine opinions about specific points in the proposed charter expected to take effect early next year.

Husband Slays Wife, Child, Wounds Son

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 2 (U.P.)—Officers tonight searched a three-State area for a middle-aged slayer of his wife and daughter, hoping to capture him before he carried out his vow to kill himself.

Armed with the rifle he used to shoot his family, W. F. Bean, 50-year-old automobile mechanic, so far had eluded a posse sweeping into sections of west Tennessee, eastern Arkansas and north Mississippi.

Mrs. Fannie Bean, 35, and her 11-year-old daughter, Doris Jean, were cut down by single shots in the head from a .22-caliber rifle.

Nine-year-old Donald Ray, one of Bean's four children by his second marriage, was wounded in the stomach.

Mrs. Mary Rice, a neighbor, said Bean was the father of seven other children by a former wife.

Mrs. Bean's two other children, Bonnie Fay, 9, and Thelma, 7, were not hurt but were horrified witnesses to the shooting.

They ran next door to tell Mrs. Rice what had happened and she rushed over to find Bean still at the small apartment.

"I was horrified to see two bodies on the floor in their bedroom, and Mr. Bean said 'Well, you see what I have done. It takes a man with guts to do something like that. And I am going to kill myself, too.'"

Mrs. Rice said Bean had given Donald Ray a pill "to ease his pain." he handed her a box of pills saying "Take this box and give him some more if he hurts too bad.'"

Bean told Mrs. Rice his wife had threatened him with divorce.

Boy Given $12,300 in Finger Loss

A boy who lost joints of four fingers in a meat grinder was awarded $12,300 damages in District Court yesterday.

A jury before Judge David A. Pine granted $12,000 to James Clifford Horton, now 16, son of George M. Horton, 619 10th st. ne. And it granted $300 to his father for medical expenses.

Testimony in the case was that the boy was employed when he was 15 in the grocery of Solomon Teichman, at 601 10th st. ne. Teichman now lives in Baltimore.

W. Cameron Burton and Thomas B. Heffelfinger, attorneys for the Hortons, alleged that Teichman was negligent when he employed the boy, and ordered him to clean the grinder at the time of the accident. The negligence, they charged, was in hiring a minor and failing to provide workmen's compensation insurance.

Infant's Death From Smothering Held Accidental

A certificate of accidental death due to asphyxia was issued yesterday by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald for Joel David Schneider, 2½ months old.

Police said a full investigation showed the child had been fed by its mother, Mrs. Harry Schneider, 3929 Clay pl. ne., then placed in a carriage in the back yard for a nap. There was not bottle left in the carriage, as previously reported, police said.

When the mother took a look at the baby a short time later, she found he had turned over on his face. The coroner said the child smothered.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

A Homemade Guessing Game

Home movies, television, bridge and a lot of other things have taken the place of home spelling bees, simple card games, riddles and guessing games of one kind or another.

Once in a while one of the old-fashioned pursuits is fun. In a sense, the advertising guessing game, which families have found to be fun, can't be old fashioned since it uses modern advertising as its take-off. But in spirit, it goes along with the parlor games of yesteryear.

One cuts from magazines advertising pictures—some very familiar ones and others that will be harder to guess. These are divested of any printing that would give a clue to the product they represent and pasted on pieces of cardboard.

Old and young alike can play. Two dozen or so cards are passed around. Each person has a minute or two to write down the name of the product or the company he thinks the picture represents. The winner, of course, is the one who guesses the greatest number correctly.

| I | E | O | U | N | O | L | D | V | G | N | T | E |

Count the letters in your first name. Subtract four if the number is six or more. Add three if the number is less than six. Then, you have the key number. Check each key number left to right. The letters under the checks form a message.

Army Ace Starts On World Air Trip To Honor Wrights

The Army ace who shot down Admiral Yamamoto of the Japanese Navy left Washington yesterday on a round-the-world flight in honor of the Wright brothers.

He is Tom Lanphier jr., who is carrying with him a message from President Truman to be read during ceremonies honoring the 46th anniversary of the Wright brothers flight, at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Lanphier is acting as a courier for the Air Force Association.

Riding as a passenger on a commercial airliner, Lanphier is scheduled to go to London, Brussels, Damascus, Iraq, India, Okinawa, Tokyo, Midway, Honolulu, Los Angeles, New York and Kitty Hawk in five days.

The Rose You Gave Me

I took the rose you gave me and . . . I put it in a vase . . . Along with all the memories . . . I never could erase . . . And it was red and beautiful . . . And fragrant as could be . . . And happily I told myself . . . That you remembered me . . . But one by one the petals fell . . . As shadows touched the dawn . . . And in the purple of the sky . . . I knew that you were gone . . . And now the day is lonely and . . . I wonder in my heart . . . Why you and I were meant to meet . . . And why we had to part . . . And now I save the petals of . . . The rose you gave to me . . . And each is soft and gentle as . . . A loving memory.

Why Don't They Work On Important Things?

Our scientists report that they're working on a rocket airplane which will be able to fly from New York to San Francisco in one hour.

That's very interesting. But if those scientists want to do something really useful, let them invent a way to get a woman's face made up in an hour.

DILEMMA

Mrs. James D. McLean of 3721 39th st. nw. wants advice on a very difficult problem, and she's probably come to the worst man in the world for it.

Six-year-old Doug McLean has dispatched the following letter to Santa Claus:

"Dear Santa: I want a big Diesel train, if you think I am big enough. If you don't, bring me a steam engine. Please bring me a Diesel. Love, Doug."

Promptly on receipt of the letter, Santa went out to price trains. A beginner's steam engine can be had for about $16, a sum which "a middle-sized Government paycheck can cover without too much inconvenience."

But the only Diesel Santa could find runs about $60. And its purchase would mean "either time payments or dipping into savings."

Inasmuch as this is probably Santa's last year with Doug, the issue is:

"Do we keep that wonderful legend intact? Or do we let Doug know that even Santa has his limitations?"

I'm afraid that many of my readers will howl that I'm selfish and hard-hearted. But I vote against the Diesel.

A parent's job is to prepare his children for Life; and Life gives no man everything he wishes for.

When you learn to take the bitter with the sweet, you've grown up. But some of us never learn—and never grow up—because our parents kept us living in an unreal dream world for too long.

So I say: Let Santa bring Doug his second choice, to teach him that the secret of happiness is not getting what you want, but learning to want the things you've got.

Let Doug play with his steam engine and look forward to the day when he'll progress to a Diesel. Whether or not he ever achieves that goal, he'll at least be sparked by ambition.

He'll know that there's always something up ahead that's worth working for.

"Well-mannered mother cat and two 2-month-old kittens." (Oliver 7774.)

"Two fine 7-month-old kittens with excellent house manners." (Johnson 3-3758 between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. or between 4 and 6 p. m.)

PERSONAL NOTES

Mrs. R. Rowland Stabler, Sandy Spring, Md. No, I'm not a Howdy Doody fan because I don't own a television set yet. I've bought a "voice" in half the churches in town, an iron lung, a camp for underprivileged children and a scholarship fund—but so far I haven't won anything yet. I think it would have been cheaper to buy a set.

CRIME & PUNISHMENT

A scar-faced gunman robbed a Silver Spring widow of $3.09 the other day, and then calmly helped himself to three cups of the coffee she had been brewing.

That couldn't have happened at our house. Half-way through the first cup the robber would have been ready to give back the $3.09 and go straight.

ᔓᔕ

THERE'LL COME A DAY

A local landlord has been convicted of shooting his tenant. Mark my words: One of these days the housing shortage will be over, and tenants will begin to resent this sort of thing.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—From the President's vacation retinue at Key West, Fla., came the report about Ambassador-at-Large Phil Jessup, the United States delegate to the U. N. Jessup had been offered many attractive jobs—at Yale, Columbia and the University of Chicago—and turned them down. In Key West now the rumor is that Jessup finally has found the job he'll take—succeeding Alger Hiss as head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Alexander Ince, the producer, returned from London this week with the story of the English boy who heard about the devaluation of the British pound and asked his father what it meant. "I'll put it this way," the father explained. "Before devaluation, we had wine, women and song. And now," he said, "we have beer, your mother and gramaphone records."

John Crosby placed a long-distance phone call to Ed Gardner of "Duffy's Tavern," who now lives in Puerto Rico. Gardner moved there because of the special income tax benefits offered by the government in its campaign to attract new businesses to Puerto Rico . . . While the call was being put through, the phone operator said: "I once went to school with an Ed Gardner. I wonder if he's the one. What's he doing in Puerto Rico?" . . . "A scheme to save money," said Crosby . . . The operator said: "Same guy."

Kinuyo Tanaka, the Japanese film actress, who styles herself "the Bette Davis of Japan," managed to meet Miss Davis in Hollywood and then was taken on a tour of the studios . . . It included a visit to MGM, whose press department announced the event in a publicity release. Because Bette Davis is not an MGM actress, the release referred to Kinuyo Tanaka as "the Lana Turner of Japan."

Democrats Pick Negro for Job

By Drew Pearson

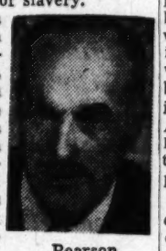
Very quietly this week, a Negro was made vice chairman of the party which once went to war over the issue of slavery.



Pearson

The Negro is Congressman William Dawson of Chicago, and the man whose place he is taking as vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee is Boss Frank Hague of Jersey City.

The change was engineed by Democratic National Chairman William Boyle and has an interesting background.

The vice chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee long was held by Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago. Kelly, an active Roosevelt man, made the position important. After his retirement as mayor, the vice chairmanship went to Boss Hague of New Jersey, who last month suffered a crushing defeat.

At that time Hague announced that he was ready to resign as vice chairman of the committee, and Bill Boyle expressed the hope privately that he would.

"I'd grab his resignation in a minute," Boyle told friends.

This week Boyle acted. William Dawson, long a Democratic member of Congress from Chicago, last January was the first Negro Congressman to become chairman of a congressional committee. As head of the House Expenditures Committee he has got along well with broad-minded Representatives Hardy of Virginia, Lanham of Georgia and Bonner of North Carolina. So Chairman Boyle quietly elevated him to the vice chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

GOP And Negro Vote

Even more interesting is the political background behind Dawson's appointment.

The Chicago district which sends him to Congress used to be Republican. And during the Herbert Hoover landslide in 1928, it sent Oscar De Priest, Negro Republican, to Congress—the first Negro elected to that body in many years. Result was a hue and cry from Washington society, including many Republicans, that Congressman De Priest should not be invited to the regular White House reception which the President gives to all members of Congress.

President Hoover did not take a forthright stand on the matter, and although De Priest was finally invited, the debate hurt the GOP's standing with the big-city Negro populations. Various other factors were involved, of course, such as FDR's relief program, and Truman's civil rights program, but ever since then, the Republicans have lost the Negro vote.

Guarding Austrian Art

A guard of 115 men stand watch over the rare Austrian art collection on display at the National Art Gallery during the daytime. Twenty more, plus a squadron of military police, stand watch on Saturdays and Sundays. "We tell them to remain as unobtrusive as possible, but to keep their eyes open," says the gallery's administrator, Col. Harry McBride.

President Truman was so taken by the collection during a private viewing that he remained for an hour and a half, admiring the quaint old antiques, carved ivories, suits of armor, and the Cellini salt cellar. However, the President was most impressed by the paintings, particularly one of Rembrandt's self-portraits.

World Food Bank

There has been a lot of backstage Cabinet debate over the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization's plan to feed the world's needy areas from United States farm surpluses. Though President Truman has given his official blessing, his Secretary of States and Secretary of Agriculture are definitely against it.

They are not opposed to the principle of feeding the hungry, but to the cost and machinery involved. What the FAO advocates is an international clearing house where surplus commodities could be gathered, then distributed to impoverished nations. Secretary Acheson's opposition to this idea has been well known, but it was thought Secretary Brannan was opposed to him. However, he is not.

Their joint opposition is based on the fact that a world food clearing house would cost an estimated five billion dollars, to be divided among nations according to their national income, which would mean Uncle Sam would foot about half the bill. In other words, it would cost Uncle Sam about 500 million dollars the first year to give away only 360 million dollars worth of surpluses.

Therefore Acheson and Brannan argue that it would be cheaper just to give away the surpluses. They are sure Congress will think so, too.

Food Surpluses

Brannan and Acheson had a joint session at the White House the other day at which they gave the President the following facts:

The Department of Agriculture now has in its bins 236 million pounds of dried skimmed milk, 80 million pounds of butter and 64 million pounds of dried eggs, worth a total of about 360 million dollars. But Europeans will not eat the dried milk and eggs. The wheat on hand, which they will eat, is just enough to supply regular customers and keep a small reserve in case of emergency. Corn isn't popular in Europe and can't easily be shipped abroad.

So far the only crops curtailed in this country are tobacco, peanuts and potatoes. Peanuts are too expensive for basic food, and potatoes can be shipped overseas only when refrigeration conditions are right. The first shipload, intended for Europe after the war, had to be dumped in the bay before it left port.

These were the arguments that Acheson and Brannan took to President Truman. He agreed that first emphasis should be placed on his "Point Four" program to help backward countries help themselves. But he didn't want to appear uncharitable nor to throw cold water on the food and agriculture organization. So he promised to "work wholeheartedly" with FAO in planning better food distribution, though he will not support the food clearing house idea.
